Britain's shrinking pound

As it drops close to $2, Mideast sellout and Labor militants take share of blame

£ £ £ £

By JOHN HAY

LONDON (CP) — Mystery money deals by a Middle East oil state and fears of a leftward lurch by Britain's Labor government may have been responsible for the drop of the British pound to an all-time low this week.

That is the view on the London money market, where the pound reached a record depreciation of 19.7 per cent from its 1971 value, measured against a basket of 10 other major currencies.

The pound traded Thursday at $2.03 in U.S. funds and $2.08 Canadian, its lowest ever. Dealers said only intervention by the Bank of England — the government's money manager — kept sterling from sliding further.

The pound has suffered a bumpy downhill ride throughout the year. But two new factors appear to have accelerated the trend, which makes British goods cheaper abroad and foreign imports costlier at home.

A rich Middle East oil state — some say Iran — is reported to be selling sterling in favor of French francs, possibly to finance an impending arms purchase from France.

Usual money market secrecy so far has concealed the facts, but heavy selling of sterling by at least one major holder is clearly continuing, and the franc has been rising — indicating somebody is bidding heavily in Paris.

France's own central bank has stepped in to buy U.S. dollars and sell francs to keep the value of the franc from rising too quickly.

Observers also attribute sterling's decline to the Labor party conference in Blackpool

Victim Rui Sa

MONTREAL (CP) — A senior police officer says police are 95 per cent sure that a bank robber who died after hijacking a school bus carrying 13 children Wednesday had shot himself and that the same bullet killed six-year-old Rui Sa.

Lieut. Emile Boire, head of the Montreal Urban Community police homicide squad, told a news conference Thursday this was one of the principal results of a preliminary investigation into the death of Denis Martel, 33.

'Best thing to do' in situation

"Our results indicate he shot himself, and the same bullet that killed him, killed the boy also," said Boire.

Earlier reports had indicated Martel was shot by a policeman following a 30-minute high-speed chase through the city's east end after an attempted bank robbery.

Boire said the police officer "apparently" did not hit Martel in the ensuing shootout after he commandeered school bus was halted when a police car rammed into it.

Boire said a 9-millimetre spent bullet, believed to have come from Martel's Luger automatic pistol, was found in the centre of the bus and is thought to have passed through Martel's head and hit the schoolboy.

When police arrived during a robbery at a branch of the Bank Canadian National, police said a gunman dropped a satchel containing $3,600 and ran to a bus which had stopped to take on elementary school children two blocks away. He then forced driver Claude Chaput to take him on a 10-mile route through busy streets at speeds of up to 80 miles an hour.

In a tape recording of the chase played to reporters, a police helicopter directing the operation gave repeated warnings not to follow the bus too closely, nor to fire at it because of the children inside.

Shaved jail terms out, Allmand says

OTTAWA (CP) — Solicitor-General Warren Allmand said Thursday Parliament probably will be asked to repeal a law that has the potential to reduce prison sentences by about 25 per cent.

Allmand also indicated that the law on habitual criminals, now seldom used, will be toughened. He was being peppered with questions about Denis Martel, 33, who abducted a school bus full of children in fleeing a bank robbery in Montreal Wednesday. (See story on left.) Martel and one of the children were shot to death during a gun battle with police.

Martel, who had a record going back to 1963, had been released from a federal prison Sept. 9 and would have faced trial this month for an armed robbery last February.

He had been released on $5,000 bail in February after being charged and was returned to prison for about four months to serve another portion of earlier sentences.

Even Montreal police were under the impression Wednesday that Martel was another homicidal parolee but Allmand and the national parole board said Martel wasn't on parole.

"He had reached the end of his sentence as calculated under terms of law," Allmand said. "He had to be let go. There was no choice."

"We're reforming this whole area right now. We hope to correct the abuses or weaknesses."

Martel was released because what is called earned and statutory remission had reduced the time he had to spend in prison from five years and 662 days to about four years.

He had been released under "mandatory supervision" — which means he had to see a parole officer regularly — in August, 1974.

A warrant ordering him back to prison was issued after he was granted bail in February, but he wasn't picked up until May. He was imprisoned but once again remission meant he had to be released Sept. 9.

Statutory remission covers about 25 per cent of a sentence. Earned remission, for good behavior in prison, can bring the total reduction to about one-third.

"We're going to retain earned remission," Allmand said. "It encourages prisoners to work, to learn something."

But statutory remission, a

Beer's back on tap

An informational picket line which has blocked the delivery entrance to Labatt's brewery for two days, was lifted Thursday afternoon and the beer trucks were on the road again.

The picket line, set up by frustrated and angry Nanaimo hotel owners and some of their employees, had threatened continued operations at 20 Greater Victoria pubs which rely on Labatt's deliveries for their beer supplies. About another eight taverns are closed because of a strike by drivers employed by Pacific Brewers Distributing.

Labatt's spokesman Bruce Thom said Thursday night the line was removed after an investigating officer with the Labor Relations Board talked to the pickets, but Thom said the men left of their own volition.

Labatt's applied to the board Wednesday, asking for an order to have its driveway cleared.

If the line had remained up, the brewery would have been forced to start laying off employees tolay.

The Nanaimo pickets were protesting the closure of many up-Island taverns as a result of the beer distribution strike.

Labatt's and other breweries make some deliveries directly to taverns in the immediate area of the breweries, but most beer deliveries are handled by Pacific Brewers.

Hostages freed from restaurant

LONDON (UPI) — Six hostages held by three men in the basement of a restaurant since early Sunday were released early today, climaxing a drama that began as bungled robbery attempt. The gunmen were brought out individually 20 minutes later.

Earlier Thursday, police arrested an Italian and a German and charged them with conspiring with one of the holdup men who had held the hostages for five days in a basement storeroom.

TRUDEAU HAT TRICK

6 pounds, 9 inches

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau beamed and passed out cigars after his wife Margaret gave birth to their third son early Thursday at Ottawa Civic Hospital.

"Don't take them all, I need some for cabinet," he told reporters when he arrived on Parliament Hill after waiting up most of the night for his new son's arrival. He was carrying a two-foot-long wooden box filled with Royal Jamaican cigars.

The baby, born at 2:30 a.m., weighed seven pounds, 14 ounces but Trudeau got things mixed up when he first called friends to spread the news.

"Six pounds and nine inches," he recalled saying at one point to those who were among the first to hear.

He acknowledged being "a little shaked" by the birth which kept him up until 4 a.m. and made him 10 minutes late for the regular Thursday meeting of cabinet. Normally, his grammar is impeccable.

Mrs. Trudeau, who appeared publicly with her husband Wednesday afternoon at the National Arts Centre, entered hospital about 10 p.m. The 26-year-old mother and the baby were doing "very well indeed," Trudeau said.

The Trudeaus, married March 5, 1971, in a secret certmony at North Vancouver, have two other sons, both born on Christmas Day — Justin in 1971 and Alexandre Emmanuel, better known as Sacha, two years later.

No name has been picked for the latest son.

'Most unfortunate war'

President Ford and Japanese Emperor Hirohito exchange greetings during their White House meeting Thursday. Hirohito said he deeply deplored "that most unfortunate war" in which 1.5 million Japanese servicemen were killed. It's Hirohito's first U.S. visit.

Tighter control likely over U.S. TV inflow

MONTREAL (CP) — The government may impose tighter controls over the powerful influence of United States television in Canada, says Communications Minister Pierre Juneau.

In future, Canadians likely will see fewer programs from U.S. border television stations as the reorganized Canadian Radio-Television Commission takes action to shield domestic broadcasters from growing foreign competition, Juneau said Thursday. The commission is to have responsibilty for telecommunications in proposed reorganization to be proclaimed by Parliament during its next session.

Juneau, 52, was interviewed Thursday in a campaign office in the working-class east Montreal riding of Hochelaga, where he is seeking the seat of former communications minister Gerard Pelletier in a byelection Oct. 14.

The new minister quit a 26-year public service career Aug. 29, joined the Liberal party and moved into the cabinet from his post as CRTC chairman.

He said solutions to the conflict between broadcasters and cable television operators probably will result in "reducing some American influence but not keeping Americans off" domestic television screens. Broadcasters, who say they are losing advertising money because cable has increased competition from distant television stations, want the government to black out cable-carried programming that is simultaneously available on local channels.

Juneau
. . . violence pays

The CRTC has already ordered some cable companies to delete advertising from U.S. stations and substitute Canadian material, and the government has introduced legislation prohibiting domestic advertisers from claiming tax deductions for money spent on American border stations.

Juneau said the CRTC could work toward more extensive deletions of competing foreign programming and could even institute a rule banning all

Cabinet shuffle is near

By JIM HUME
Colonist Reporter

Speculation that a provincial cabinet shuffle is in the offing increased Thursday as the cabinet met for close to an hour beyond its normal time.

Premier Barrett refused comment on the reason for the extra-long meeting but other sources indicated that cabinet changes were on the agenda.

"I don't comment on topics discussed at cabinet meetings," the premier said.

For several weeks now there have been indications that Transport and Communications Minister Robert Strachan and Mines Minister Leo Nimsick would soon be stepping down from their cabinet posts. Last week in Trail Premier Barrett passed the comment that possibly his holding of two portfolios, that of premier and minister of finance, had outlived its usefulness.

Agricultural Minister David Stupich, a chartered accountant, has been suggested as the possible successor if Barrett relinquishes the finance post.

Since making his original statement during a radio hotline show in Trail the premier has refused to elaborate. Earlier this week he repeated that the dual cabinet post has possibly outlived its usefulness" but again declined to say when he would be step-

B.C. seeks free ideas for own TV programs

A television talent hunt geared to provide public TV programs over the CBC provincial network was announced Thursday by Communications Minister Robert Strachan.

Strachan said 13 half-hour programs would begin in prime viewing time some time during the 1977 TV season.

In an extensive newspaper advertising campaign, Strachan is inviting the public to submit ideas for programs to Communications Mandate, the official title of the project.

Strachan said the invitation to participate was open to all citizens and that all proposals would be treated confidentially. The proposals must not exceed 500 words and should concentrate on themes uniquely relevant to B.C.

A footnote on the newspaper advertisements notes "there will be no payment for any of the program proposals" nor is the crown obliged "to develop or produce any of the proposals received."

In a background paper released with the Strachan announcement the minister says: "The Mandate is to enhance the provincial communications environment through expanded and new use of the important media technologies of film, video tape and VHF television broadcast. The operational priority of Communications Mandate is to provide increased opportunities for local talent to participate in the production of program material."

ing: "I believe it was the best thing to do under the circumstances."

Meanwhile, parents of seven children who were taken to hospital with slight injuries, as well as relatives of the dead schoolboy, questioned the actions of police.

"I don't understand it, why did police undertake such a chase?" asked Salina da Costa, uncle of the dead boy.

Police and National Parole Board officials began searching their files to establish why Martel was out on the street instead of being in jail awaiting trial on armed robbery charges.

In Ottawa, the National Parole Board said that Martel was not officially on parole when he robbed the bank.

A spokesman said Martel was released from prison in September under mandatory supervision by a parole officer. The release was not a parole decision. Under law, Martel's release was automatic and was based on time off his sentence for good behavior.

In August, 1974, he had been released under mandatory supervision. But a suspension order was issued last February after Martel disappeared while on bail shortly after being charged with conspiracy, robbery and possessing a firearm.

He was picked up in June and returned to prison before his release again in September.

Barrett has stated that there will be an election next year but he hasn't said when.

Nimsick, 67, was first elected to the Legislature in 1949.

Strachan, once leader of the NDP when it sat in official opposition, was first elected in the Cowichan-Malahat riding in 1952. He will be 62 in December.

Strachan has been touted as the new B.C. agent-general in London, a job recently vacated by Rear-Admiral Michael Stirling. Provincial Secretary Ernest Hall has confirmed that a new agent-general will be appointed in a few days but he won't say who is getting the job.

Nimsick has stated in the past that this could be his last term in the Legislature and that he doubted if he would seek re-election the next time the people go to the polls. He is MLA for Kootenay.

IT'S A FAIRLY SAFE conclusion that each and every one of you will spend roughly 1,100 hours before the television set this next 12 months. Quick calculation shows this adds up to better than 45 full days and that's a lot of time to sit and do nothing.

So for the flat-bottomed and squinty-eyed set, I will attempt to make those 45 days as comfortable as possible by weeding out the garbage from this season's list of oldies and newies. There is one major problem, however, I might over-weed and leave you considerably short of the 45 allotted days. If such is the case, the husbands among you will be able to put that time to good use attacking all those little jobs the wives have been complaining about for untold months.

THROUGH much sacrifice and a strong consitution, I have managed to review most of the new programs being offered. It was not an easy task and the results show the time might well have been expended in a more constructive manner, like watching the leaves turn color.

It is not, I suggest, a vintage year. It is a year of more spin-offs. Like Phyllis, starring Cloris Leachman. Actually, Cloris Leachman doesn't star — she goes through her same old tired, dumb broad routines that must be anathema to the average woman viewer. On the Mary Tyler Moore show she was bearable for short stretches. For a full half hour — forget it — fix the worn out washer on the bathroom tap.

THERE'S a half hour show called the Return of Kotter that shows some promise. A school teacher in a tough section of Brooklyn (is there any other kind of section in Brooklyn?) has his problems with a high school class and I've found a fair number of laughs in it. At least it isn't another shoot-em-up cops and robbers.

Switch — an hour show with Eddie Albert and Robert Wagner — a pair of con artists working for law and order. Some good moments, but on the whole, pretty contrived and if it lasts the whole season I'll be surprised.

MEL BROOKS is supposedly one of the funniest men in television, but his new, When Things Were Rotten show suggests he is resting on past laurels. A Robin Hood-type thing that should have been mercifully left on the cutting room floor. Clean out the garage during this time slot.

If variety programming is your shticke, forget the Howard Cosell self-agrandizement show and get your fun instead from the new Bobby Vinton Show — a CTV production. Cosell is bound to wear out the welcome mat in short order and receive an early pink slip from ABC, whereas Vinton puts on a refreshing show and he monages some pretty good guests. Leave Cosell on Monday night football, but remove him from Saturday Night Live.

I THOUGHT we had enough medical shows on the tube, but this year we have Dr. George Peppard in a new one called Doctor's Hospital. Don't punish yourself with even one viewing. It is a lost cause and Peppard, who vowed he would never work another series after the demise of Banacek, should have stood by the decision. Clean out the leaves.

CBC has a new one called Fifth Estate with Warner Troyer, an attempt to cash in on the popularity of CBS' 60 Minutes, but an attempt that falls far short of realization. Chuck it.

Joe Forrester is another cop thing along the same dreary lines as Police Woman, Cannon, Harry O, Kojak, etc. At least Police Woman has the beautiful legs of Angie Dickenson. Starsky and Hutch, another blood and gore hour with nothing to recommend it unless you like blood and gore.

THE SUCCESS of The Waltons spawned Little House on the Prairie and now, the Family Holvak. Bring back the Plouffe Family, it was better than all of them combined.

MASH isn't MASH without Wayne Rogers and Maclean Stevenson, which is unfornate. The laughs just aren't there anymore.

Add SWAT, Matt Helm and Ellery Queen to the list of predictable whodunits. Put a new filter into the furnace instead.

The ABC Sunday night movie feature appears to have some great ones lined up, with Serpico and For Pete's Sake being two good starts.

If you're looking for a lawyer, you might try Kate McShane — she's much better to look at than Owen Marshall.

IT WOULD SEEM, therefore, to be slim pickings from the lovingly-prepared new crop. You will have to make do with the old standbys.

The picking might be slim here as well but you've still got ol' Bunker, the Jeffersons, Bob Newhart, Carol Burnett, Mary Tyler Moore, Carson, (if you're up that late) WE5, 60 Minutes, Front Page Challenge, Beachcombers for the youngsters and Rockford Files if for no other reason than the fact James Garner is a superb actor.

And for the wives. Now that friend husband has fixed the faucet, cleaned the eaves, straightened out the garage and replaced the furnace filter, you must allow him complete privacy for Monday night football, Sunday afternoon football, golf, tennis and hockey, Saturday night hockey and all games of the World Series.

hangover from the time when there was no parole, likely would be repealed in the "peace and security" legislation currently being drafted.

Reporters asked how a man with a record like Martel's could have been granted bail, released early, and not held as an habitual criminal. Allmand replied that the prosecutor could have asked the court to have Martel committed as an habitual criminal.

Martel went to prison in June, 1970, for four years and 62 days after being convicted of possession of firearms, receiving stolen goods and extortion.

He applied for parole in 1971 and was rejected. The next year he escaped, was captured and was sentenced to an additional year. He again was denied parole in 1973.

He was released from prison on Aug. 23, 1974, to serve the remaining 362 days of his sentences under "mandatory supervision".

Last February he was charged with conspiracy, robbery and possession of a firearm and released on bail.

At the same time the parole board revoked his release. The warrant wasn't executed until May, when Martel went back to jail.

Pound

Convention delegates have largely endorsed the government's anti-inflation policies — considered essential—for keeping foreign confidence in the pound. But the surging influence of the left may be felt in future government policies, some market observers say.

The government has long seen inflation — now more than 25 per cent here — as a serious threat to international confidence in the British economy. As British prices rise, pounds buy less. At some point, the government fears, foreign investors would flee sterling in favor of stronger currencies.

The left wing of the Labor party has been pressing for reflation of the economy to reduce unemployment. But Healey and Prime Minister Wilson have insisted that premature reflation would mean more inflation.

With the pound falling further, foreign investors now will be looking for yet another assurance from the government that its anti-inflation campaign will persist unchecked by its own left wing.

Reports in the last couple of months have suggested that the Bank of England was ready to let the pound fall, in the hope that consequently cheaper exports would find markets in recovering economies abroad.

But recoveries in the United States and West Germany have been slower than expected, so their demand for British goods has lagged behind predictions.

Dealers also say that the deep decline of the pound this week may have been accentuated with several oil exporting countries converting their third-quarter sterling royalties into other currencies.

Several underdeveloped countries may also have been forced to withdraw sterling holdings from London to finance their continuing trade deficits.

Your Good Health

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a two-year-old with chronic diarrhea, which has been diagnosed as spastic stomach and duodenum. Is it possible that the underlying cause could be celiac disease? How is celiac disease recognized and what is its treatment?

Mrs. M. W.

Celiac disease has rather obvious and dramatic symptoms (irritability, growth retardation, weakness, protruding abdomen, bulky, loose, pale stools, and alternating diarrhea and constipation). Your physician would have had sufficient reason to suspect celiac disease if present. Also, examination of feces show higher levels of fat than normally would appear.

Stomach spasm often occurs in highly tense individuals, which probably can be ruled out in your two-year-old. Stomach spasm can be caused by an ulcer or a narrowing of the stomach outlet.

Follow-up x-rays can detect these, if present. The best thing for you to do is follow the doctor's suggestion with regard to diet, and if the problem continues, then you can discuss other approaches — surgery, etc. A milk intolerance is also a possibility.

Black Ulster day sees 11 killings

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Eleven persons were killed Thursday in the worst wave of sectarian bombings and killings in months in Northern Ireland.

Most of the victims appeared to be Roman Catholics and police said they blamed gangs out for revenue following a bombing wave by the Irish Republican Army last week.

Four died in three assassination attacks in Belfast. At least four more were killed when the bomb they were transporting in an automobile apparently exploded prematurely near Coleraine, 45 miles from Belfast.

Two more victims — one a woman — died in bullet and bomb attacks on Catholic-owned bars in the Belfast area. And one man was killed in a bomb blast against a Belfast photographic store.

Scores more were injured throughout the day when Catholic-owned homes, bars and shops were bombed.

But police said at least one victim was a Protestant, apparently caught up in an internal feud among Protestant-loyalist extremist groups.

In one of the bloodiest incidents, police found the Roman Catholic manager of Casey's liquor store shot to death and his wife and secretary critically wounded. Both women died shortly after they were taken to a hospital.

A Roman Catholic youth who ran out of the store to give the alarm was found shot through the neck and slumped in a pool of blood on the pavement.

He was in hospital and doctors said his condition was "very serious."

In a second Belfast shooting incident, the manager of a bar patronized by members of a Protestant paramilitary group was shot at point-blank range and killed when he answered a knock at the door of his home.

One man died and two others were seriously hurt in a bomb explosion at a photographic store on the outskirts of Belfast.

Wage, price controls possibility—Mackasey

TORONTO (CP) — Public failure to act on its own to ease inflationary pressures will force the federal government to impose some kind of formula to alleviate the country's economic problems, Postmaster-General Bryce Mackasey said Thursday.

Ottawa is stil tryingl to persuade business and labor to agree on a voluntary restraint plan, Mackasey said in a luncheon speech to the Empire Club of Canada. But wage and price controls have not been ruled out if persuasive tactics do not bring a consensus, he told reporters later.

The minister said he personally favors a system of voluntary controls and the current "mood of the country" indicated that "we are making much more progress than we were six months ago."

But he refused to say how patient the government will be in waiting for voluntary action on the part of the public.

"You'll have to ask Big Mac about that," he said, referring to Donald Macdonald, who took over as federal finance minister in last week's cabinet shuffle.

Mackasey also spoke briefly to reporters about contract negotiations between the post office and its 22,000 inside workers.

A conciliation board report was expected to be handed down soon, possibly today, and he was fairly optimistic that a settlement would be reached without a strike.

There was no reason for a walkout "unless the position of the union were absolutely irresponsible." In any case, the government "won't tolerate an illegal strike and I think the average worker knows it."

"We'll settle through consultation, not confrontation . . . I think I'm expressing the views of 95 per cent of the union membership."

The inside workers, members of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers, have been without a contract since last Dec. 31.

The union is asking for wage increases of 71 per cent — about $3 an hour — in a one-year contract. Last spring, the government offered $1.15 an hour in a 32-month contract. The inside worker's average hourly wage is about $4.54.

Patty indicted on 11 charges

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The U.S. justice department Thursday provided an expanded official version of the kidnapping of Patricia Hearst, her conversion to the philosophy of the Symbionese Liberation Army and her 19-month underground flight.

Meanwhile in Los Angeles, Miss Hearst and William and Emily Harris were indicted by a grand jury on 11 counts each of kidnapping, assault with a deadly weapon and robbery carrying a maximum possible penalty of life in prison.

The action cleared the way for the Harris couple to go to trial in Los Angeles within 60 days if the two wish to claim that constitutional right.

Back in San Francisco, the justice department confirmed reports in Rolling Stone magazine, The Oakland Tribune and The San Francisco Chronicle which gave details of what happened from her kidnapping on Feb. 4, 1974, up to just before her arrest in San Francisco Sept. 18.

"I can't confirm it line by line, but my understanding is that it is essentially accurate," Robert Stevenson, a spokesman for the justice department, told reporters in answer to a question about an account published in Rolling Stone earlier this week.

Stevenson also said he could confirm the accuracy of The Tribune's report that FBI agents found the "memoirs" of Harris in the SLA "safehouse" where he was captured along with his wife. The diary contains information on the kidnapping as well as the robbery of the Hibernia bank branch in San Francisco in April, 1974.

Miss Hearst, 21, has been charged with bank robbery and use of an automatic weapon in commission of the crime.

The federal spokesman also confirmed reports that Miss Hearst rented a Sacramento, Calif., garage where a getaway car was kept prior to an April 21 bank robbery in which a woman was killed.

Montreal ups transit fares

MONTREAL (CP) — The city transit commission has announced fare increases that would make single fares in Montreal the hightest in Canada. Single fares on city subway and bus lines will rise to 50 cents from 35 cents Oct. 12, the chairman of the Montreal Urban Community Transit Commission told a news conference.

No time for boasting

"WE ARE GOING TO PRESS ON with the most responsible government in Canada," Premier David Barrett boasted on Tuesday, while Nanaimo hotel operators set up information pickets outside a Victoria brewery and the legislative buildings in protest over past and present woes brought about by work stoppages in which the government has failed to intervene.

Labor disputes in the brewery industry during the summer and interruption of delivery by employees of Pacific Brewers' Distributing, in conjunction with the Teamsters' Union strike which deprives them of propane gas threaten their ruin, the hotelmen say.

Already three mid-Island hotels are bankrupt, a spokesman said.

The situation is sad enough for business, but it is desperate for the home-owner who depends upon gas for kitchen and home-heating. There are about 1,400 of them in the Nanaimo area alone.

Nanaimo city council, understandably apprehensive, on Monday passed a motion asking for compulsory arbitration in any situation where the public is being seriously hurt in a labor dispute. Since this one has been in progress since July 21, the council's action seems to have come a little tardily.

Nevertheless, it deserves support from every sector. Mailmen and bus drivers, policemen and firemen, public servants and public utility workers should never consider stoppages in essential services in any circumstances.

Eventually, parties to any dispute as well as the government, know some sort of settlement is inevitable. So why should it be necessary to cause inconvenience, suffering and even serious risk to life and property when there are simpler and saner methods that can be employed?

Mr. Barrett's boast of responsible government sounds singularly feckless in the circumstances. Or else the government leader has a definition for responsibility obscure to the average elector.

When, after weeks of futile bargaining, propane distributors and union spokesmen indulge in this ping-pong game of proposal and counter-proposal, with each side rejecting, a responsible government concerned for the victims of this disagreement would take steps to force a settlement — even if it were not entirely satisfactory to both sides.

The Nanaimo situation may be insignificant in relation to the broader and more destructive conflicts in progress, but it is pretty important to the householder who can't make a fire in his kitchen or keep the family warm at night.

Mr. Barrett's responsible government ought to realize it.

ALMOST EVERYONE knows what David Barrett thinks of chartered banks. They're usurious. They make scandalous profits from outrageous lending rates for people who must borrow money. They do nothing for the ordinary man. Nothing for social benefit.

Now the credit union movement is something else again. It is a financial institution "with a heart." At least it is "experimenting with low-cost mortgages, which is 100 per cent more than the banks are doing."

Great. But wait . . .

Wrong direction

SO IMPORTANT is decentralization to the Trudeau government that, for instance, in the name of this policy a whole division of the supply and services department is to be moved from Ottawa to Matane on the Gaspe Peninsula at a cost to the taxpayers estimated now at early $10 million. Estimates are made these days in government to be far exceeded, and we suggested when this move was announced that it was an extravagant farce, designed as much to promote the "French fact" as to decentralize government and bring 250 jobs into an area of high unemployment.

But there are other examples of a real concern for moving authority and jobs out of Ottawa and across the coustry, which is described by Treasury Board President Jean Chretien, the cabinet member responsible for it, as "a major priority for the Canada of the 1980s."

In a speech last month Mr. Chretien spoke of progress in increasing the authority of field staffs, and serious efforts being made to reduce the proportion of employees in the national capital: "You are probably familiar with the move of the Mint extension to Winnipeg, the Transport Training Institute to Cornwall, the development of Taxation Data Centres in each region, the location of the headquarters of the Northern Canada Power Corporation in Edmonton, the location of the headquarters of the Canadian Development Corporation in Vancouver, and . . . the announced relocation of part of the Services Administration to Matane . . ."

Too much of the public service not serving a particular clientele remained in the national capital, Mr. Chretien continued, and it was clear that as long as only 14 per cent of senior executives were located outside the National Capital Region, there was a great deal of room for initiative in this area as well: "I say this because more must be done in both areas to bring the Public Service of Canada closer to the citizens it serves . . ."

It is in this context that we note that The Province's maritime columnist Norman Hacking has reported that the office of the registrar of shipping at Vancouver is to be closed, giving more jobs to minor civil servants in Ottawa; that port registry offices at Victoria and Prince Rupert also are due for oblivion; that the "inconvenience to the general boating public will be incalculable. Those who want to register bills of sale or mortgages may have to wait months. There will no longer be a simple access for personal inspection of a ship's legal history. Marine researchers will be deprived of an invaluable source of information."

Mr. Chretien, are you there?

The truth will out

Unpleasant facts of communism

By LUBOR J. ZINK from Ottawa

It is possible to supress unpleasant facts we do not want to face. It is possible to ignore them and pretend they do not exist, or to belittle and ridicule them. But in the long run the truth will out. When it does, it wells up in a way that's impossible to suppress, conceal or ignore. It may still be belittled and ridiculed, but those who persist in doing it demean and finally discredit themselves.

For at least two decades now the intellectual elite of the western world has known the facts of the inhumanity and misery of the Communist system, yet has maintained what can only be described as conspiracy of silence. Why?

Because facing the facts which clearly show applied Marxism to be in the same category of totalitarian horror as Nazism would have required drawing the logical consequences. It would have meant, to begin with, a complete revision of the whole liberal-left philosophy and policy direction that permeates the power instructure of the democracies. It would have required giving up comfortable illusions of buying our own security and affluence with appeasement deals at the expense of some distant countries we know little about, as Chamberlain once put it.

Communism, first admired in Soviet Russia and then when Khrushchev revealed some of its horrors, in Mao's China or Castro's Cuba, was depicted as the vehicle of revolutionary progress. Anyone who tried to tell the unvarnished truth about the thoroughly reactionary, brutal nature of the Communist system, was either vilified or ridiculed, treated as mentally deranged, or simply ignored.

All the time, however, incontrovertible facts were piling up under the smooth surface of pleasant and profitable deceptions until the truth burst through with irrepressible moral force.

The breakthrough came with the spiritual magnificence and purity of Alexander Solzhenitsyn's testimony from inside the U.S.S.R.

While Nobel Prize author Solzhenitsyn hasn't added anything new to what has long been known about the nature, methods and goals of communism, he has summed up and expressed it all better than anyone else. And his awe-inspiring courage, coupled with uncompromising integrity and superb intellect, has made a deep impression all over the world. Attempts to ridicule or ignore him are thus futile.

The core of Solzhenitsyn's testimony is in three volumes of his documentary Gulag Archipelago. Few people, unfortunately, are likely to read this massive indictment of Red fascism, or even substantial parts of it. It does not lend itself to comic strip presentation, TV serialization or Reader's Digest condensation.

Solzhenitsyn himself, however, provided the political essence of his testimony in the two addresses he delivered this summer in the United States. I have alreay quoted extensively from these important (and largely ignored) speeches to AFL-CIO audiences but haven't yet covered all the main points.

So before Parliament returns I'll sneak in a few more excerpts with the hope that readers of this column may be enticed to get the full text which is now available in an excellently produced booklet from AFL-CIO, Pamphlet Division, 815-16th Street, N.W., Washingtn, D.C., 20006, for 35 cents. (The brochure, titled The Voice of Freedom, is also available in French, Russian, German, Spanish and Portuguese from the same address.)

And now a few more excerpts which illustrate why Solzhenitsyn haunts not only the lib-left brigade but also the big capitalists who, as Lenin used to say, would do anything for profit, even sell the rope for their own hanging:

"When liberal thinkers and wise men of the West, who have forgotten the meaning of the word "liberty", were swearing that in the Soviet Union there were no concentration camps at all, the AFL-CIO published in 1947 a map of our concentration camps, and on behalf of the millions of prisoners I want to thank the American workers' movement for this. But . . . there also exists another alliance — at first glance a strange one, a surprising one — but if you think about it, in facts one in which is well grounded and easy to understand (on the basis of that burning greed for profit which goes beyond all reason, all self-control, all conscience): this is the alliance between our Communist leaders and your capitalists.

"If today, in a country which is by contemporary standards poor, the Soviet Union has powerful military and police forces — they are used to crush our movement for freedom — we have Western capital to thank for this also.

"(In Soviet Russia) the working class has never been able to stand up for its rights, and in distinction from all the Western countries our working class only receives what they hand out to it. It cannot defend its simplest, everyday interests, and the least strike for pay or for better living (and working) conditions is viewed as counter-revolutionary . . . In our country, since the Revolution, there's never been such a thing as a free trade union.

"In pre-revolutionary Russia, about 17 persons a year (according to statistics for 80 years) were executed. The famous Spanish Inquisition destroyed perhaps 10 persons a month. In 1918 and 1919 the Cheka (predecessor of the KGB secret police) boasted of having executed, without trial, more than a thousand persons a month. At the height of Stalin's terror in 1937-38, more than 40,000 persons were shot per month.

"Some say that the Soviet leaders have given up their inhumanity. Not at all. The show still goes on today . . . But if these murderers, who live by violence, these executioners, offer us (in the West) detente, we will be happy to go along with them."

Difficult questions

Security and civil liberty

By PAUL HELLYER from Ottawa

The two recent attempts on President Ford's life have caused shock and dismay among reasonable Americans. Not that political violence is new to them, because it isn't. Four American presidents — Lincoln, Garfield, McKinley and Kennedy — have fallen to assassins' slugs. It is just that each new attempt brings its own outrage and raises issues that had dimmed from memory.

Two of these issues are the president's, or any politician's, reaction to threats against his life and the responsibility of law enforcement agencies to do everything humanly possible to anticipate trouble and to guard against it.

President Ford has bravely insisted that, nothwithstanding the two attempts on his life within 17 days, he will not be bullied. The American people have a right to see and be with their chief executive and he has no intention of abrogating that right.

As an experienced politician, Ford would know that whatever he says or does will not please everyone. If he admitted fear and agreed to a drastic reduction in the number of public appearances, he would be branded as a coward—unworthy of the post of Commander-in-Chief of the United States.

On the other hand, his insistence not to ". . . cower in the face of a limited number of people . . . who want to take the law into their own hands" inevitably brings the charge that the president has no right to expose himself to excessive danger and that in doing so he is in some way abdicating the responsibilities of his high office.

Politically, the president's compromise position is the correct one. But when he does travel, it won't always be easy to smile with one eye cast anxiously over each shoulder.

The question of security, and the extent to which civil rights should be compromised to maintain it, is more difficult.

In the United States, responsibility for the safety of presidents and presidential candidates lies with the Secret Service. But the Secret Service gets its information from other law enforcement agencies including the local police, the FBI, and, occasionally the CIA.

These latter agencies get much of their information by clandestine means. As the U.S. Senate committee investigating the CIA has learned, they infiltrate radical organizations, open mail and tap phones.

Yet these practices are repugnant to most citizens. On more than one occasion I suspected that my mail had been opened and I have been reasonably certain, on at least one occasion, that my phone was tapped. But I could never prove it. The mere thought of it, however, was enough to make my blood boil, because, I suspect, there is a fine line between using these devices for the protection of the state and its officials and of abusing them in partisan warfare —a la Watergate.

In Canada, the RCMP are responsible for state security. They also keep a watchful eye on the person of the prime minister. In other security matters, prime responsibility rest with the local police but almost always with the co-operation of the RCMP. As there are no definitive lines of demarcation written down, it depends on the good judgment and co-operation of the several forces to make the system work.

If the fifth United Nations Congress on Crime Prevention had been held in Toronto in September as scheduled, with observers from the Palestinian Liberation Organization (PLO) in attendance, the security aspect would have been formidable. An official of the Jewish Defence League (JDL) was quoted as saying there were "close to 400 members of our organization ready to descend on Toronto should the criminals be allowed in." To keep both the JDL and the PLO under surveillance would have required a small army of agents.

The government sidestepped the problem by asking the UN to postpone the conference. The UN decided, instead, to hold it elsewhere.

In the case of the Olympic Games, however, there is no easy way out. The government must take every precaution to ensure that no one can pull any tricks comparable to the outrageous Black September murder of 11 innocent Israeli athletes at Munich.

Thousands of soliders and police will be on duty at Montreal when the games open. But their effectiveness will be limited unless every possible precaution is taken in advance. You can't look at the crowd and wonder who is harmless and who isn't. You must know who's who before the show starts. And that involves monitoring the activities and intentions of many people including every known PLO sympathizer in Canada.

The same situation prevails in respect of groups "invading" Parliament Hill. Some of the demonstrations in recent years have been quite frightening when they looked as if they might get out of control. The police have to know, in advance, the scope and intent of the "march" and the amount of force that may be necessary to maintain the peace.

So police surveillance is a must. But it is a two-edged sword. On the one hand, if incidents take place and bombs explode or people are shot at, a public clamor arises for security and stricter control. But on the other hand, when phones are tapped and informers planted, an anguished cry of civil libertarians is heard. Our privacy must not be invaded, nor our rights infringed.

As in most political questions there are no absolutes. How much liberty are we willing to give up in the name of safety and security; and do citizens forfeit their right to privacy when they conspire to break the law?

These are the considerations and the trade-offs that people on both sides of the Canada-U.S. border must ponder and decide on. They are not easy questions as they affect the very roots on which our society is built.

Brightening the paint

By POLLY TOYNBEE from London

London's National Gallery — a landmark for tourists with its classical portico overlooking Nelson's column and the fountains in Trafalgar Square — has been enlarged. Queen Elizabeth ceremonially opened the new extension, which took five years to build and cost almost 2,500,000 pounds.

One part the Queen did not look around was the Conservation Department. If she had, she would have found — amid bottles, paints and cotton wool (and, oddly a large tin of "U-Spray — Makes things look new") — Arthur Lucas, the chief restorer, at work on Sir Joshua Reynold's Bannister Tarleton.

The gallery's cleaning policy since the war has come under a great deal of attack. Critics have complained that pictures came up too garish, too uniform, or with the wrong balance of colors.

But Arthur Lucas feels the shock of his cleaned paintings has worn off, and people have got used to them. He has been at the gallery for 29 years, having trained there under the German pioneer of modern cleaning, Helmut Ruhemann.

It was in 1947 that the first howls of rage and horror were heard, at the first exhibition of cleaned paintings. People liked the mellow golden yellow varnishes and the mysterious black depths of familiar paintings. It took a long time for them to accept the pictures stripped and bright, almost raw, it seemed.

"In fact there's nothing new about our methods or outlook," says Mr. Lucas, blase about his X-ray, infra-red and microscopic equipment. "In 1848, some very good restorers began cleaning paintings, but people so loved the yellow varnishes that they were forced to put them back on after cleaning. Now, I think people want to see the paintings as near as possible to the way they were painted."

Arthur Lucas is a neat man of 59 with a pointed grey beard and a tweedy jacket. The criticisms of his work have not changed his views at all and he feels that by now he has won the battle for almost all the hearts and minds. "We've learned to tread gently now. We are very careful how we present a newly-cleaned painting to the public. We light it very carefully, sometimes with a little yellow light projected from the roof."

He believes that the way the painting is hung and lit probably matters more than the work he has done on it in his studio.

He believes that the way the painting is hung and lit probably matters more than the work he has done on it in his studio.

He has a small staff, with four restorers, two technicians and a few trainees. He gets between 200 and 300 applications a year from people wanting to learn restoring.

"Few of them would be any good. They don't realize how very boring it is. I regret having become a restorer myself. I sold my soul. I should like to have been a painter instead."

He says it is hard to find in art schools these days people who can really be bothered with tiny detail. "Detail doesn't interest people." He is now abandoning the training scheme. "Our first duty is to the paintings," he says.

He describes the necessary talent as rather like that of a piano-tuner with perfect pitch: "You have to have a perfect eye for color and matching. It may take a beginner hours to find the colors to mix and get an exact color in a painting. I can do it in seconds. I can just see the ingredients at once."

Arthur Lucas is the son of a Dulwich company director. He was ill all his childhood and by adolescence his father thought he would die. "So he let me go to art school. He thought I might as well die there as anywhere."

He is still ill. "I have a heart four times the usual size, among other things. Call me Big-Hearted Arthur," he says.

In one corner of the room is a huge Renaissance panel, face down on a table with tissue paper on the front. The back is being planed away until there is nothing but the paint on the tissue paper, and this will be put on to a canvas. It will take another three years.

A young girl trainee is trying her hand on the corner of a huge painting upside down on an easel. "Just a bit of rubbish for her to try on," he explains.

He talks about his own painting sadly. "Whenever I try to paint a landscape now, it looks to me like a Turner, or like some painting I know well. It's very hard to paint as well as to restore. Restoring is suppressing all your imagination and all your ideas. You have to be neutral."

The worst mistake he ever made, he says, was with Millais's Ophelia many years ago. He was putting it on a new canvas and took a corner of the tissue paper off too soon, and it flaked.

His most exciting moment was when he discovered a tall blue iris in the foreground of Titian's Bacchus and Ariadne. "Titian was telling the public, 'Look, see. I can paint flowers as well as Durer'."

In the past, he says, restoring used to be a secretive art, a witchcraft, where no one told anyone else what they were doing. "Now, if you took 10 of the world's finest restorers and gave them each a tenth of the same painting, you wouldn't know the difference between their work."

But there are still those in the art world who disagree, though more quietly than they used to. They don't like to be quoted. Some are in favor of a little "jiggery-pokery" with the greens in Titian, which have faded to a brown quite out of key with the brilliant blues. Others say that the National Gallery is too rigid in its policy, and that all the pictures come out looking as if they have been processed. There is a lot of controversy about varnishes.

But Arthur Lucas keeps on with his cleaning with complete self-confidence, and the objections these days are mostly muted.

Gifted children's talents wasted

By PETER WILBY, From London

Very intelligent children, if wrongly handled, can be bigger social problems than the very backward. This is one of the main conclusions to emerge from the recent first world conference on gifted children in London.

A gifted child has an intelligence quotient (IQ) of at least 140, compared with the average of around 100. He falls into the top 2 per cent of the population. The chief aim of the conference, attended by experts from more than 50 countries, is to persuade the governments of the world that such children require special recognition and treatment.

The experts claim that, at present, their potential is tragically wasted. On average, it is said, they achieve only 15 per cent of their potentials in their lifetimes and only one gifted child in five is even recognized as exceptional by his teachers.

The gifted child is easily bored and frustrated by ordinary school work. He may even pretend that he is backward so as not to appear different from other children. His energy, his sleeplessness, his inexhaustible curiosity, his need for excitement and new experiences can drive parents and teachers to distraction. Two gifted children can be more trouble to a teacher than half-a-dozen backward ones.

Dr. Pamela Mason, a British government consultant on child psychiatry, told the conference: "Teachers can find their humor, playfulness and wit quite exhausting. Out of boredom, the children often try to manipulate other people. From the moment they are born, they like to be in charge."

The result can be a lifetime of delinquency. One teacher said at the conference that the most highly gifted child she had ever met had truanted from London schools for four years. His specialty was picking locks and he claimed, apparently rightly, that no lock had been invented that he couldn't pick. He had once run a protection racket and had twice been in court charged with robbery with violence.

It has been suggested that some of the major unsolved crimes of the century have been carried out by highly gifted people. A dullard who turns to crime can be just a nuisance; a genius who does so can be a major social threat.

Most conference delegates agree that schools, as presently organized, are a poor environment for the gifted. Dr. Harry Passow, from Columbia University, said: "Schools are often described as pressure chambers for conformity, with teachers lacking the sensitivity to value the originality and novel performance of their students. There are just too many requirements coupled with a reward system that inhibits novelty and originality — tests, grades, selection processes, syllabi, single texts, and so on."

Yet, in most Western countries, the emphasis over the past decade has been on helping poor and deprived children rather than those at the other extreme. In the United States, for example, spending on the handicapped has increased 300 per cent during the past 10 years, while federal funds for helping the gifted have only just been allocated.

Most experts at the conference, however, are adamant that they are not seeking special schools or even special classes for the gifted. True, the deputy lord mayor of Westminster opened the conference with a broadside against egalitarianism: and former school principal and university vice-chancellor, Lord James of Rusholme, followed with a call for selection for high-level academic work to be regarded as just as socially acceptable as selection for international football teams.

But other conference members pointed out that the great brains must, sooner or later, learn to live with the rest of us. What gifted children need, they say, are more opportunities to pursue their own interests within normal schools and classrooms. They need courses in computers, shorthand, geology, electronics, and archaeology. They need opportunities to play chess and other intellectual games. They need anything, in fact, that will keep them stimulated.

These opportunities can be provided at evenings and weekends and, perhaps, by occasional withdrawal from ordinary lessons. Otherwise, the gifted must go through the same basic education as everyone else and learning that others do not understand things as readily as they do is an essential part of their training.

It is up to their teachers to recognize that they can finish their work quicker than other children and to ensure that they have something else to get on with to keep them out of mischief. The trouble is, that hardly any teachers are given training in how to spot the gifted.

Russia on trial for denying human rights

By LAJOS LEDERER, from London

The harrowing case of Andrei Amalrik, the eminent Soviet historian and writer who was forced to leave Moscow last month by the KGB after he was refused permission to live in the capital, is to open the discussions at the International Tribunal for Human Rights in the Soviet Union when it meets for the first time in Copenhagen on Oct. 17.

The tribunal is being held after a suggestion from Dr. Andrei Sakharov, who holds a unique position of influence in Soviet society because of his 22 years membership of the respected Moscow Academy of Sciences and his unrivalled contribution to his country's achievements in nuclear physics.

Sakharov, together with nine other Russian intellectuals, issued an appeal to the world in February, 1974—immediately after Alexander Solzhenitsyn was expelled from the Soviet Union and stripped of his citizenship — suggesting the setting up of an international tribunal to examine the violation of legality in the U.S.S.R.

The idea was promptly adopted by a group of East European exiles living in Denmark who in 1968 had formed a committee to fight for human rights in the Soviet Union and East European communist countries. The tribunal has been organized by this committee and by a number of prominent Danish and Western intellectuals.

Its first session will take place in the Danish parliament building, the Christiansborg Palace in Copenhagen, from Oct. 17 to 19.

The committee has received world-wide support from leading personalities and institutions.

In Britain they include former Conservative prime minister Edward Heath, former LIberal party leader Jo Grimond, Sir Isaiah Berlin, president of the British Academy, David Astor, editor of The Observer, and the writers Arthur Koestler and J. B. Priestley.

In the United States, ambassador Averell Harriman, Professor McGeorge Bundy and Senators Hubert Humphrey, Edward Kennedy and Henry Jackson are included.

The chairman of the tribunal will be Ib Thyregord, a senior advocate of the Danish supreme court.

The tribunal will hear evidence from Soviet witnesses on current developments in political, religious and cultural life in the Soviet Union.

The organizers expect to hear 20 to 25 notable political exiles, including Alexander Solzhenitsyn and Pavel Litvinov, the physicist and grandson of Maxim Litvinov, one of Stalin's foreign ministers.

Pavel Litvinov was one of the co-signatories of Sakharov's Moscow Appeal to the West and is now living in America. A similar number of Western experts will address the tribunal.

Andrei Amalrik was released in May after spending five years in prison camps for writing the book, Will the Soviet Union Survive Until 1984? He is hoping to go abroad for a year, to Utrecht University in the Netherlands.

Sakharov said recently the tribunal will be "extremely important in order to gain a true picture of conditions in the U.S.S.R." He expressed the hope that the question of the right to leave the Soviet Union freely and to return freely would be dealt with. "All other rights depend on this one."

Sakharov added that he wanted to attend the Copenhagen hearing, but he would need an assurance from the Soviet authorities that he would be allowed to return to his famly.

Despite the Helsinki agreement, it is unlikely that such a guarantee will be given by the Kremlin. Sakharov, the most fearless Russian champion of human rights, is causing plenty of problems for the Soviet leaders at home, and they will not risk giving him an opportunity to extend his activities abroad.

Even without Sakharov, the hearings in Copenhagen will be a major event. It will be the first time that repression in the Soviet Union has been examined publicly in such a way.

Indian Ocean 'communications station' may become nuclear base

Doubletalk screened Diego Garcia affair

By CHRIS MULLIN

The revelation that more than 1,000 people, some of them fifth generation, were evicted from their home islands of Diego Garcia, Peros Banhos and Salamon about six years ago to free the British-owned group for development as a U.S. military—and possibly nuclear—base is the latest piece to turn up of several long missing from the Indian Ocean defence jigsaw.

Indian Ocean supply lines

It was the British newspaper The Guardian that first revealed that in 1968 the islands' 434 families were more or less forcibly deported to Mauritius, 1,174 miles away.

The British government then admitted for the first time that Diego Garcia had been inhabited by more than a handful of contract laborers who, as originally implied, left of their own accord.

The Diego Garcia saga began in 1965 when the British Labor government of Harold Wilson arranged to buy the Chagos Peninsula (Diego Garcia and its adjacent islands) for some $6 million from the colony of Mauritius, then just about to become independent.

Nothing much was heard of Diego Garcia until Feb. 5 last year when the Tory government of Edward Heath announced that it had given permission for the Americans to build a $32-million "communications station" on the island.

Although the news at the time aroused almost no curiosity in Britain — the country was in the throes of a general election campaign and suffering from the three-day week caused by an industrial coal crisis — it was greeted with almost unanimous hostility by the states bordering the Indian Ocean.

Among the protesters were Australia, Indonesia, Sri Lanka, Kenya, Tanzania, India and of course Mauritius itself.

In America it quickly became clear that the Pentagon's plans for Diego Garcia involved rather more than just communications.

On March 13 last year Admiral Thomas Moorer, at that time chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, let slip to a congressional committee that the question of landing B-52 bombers on the enlarged runways of Diego Garcia was being considered.

He was followed by Air Force Major General George Loving who foresaw the possibility of stationing swing-wing F-111s, capable of carrying nuclear weapons, on the island. Other witnesses spoke of facilities for nuclear submarines and aircraft carriers.

An interesting aspect of the Diego Garcia affair is the rapidly escalating estimates of the cost involved. On Jan. 22 this year at a meeting of the Labor Parliamentary Association the defence secretary, Roy Mason, said the planned cost of the expansion was around $26 million.

On July 22 Mason told Parliament that the American government was requesting $80 million for what he described as "an austere communications facility — and not a base." Shortly after this statement the U.S. government obtained approval from congress for projects on Diego Garcia — costing around $120 million.

There are no prizes for guessing what is going on in the Indian Ocean. It houses many of the world's most controversial and, in some cases, unstable regimes around its shores: Rhodesia, South Africa, the Gulf States, Iran, Pakistan, India, Bangladesh and Indonesia.

Diego Garcia brings them for the first time within comfortable bombing range — or for that matter within the range of any other type of harassment that the interests of American "national security" may justify.

It is true that the U.S. has access to other bases in the region — notably in Iran — but the beauty of Diego Garcia is that it is more than 1,000 miles from the nearest patch of mainland and — now at least — completely unpopulated. American activities on the island could be unhindered by snooping journalists, congressmen or a hostile local population.

Diego Garcia is not to be viewed in isolation. It is an important part of America's whole new Indian Ocean strategy which in the last year alone has involved the sale of arms worth a total of $7,500 million to the Gulf States — mainly Iran and Saudi Arabia.

Besides this, more than 1,500 American military and "civilian" technicians — many fresh from Vietnam — are now training the Shah's armed forces and about 1,000 more are in Saudi Arabia.

In short, what is happening is the Vietnamization of the Indian Ocean on the old Nixon theory that if the locals provide the lives America will supply the guns.

The advantage — from the American point of view — of this strategy in the Indian Ocean is that, unlike Indochina, oil countries like Iran and Saudi Arabia can afford to pay cash down for their weapons which means that they do not make a big hole in the American aid budget and so avoid provoking awkward questions in congress.

Besides Diego Garcia, America has already built a huge air-navy base at Chah Bahar on the Iranian side of the border between Pakistan and Iran and there is talk of Britain's being asked to let the Americans take over her base on the Omani island of Masirah, near the entrance to the Persian Gulf.

This military build-up is taking place against a background of stories about a growing Soviet presence in the area. The most recent example of this was the "discovery" — coincidentally as congress was considering the Diego Garcia funds — of a Soviet missile storage facility at Berbera in Somalia. Somalia had, however, already admitted to the existence of this.

Without doubt the Soviet presence in the Indian Ocean is growing. It is growing in response to the massively escalating American presence. As yet it lags far behind, but it would be surprising if it remained so, given the apparent determination of the U.S. to stoke an arms race in the area.

What is at stake in Diego Garcia is not merely the homes and livelihood of 1,000 poor people — important though that is — but the question of whether or not Britain is to provide the United States with the capability for intervention in areas of Asia and Africa that until now have been beyond the comfortable reach of the American conventional war machine.

Burma to unseal doors?

By JOSEPH GALLOWAY, from Rangoon, Burma

The Burmese road to socialism may be rocky and rough but it doesn't have any B52 bombcraters in it. Burmese leaders from President Ne Win down have looked at recent events in Indochina and congratulated themselves on having the foresight to close the doors and windows to Burma and go it alone for the last 15 years.

"The news magazines have scoffed at Burma for years," one Burmese said. "But we have survived and where are those countries they used to laud as bastions of democrcy?" Viewed in that light the last decade was a perfect time to have been a hermit nation in Indochina.

The price of that withdrawal, of Burma's refusal of major development assistance from the major foreign powers, West or East, has been steep and has tried the patience of the Burmese people. But there are indications of some changes in the wind for this nation of 30 million.

Alarmed by the idea that South Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos collapsed more from an internal cancer of corruption and disloyalty than any external assault and by growing signs of student disaffection, Ne Win has begun moving to put his house in order.

In the wake of violent student demonstrations last December and a more peaceful repeat student-worker demonstation in June of this year, Burma's universities are closed and the students dispersed to their homes. Security is tight in Rangoon.

Official rice purchase prices have been boosted between 50 and 100 per cent and farmers have been offered rare imported goods like radios, small tractors and tin roofing sheets as bonuses for over-quota production. Government rice procurement has risen dramatically and this year Burma will return to the status of rice exporter for the first time in three years.

Informed diplomatic sources said that Burma recently opened tentative discussions with Western countries for the formation of a multi-nation aid-Burma consortium to channel loans for development projects in Burma. And four foreign oil consortiums this year began offshore oil exploration in Burmese waters on production-sharing contracts similar to those which have fueled development of Indonesia.

"This place is a gold mine of underdeveloped mineral and timber wealth," one Western diplomat said. "The Burmese don't have the capital to develop it on their own and they have not yet made the fundamental decision to seek foreign assistance."

For the immediate future, life for the bulk of Burma's people will remain the same subsistance level struggle with an over-centralized and poorly managed economy. Salaries are frozen at low levels—about $16 a month for the average factory worker—while inflation soars at about 30 to 35 per cent annually.

Security has remained a prime problem for the Ne Win government for years and a chronic budget drain. A Chinese-supported rebellion simmers in the Shan states bordering China. More moderate rebel supporters of former prime minister U Nu operate along the Thai border. And well armed opium smuggling armies carry out their own purely commercial actions efficiently.

Oversight costs Alberni angler lead for coho

An oversight has cost a Port Alberni angler the lead in the coho section of the King Fisherman contest.

Brian Mahaffey, 606-15th Avenue North, Port Alberni, hooked a coho weighing 19 pounds 12 ounces in Port Alberni harbor using an Alaskan Plug but failed to follow a contest rule stipulating that coho weighing more than 18 pounds must be positively identified by a federal fisheries officer.

Mahaffey's oversight leaves R. J. Beazley, 1224 Pearce, still in the lead with an 18-pound coho taken off Otter Point using Rhys Davis Super Strip Teaser.

Almost all reject zonal bargaining

Teachers' move not surprising

Canadian Press

Education Minister Eileen Dailly said Wednesday she is not surprised that almost all B.C. school teachers have rejected the optional system of zonal contract bargaining.

Of 74 district teachers' associations in the province, only 17 decided to bargain on a zonal basis, while 69 school boards of the 75 districts have opted for zonal bargaining.

Under legislation passed last spring, the province set up 13 zones encompassing 75 school districts for school board-teacher contract negotiations.

Decisions of the boards and teachers' associations were requested by Sept. 25. The minister said there is a possibility three more teachers' associations will go along with zonal bargaining.

The Nechako school district is not immediately affected by the new system because it has a five-year contract with its teachers, she said.

Of the 13 zones, there will be bargaining under the new system in only three — East Kootenay, Okanagan, and South Vancouver Island, Mrs. Dailly said.

The minister added that in each of the three bargaining zones which will be operating, there is one teachers' association which will bargain directly with its school board.

"I do not consider it a collapse of the legislation," Mrs. Dailly said.

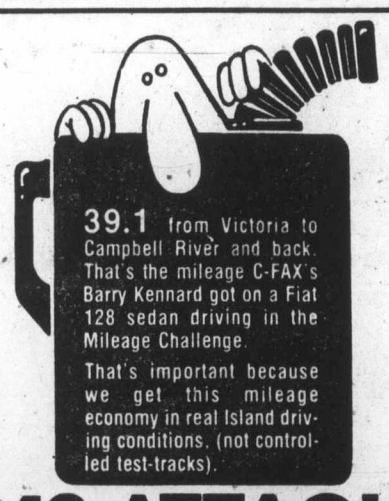

The minister said she hoped more teachers would accept the option but "at no time did we expect that we would have the whole province in one year."

She said she hopes the three groups functioning during the next contract negotiations will set examples for other districts in future bargaining.

School for Wives almost dour

So much for play's wit

By JIM GIBSON
Colonist Reporter

Monsieur Moliere, where were you last night when the Victoria Theatre Guild needed you so badly?

For certain there was little left of the French playwright's wit and comic vision in Marge Adelberg's musical adaptation of School for Wives in the hands of this amateur group.

Certainly Ms. Adelberg's script is more burlesque than innovative with her music sounding always vaguely familiar.

It's too bad because as Ms. Adelberg herselff conceded in an interview last week with the Colonist, Moliere lends himself well to a musical comedy adaptation.

But even so, director Helen Smith's 16 actors seemed almost dour in their regard for the material. Where were the enthusiasm and fun, so often the saving grace of an amateur group?

It would have served the Victoria Theatre Guild well as its season opener.

But the theatre guild should be soundly praised for its integrity in including this adaptation by a local writer in its main season. A quick look at the University of Victoria's and Bastion Theatre's coming seasons shows no willingness to give Canadian writers a break.

Only Lorna Stansfield as the good-natured Georgette proved she could sing a bit, act a little and entertain a whole lot. Sara White and Christopher Ross as the young lovers only momentarily thwarted by Cliff Clarke's aging foolish Arnolph had rich voices.

Parksville tries for Alberni firm

PARKSVILLE — Parksville village council has approached an accounting firm in Port Alberni to handle its books, after a local firm said the village's books were in a state of disarray and could not be audited.

At a meeting early in September, council voted to terminate its contract with Anton Kruyt and Company of Parksville. Kruyt had said in the village's annual financial report that imcomplete records and incorrect accounting procedures made it impossible for him to audit the village's finances.

Two days after council voted to terminate its contract with Kruyt, it voted to appoint Ray Newman, of Newman, Hill, Duncan and Lacoursiere in Port Alberni, as its auditors for 1975.

Newman declined to comment Monday on whether or not he would accept the appointment. he noted that Kruyt can still appeal his dismissal, under the terms of the Municipal Act, and said it owuld be inappropriate for him to comment until Kruyt has indicated whether he will appeal.

Victoria man nets 30 days

COURTENAY — A 19-year-old Victoria resident has been jailed for 30 days by Judge Alfred Scow for breaking, entry and theft at the Cumberland liquor store March 28. Robert Henry Wright was also placed on probation for 12 months following his jail term.

Ten believed trapped in fire

ANDERSON, Ind. (UPI) — Fire swept two downtown buildings Thursday night, killing at least one person. As many as 10 others were feared trapped.

Shingle mill issue crucial

The issue of a three-year strike at a Vancouver shingle mill continues to be a major stumbling block in negotiations in Victoria between the International Woodworkers of America and the forest industry.

IWA regional president Jack Munro said Thursday night after a meeting with a Forest Industrial Relations subcommittee that the union has not changed its position that the Huntting-Merritt strike cannot be included in master contract negotiations.

Munro said Tuesday, when the industry first brought up the issue in coast negotiations thies year, that if the companies continued to press for resolution of the strike as part of the total settlement package, talks were in danger of breaking down.

But F.I.R. president Don Lanskail said Thursday that talks will continue today and there is "no suggestion that they'll break off."

The IWA and the industry have been meeting regularly since last week when the two striking pulp unions broke off government-convened mediation efforts.

The Canadian Paperworkers Union and the Pulp, Paper and Woodworkers of Canada left negotiations because of the industry's refusal to increase its offer beyond settlement terms recommended by special mediator Mr. Justice Henry Hutcheon.

The 13,000 pulp workers, on strike since July 16, and the coastal IWA members rejected the Hutcheon report, while the industry and southern interior IWA members accepted it.

A union official said the IWA presented proposals to the industry last week but has received no answer.

Indian band elects new council

Tsartlip Indian band in Saanich elected a new chief and councillors Wednesday.

Philip Paul was elected band chief and David Elliot, Sr., David Bartleman, and Arthur Cooper was elected councillors from a field of nine candidates. They will hold office for two years.

His fingers had been lodged in the small holes in the spokes of the wheel so he parked his car, detached the wheel and sauntered into the station.

Officer Skip Tyler applied generous amounts of soap and water and sent Galaviz, with both hands free, back to restore the steering wheel to his car.

thermoshell

Something new in home comfort for concerned homeowners all across Canada

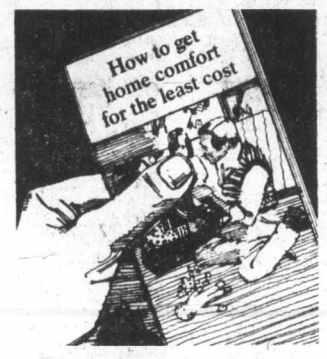

Thermoshell is a new concept in home comfort from Shell

Our aim is to offer you a complete line of home comfort products and services; and to do so with the emphasis on low cost and energy conservation.

For example, we have compiled the Thermoshell Conservation Guide Booklet, which is filled with many fuel-saving suggestions. Or there is the Thermoshell Chronotherm, a new type of thermostat to help you stay comfortable while you cut your fuel bills. And the Thermoshell Comprehensive Protection Plan which is designed to protect you against unexpected furnace repair bills and to help keep your furnace running at optimum efficiency.

Of course your Thermoshell Centre also offers Automatic Fuel Delivery and an Equal Monthly Payment Plan as well as a complete line of furnaces, water heaters, power humidifiers and other home comfort equipment — all designed to help keep your fuel costs in line.

A new guide to fuel economy

This informative, easy-to-read booklet from Thermoshell is filled with useful hints to help you cut fuel bills and keep your home comfortable at the same time.

For your copy, check the square on the coupon.

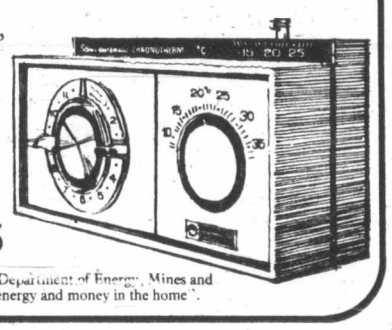

A new way to conserve home heat

The Thermoshell Chronotherm Thermostat by Honeywell can help you cut your annual fuel bill by up to 10%*.

Just lower the temperature setting before you go to bed. In the morning, the Chronotherm Thermostat automatically returns your home to daytime comfort. So you save fuel and still wake up in comfort.

It's so easy to install you can do it yourself. (Also available is a deluxe, fully-automatic model which should be installed by a qualified electrician.)

$39.95 (deluxe model — plus installation) $49.95

The Thermoshell Comprehensive Protection Plan – a wise investment

The Protection Plan can save you money because it provides you with:

- Parts replacement. When necessary, many parts essential to the operation of your heating unit will be replaced.
- Annual furnace inspection. An inefficient furnace can cost you a great deal in extra fuel bills. The annual inspection and cleanout will ensure optimum operating efficiency.
- Free labour. Our annual fee includes labour.
- Emergency service. Trained technicians are ready to service your unit, day or night.

With features like these, the Thermoshell Comprehensive Protection Plan could soon pay for itself in lower operating costs and peace of mind.

Controls over TV

duplication of programs. He said the commission may consider following the example of the U.S. broadcast licensing agency and require that programs available locally cannot be carried by cable from distant television stations "on the same day or even the same week."

Juneau, who is likely to get responsibility for the publicly-owned Canadian Broadcasting Corporation added to his portfolio, said the CBC "should develop constantly a greater consciousness of its role as a public organization, not a commercial organization."

The government must be prepared to accept the consequences of less commercial emphasis by financing the CBC's big deficits without loss of the corporation's independence.

He said he hoped the Onmario inquiry into violence in the media, headed by former Liberal cabinet minister Judy LaMarsh, will examine the economic as well as the moral aspect of the problem.

"Violence on television is profitable and relatively cheap," he said. Producers who must turn out 25 hours a week of profitable programming that will draw consistently large audiences rely on violence because the programs are relatively economical to produce, he said.

"If you just make speeches or produce reports about the psychological and not the economic causes of violence you are likely to jump to moralistic conclusions which are not very effective," he said.

Juneau is running against six other candidates in the byelection, including Gilles Caouette, a former Social Credit MP and sonm of Social Credit Leader Real Caouette.

The riding includes one area of strong separatist support but has returned Liberals to the Commons since 1921.

Desert flood kills Israelis

JERUSALEM (AP) — Six Israelis drowned in a flood that swept through the Judean desert east of Jerusalem, police said. Thirteen other persons escaped.

Smokers costly to B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Cigarette smokers are probably costing B.C. taxpayers between $16 million and $20 million annually in related health care costs, a city health officer told the B.C. Health Association conference Thursday.

Dr. Fred Bass said he based his estimate on the report by Health Minister Dennis Cocke to the association on Wednesday that $400 million is spent each year in B.C. on hospital operating costs; and from studies in North America and Britain which show 6 to 10 per cent of hospital beds and occupied by people with smoking-related illnesses.

Bass said studies show cigarette-induced health problems also account for 7.8 per cent of all physician services, and he estimated that alcohol-induced health problems cost B.C. $84 million annually in medical bills, exclusive of social costs.

Bass said the five major risks to health are smoking, overeating, lack of exercise, drinking substantial amounts of alcohol and driving unsafely. He said accidents are the major cause of death or injury up to the age of 45, and after that chronic diseases begin to lead.

He said that by reducing weight, exercising regularly, stopping smoking, cutting down on alcoholic drinks and wearing safety belts the chances of a 50-year-old man dying within the next 10 years are reduced to 7.1 per cent from 11.2 per cent. The reduction in chances of cardiovascular fatalities is reduced to 0.6 per cent from 4.5 per cent.

Bass said people must become more aware of their bodies.

"In the complexity of Western Society, we don't live in our bodies any more. We put our energy into our jobs, families, house, car, boat. Maybe it's worth the time to spend more energy (in exercise) on the body you're living inside."

Lisbon coup 'blocked'

LISBON, Portugal (UPI) — Portuguese Socialists and Popular Democrats said Thursday they had blocked plans of far leftists for a coup by calling their militants into the streets Wednesday night and provoking an army alert.

Prime Minister Adm. Jose Pinheiro de Azevedo held a crisis meeting Thursday with key military advisers amid reports of the frustrated coup conspiracy. The meeting was called by Azevedo in an effort to halt the spread of army mutinies if the Lisbon military district.

Azevedo conferred with the powerful revolutionary council which conferred for six hours Thursday evening on a spread of military discipline problems.

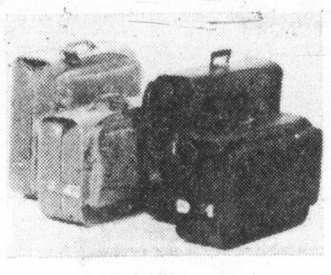

The Socialists and the left-of-centre Popular Democrats officially declined to give any details on the alleged plot. But political sources said rebellious military units in the capital represented an essential element of it.

Space hero recalls era's flight of fright

After the 1970 brush with death

By HUBERT BEYER
Colonist Reporter

Wearing a blue blazer and grey slacks, looking definitely unheroic, he strode into the old UVic gym Thursday to speak to about 500 students.

An official biography describes the 47-year-old astronaut as a "witty, relaxed person with a keen sense of humor and an endless fund of wisecracks."

With those attributes Lovell led his audience on a rerun of the most hair-raising journey of the space age — the ill-fated trip of Apollo 13 which lifted off April 11, 1970.

A master of understatement, Lovell recalled the moment when the already-battered space craft was about to orbit the moon.

An explosion had shattered two fuel tanks and one oxygen tank 100,000 miles from earth on the way to the moon.

When the craft approached the moon, Lovell recalled, he was furiously trying to figure out the chances for survival when his two fellow astronauts, Fred Haise and John Swigert, were busy with their cameras.

"What, gentlemen, are your plans?" Lovell recalled asking them.

"We're going to take pictures of the moon. You were here before, you know," they replied, referring to an earlier flight around the moon in which Lovell took part.

Crouched in the lunar module, the service module having been crippled by the explosion, the astronauts limped back to Earth while millions prayed for their safe arrival.

Coming in too steeply would transform the craft into ashes within seconds; coming in too shallow would make the ship bounce off the atmosphere into space on a journey of no return.

Jokingly, he said that ground controllers would have preferred the burning up of the craft to the bouncing off, but one got the impression that he wasn't joking at all.

"I guess I would have, too, rather than drift through space forever," he said.

At one point, he said they were informed by ground control that they would miss the atmosphere by 56 miles if they remained on that particular course.

The astronauts had to correct their course by visual means, a crude method at the best of times, but it worked.

The rest is history. They returned safely.

The future of space exploration, Lovell said, would be less glamorous than the past.

The new program will be called "earth resources." Unmanned space craft will scan Earth, determining crop expectations, predicting agricultural trends.

The recent joint U.S.-Soviet space venture marked the last of the manned space flights for the U.S. for quite some time, he said.

"We've seen the end of an era."

Today, witty, relaxed, reflective

Generosity may cost too much

Tougher guides eyed for tax exemptions

The city of Victoria may establish tougher standards for exemptions from property taxes because aldermen feel the city can no longer afford to be as generous as in the past.

The practice of granting certain organizations and clubs exemption from taxation of their property was criticized at a meeting of Victoria's finance committee Thursday.

Ald. Sam Bawlf said it might be appropriate to have a review made of how much tax revenue the city is losing through exemptions.

City manager James Bramley was unable to provide any detailed figures but said he would prepare a report.

The question arose after aldermen recommended property tax exemption for the Victoria Conservatory of Music and two other groups.

Ald. Bawlf observed that "these applications come before council in dribs and drabs and we have no idea of the total impact."

King
. . . day of talks

King move today on gas stoppage

Labor Minister William King said Thursday he will make an announcement today on the provincial propane distribution strike.

Neither side in the 11-week dispute, which has left 1,400 Nanaimo consumers without gas, would comment at the close of the day's discussions, which also involved provincial mediator Peter Dowding.

Early this week, the Teamsters and Transport Labor Relations, representing the five gas companies, each rejected new proposals aimed at ending the strike.

King would give no indication what announcement he will make, but it is possible he could appoint an industrial inquiry commission.

Sooke school club moves against net 'overfishing'

By NANCY BROWN
Colonist Reporter

What started out as a small sports fishermen's club at Sooke's Edward Milne high school is into more serious matters these days.

The 21 club members have written the Colonist protesting extension of fishing periods for the seining fleet.

"We feel that entire runs of some rivers are being seriously endangered by this overfishing," they said in a letter.

The club is only a month old, but sponsor Paul Paquin said discussions at meetings were centring more on the theme of the extended fishing granted to seiners which is supposed to allow them to make up some of the income lost during their strike earlier this year.

Paquin hopes the club will be able to move more into the conservation field, although efforts for the moment are concentrated on the club's first fishing derby this weekend and next.

"A lot of the kids in the club are the sons and daughters of commercial troll fishermen in Sooke," said Paquin.

"They have heard their parents talk about their problems — apparently there are few fish for the taking the day that the seine fleet moves through."

But a spokesmen for the seine (net) fishermen believes the youngsters are acting without sufficient information.

"It's a good idea for these young people to be involved in what is going on around them," commented Scotty Neish, secretary-treasurer of the Victoria local of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union.

"But the thing is all they seem to get is the sports fisherman's story, without all the facts and figures to back things up."

Neish, who said he would be glad to speak to the club, said gillnetters and seiners take only about 25 per cent of spring salmon caught off the coast, and 40 per cent of the coho. Most of the fish are caught by trollers, he said.

He pointed out that sports fishermen are allowed to catch fish all year, while the seiners have a 90-day season during which they are allowed to fish only 21 to 30 days.

Fish conservation seems to come down to net fishermen, said Neish.

Truth, honesty for longevity

Mrs. Mary Chadwick, who turned 100 Thursday, claims the secret to her life has been a "truthful, honest, upright and God-fearing" nature.

It may also be due to a little "whiskey in my tea in the morning," she said with a smile.

Mrs. Chadwick, who came to Canada from Yorkshire after her husband died in 1921, lived in Vancouver before coming to Victoria where she has stayed since 1960.

Birthday cards lining mantel and tables came from all over the world and included congratulations and good wishes from the Queen. Flowers and a birthhday note from Victoria Mayor Peter Pollen were among the messages.

Mrs. Chadwick, who says she stood beside Queen Victoria at a public ceremony in about 1880, also remembers seeing her drive through the streets in a shimmering horse-drawn carriage.

During the First World War, Mrs. Chadwick took care of dozens of Canadian soldiers in England and helped find them housing while overseas. Her elder daughter married one of them.

She has out-lived this daughter, however, and most of her 11 brothers and sisters as well. A younger sister of 99 still lives in England.

Mrs. Chadwick's younger daughter is employed at W. and J. Wilson Ltd.

Chamber appeals on barges

In an 11th-hour bid to keep Canadian Pacific's international barge service operating between Victoria and Seattle, all levels of government were asked Thursday by the Greater Victoria Chamber of Commerce to oppose the company's plan to discontinue the service on Monday.

The service, which started in 1956, operates twice weekly and carries about 15 railway cars between the two centres.

Chamber manager Brian Small said the end of the service will deal a terrific blow to Victoria industries that use the barge run. Lumber, plywood, shingles, shakes and veneers are among the products shipped to the U.S. by the rail-equipped barges.

A letter from the chamber to CP's regional vice-president in Vancouver said the impending closure of the barge operation "points out to us the CPR's callous indifference to Vancouver Island's well being."

The letter also observed that many of CPR's present assets were "culled" from Vancouver Island.

A CP spokesman said from Vancouver the barges are leased by the company and costs have increased to the point where the run is "totally uneconomic to operate."

He said the company had the alternative of closing operation or increasing freight rates by such an extent the industries using the service would no longer use it.

Teachers open talks

The first round of southern Vancouver Island teacher negotiations under the new zonal bargaining system took place in Victoria Thursday, but a teachers' spokesman said the talks were purely "exploratory."

Under the new legislation brought in this spring, teachers in the Victoria, Saanich, Sooke, Cowichan and Gulf Islands school districts are bargaining together for new contracts.

Teacher spokesman Frank Mather said another session will be held next Friday, when the teachers will present their proposals to the trustees' negotiating committee.

Wage demands for the south Island zone haven't been set yet, Mather said.

Mike Berg, president of the B.C. School Trustees Association, said in a press release that teachers have fragmented the 13 bargaining zones established by Education Minister Eileen Dailly by deciding to bargain directly with their boards. He called this their "divide and conquer strategy."

City cutting it Close on Finlayson block

Next Monday residents of the 1400-block Finlayson will be living on Sara Close but they really want to live on Finlayson Place.

They're not all moving — just caught in city council's latest name change for city streets.

In all, eight city streets received new names with the final reading of a bylaw by council last Thursday.

Jack Calve of 1478 Finlayson expects to deliver a petition to city hall this week with signatures from the 15 affected householders.

Every one, he claims, wants the name change, if necessary, to be Finlayson Place.

The thing that annoys Calve is that residents were informed only Wednesday that the change would take place Monday.

"I've just ordered a new letterhead," Calve said.

But city engineer John Sansom, who regrets the short notice, said it was unavoidable if the new addresses were to be included in next year's phone book.

Apparently the name change bylaw would have been enacted earlier in the year but got lost with disruption in administration through the CUPE strike-lockout.

Sansom said it would take another three or four months for council to pass another bylaw renaming the street a second time, "by which time everybody will be used to the new name."

Cash-in attacked

The policy of giving cash awards to city employees who don't use their sick leave came under attack Thursday from Victoria aldermen.

But as in previous instances, after some grumbling, the aldermen approved payment of $26,000 in accumulated sick leave to six former city employees.

Normally paid only at the employee's retirement, the $26,000 in this case went to people who were transferred from the city's employment to provincial jurisdiction.

Leading the list of recipients was former city assessor Jack Ozard who will get $7,126 for not having been sick as often as benefits entitled him to. His assistant Cranston Browning will get $5,852.

Four other former assessment department employees will receive $3,473, $3,816, $2,803 and $2,803.

Ald. Robert Ellis said the system of accumulated sick leave seems to be based on the odd assumption that "if a guy is lucky enough to remain healthy, he should be paid extra for it."

Ald. Sam Bawlf said the accumulated amount was startling.

City Manager James Bramley said the system was adopted some years ago to deter people from staying away when they might possibly come to work.

Sick leave is paid on a graduated scale—12 days a year for the first five years, 18 days after that and 24 days after 15 years of service.

Employees can bank 50 per cent of the unused portion of their sick leave. After 10 years of service, they may claim 75 per cent of the accumulated sick leave in cash up to a maximum of 26 weeks or 130 working days.

Man convicted in seizure-and-sex case

A jury of 10 men and two women deliberated less than 90 minutes Thursday before finding a former Victoria man guilty of committing a sex crime with one high school girl and attempting to seize another girl in a similar incident.

The jury found Martin John Kellington, now of Kamloops, guilty of the attempted seizure of the second girl and of abducting the first girl for the purpose of forcing her to have illicit sexual intercourse, then indecently assaulting her while holding her at gunpoint.

The verdict against Kellington, who was remanded in custody for sentencing next week, was handed down after a four-day trial before Mr. Justice Craig Munroe in B.C. Supreme Court in Victoria.

Evidence suggested the two incidents which led to the charges had been committed by the same man, who had approached the girls in a red Toyota, brandished a gun, and ordered them into the vehicle.

The first girl was approached while she waited for a bus on a street in the Gorge area of Saanich.

She said the man in the car — whom she identified in court as Kellington — pointed a gun at her and told her to get in.

She refused to, she testified, and the man put the gun on the seat beside him, then motioned her forward with his hand.

She approached the car, she said, at which point he asked her if she would have sex with him.

She turned from the car, she said, and joined an even younger girl who had come up to the bus stop.

The man in the car then drove off, she testified.

A short while later, a red Toyota slowed to a stop beside two high school girls who were jogging along Tillicum Road.

The driver — again identified by the two girls as Kellington — pointed a gun at the pair and ordered them into the car.

One of the girls crouched down behind a parked vehicle, evidence indicated, while the other got into the car.

The driver then drove the girl for nearly an hour around the area, stopping twice in different school grounds, where he at first attempted to rape the girl, after asking her if she preferred to be raped or killed. ("I don't want to die," she answered.)

He then committed an indecent assault, finally releasing her near the home of the girl with whom she had been jogging when she was abducted.

Both incidents occurred last March 20.

Toronto trading

TORONTO (CP) — A surge of buying activity in the final hour of trading Thursday erased an earlier decline and has rejected a previously-announced offer by Brascan Ltd. to buy 85-per-cent interest in the Canadian company.

Brascan said it will not increase its $13.25-a-share offer and has terminated discussions with Ashland Oil Inc. Brascan Ltd. A gained ⅛ to $11 and prior to the halt, Ashland Oil Canada rose ⅜ to $10⅝. Trading is expected to resume at Friday's opening.

Canadian Utilities Ltd. lost ⅛ to $8¾ and Dome Petroleum Ltd. ⅛ to $30⅝. The companies said they have agreed on a joint venture to build and operate a $40-million natural gas processing plant in Edmonton.

Barymin Explorations Ltd. fell two cents to 43 cents, its lowest level this year. The company reported a net loss of $116,000 for the nine months ended July 31 compared with a net income of $453,000 for the same period a year ago.

Is Canada dumping?

OTTAWA (CP) — The next act in the Canada-U.S. debate over auto trade opens in Detroit Nov. 18 with public hearings before the United States International Trade Commission (ITC), which is investigating the 10-year-old Canada-U.S. auto pact.

Canadian auto parts makers are planning a major submission to counter U.S. claims that Canada is taking away the U.S. market for North American-type cars. The industry department has not yet decided whether it will send a representative.

The U.S. inquiry was requested by the Senate finance committee on behalf of Sen. Vance Hartke, who already has labelled the agreement a piece of Canadian blackmail.

Patrick Lavelle, president of the Automotive Parts Manufacturers Association (APMA), says its Canadian members will show the value of domestically-produced goods used in cars assembled here has deteriorated under the trade agreement.

In the first six months this year, the loss on auto trade with the United States rose 32 per cent from last year to a record $1.132 billion. Most of the loss occurred in parts trade.

Lavelle is critical of the industry department for what he terms its inaction so far, and claims the government has "misjudged events in the United States."

Besides reviewing the auto pact, the ITC also is investigating Canada and seven other countries to see whether they are injuring the U.S. industry by dumping cars.

The U.S. labor department already has ruled about 18,000 unemployed Chrysler Corp. workers eligible for special federal assistance because their job losses were caused primarily by auto imports from Canada.

The stiffening U.S. opposition to Canada's participation in U.S. markets comes at a time when weak sales have led to widespread domestic layoffs there.

The United Auto Workers Union (UAW) claimed at ITC hearings in July that Canada was responsible for the loss of 13.1 per cent of the U.S. market for North American-type cars. It requested the Canadian Treasury Board to investigate whether cars were being dumped in the United States.

Following a meeting of its international executive board Sept. 24, the UAW decided it would have to "clarify the situation," a UAW official in Toronto said.

The UAW official says part of the answer to the problem lies in eliminating the price difference between cars sold in Canada and those sold in the U.S. The same model generally costs about 6.5 per cent more in Canada than in U.S. because of higher import duties here, the UAW official said.

This price difference leaves Canada vulnerable to charges of dumping, the union feels.

Both the federal and the Ontario governments also are studying the whole auto industry. Ontario has a large stake in a healthy industry because auto assembly and parts production operations are about 75 per cent - based in the province and employ about 200,000.

The APMA has actively promoted a review of the auto pact, but it wants government initiatives to ensure that Canada will not be caught short should the United States demand changes that benefit it at the expense of Canadian production.

Lavelle says the appointment of Don Jamieson to replace Alastair Gillespie as industry minister is a hopeful development: "It gives the government a chance to take another look at the problem."

Safety awards have come into question from one of that idea's major backers — the Workers Compensation Board of B.C. So much so that award programs have been cancelled in construction, forestry and among municipalities.

The position of the WCB is that they do not believe that accident frequency records are an adequate way to select winners. They feel that the statistics often do not reflect the real situation; that small companies are discriminated against; that the program has little educational value and that it takes up a great deal of staff time.

But keep your hard hats on out there — they're working out something new that cuold be in operation by next year.

The royal commission on forest resources, being conducted by Dr. Peter Pearse, reaches Victoria Monday, Oct. 20. The study, which began in Kamloops last Aug. 12, will hear from several government departments here as well as many small and large logging firms.

The hearings will finish in Vancouver sometime in November.

Graham Morgan, director of the local firm of Thurber Consultants Ltd., is at present in the Soviet Union where among other things he will visit Soviet pipeline installations in the Arctic. Morgan, travelling with a federal government trade group, is observing the installations on behalf of the Berger Commission and will report his findings to that body upon his return.

The Berger hearings are being conducted to consider the possibilities and problems with a proposed Mackenzie Valley gas pipeline.

Pitney-Bowes, the metered-mail people, have moved into the copier field with the introduction recently of a medium volume machine.

Manager of the local sales and service office, M. J. deTurberville, says that rental charges for the medium-volume client makes the Pitney-Bowes machine materially cheaper than that of competitors.

The Greater Victoria Chamber of Commerce will name its citizen of the year at the next luncheon meeting on Wednesday, Oct. 15. President of the B.C. Chamber, Bert Price, as guest speaker, will address the members on the economic outlook.

Libya halts flow

NEW YORK (Reuter) — Libya has stopped the flow of oil from an Occidental Petroleum Corp. terminal and barred 520 non-Libyan employees, including 230 Americans, from leaving the country, the company said Thursday.

The action at the Zueitina terminal was taken in apparent retaliation to damage suits worth $1 billion filed by the company and its withholding of $440 million in payments to Libya until a verdict or a settlement is reached.

NEW YORK (UPI) — W. T. Grant and Co., one of the largest variety store chains in the U.S., declared itself bankrupt Thursday, one day before its 69th birthday as a "25-cent department store."

Under the voluntary bankruptcy proceedings, Grant will be freed from pressure from creditors and allowed to do business as usual while it reorganizes its finances and figures out a way to pay its debts.

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Ford Motor Co. of Canada Ltd. announced Thursday a suggested maximum list price of $3,305 for its 1976 Ford Pinto Pony MPG model, claiming it will be the lowest priced of any North American-made sub-compact sold in Canada.

William Hawkins, Ford general manager, said the price "puts the Pinto Pony MPG $3 under tht suggested price of our newest competitor in the sub-compact field."

It was an obvious reference to the Chevrolet Chevette and Pontiac Acadian, two new sub-compacts of General Motors of Canada Ltd. that carry a suggested retail price of $3,308 for the two-passenger version.

Independent researcher favors Canadian line

WASHINGTON (CP) — A leading independent research agency in the United States has expressed strong support for a proposal to build a pipeline through Canada to carry natural gas to U.S. markets from Alaska.

In a report prepared for the California government, the Rand Corp. says the system would be superior in almost every resepct to a rival bid to construct a pipeline from northern Alaska to a southern port in the state for shipment in liquid form down the west coast to California.

But the report adds that unfavorable action by the Canadian government might eliminate the advantages of a route through Canada and it urges the state to withhold endorsement of the system until a satisfactory treaty is signed by the two countries on the subject. Such a document now is in the final drafting stages.

The arrangement favored by Rand has been put forward by a consortium of Canadian and American firms known as the Arctic Gas Co. If accepted by Ottawa and Washington, a pipeline would be built to carry gas both from the North Slope of Alaska and the Canadian Arctic south to markets in the U.S. and Canada. The Rand report deals only with the implications for the U.S. from the pipeline.

El Paso Alaska Co., a U.S. firm, has proposed the all-American route through Alaska.

The report says the Arctic Gas system is likely to have lower direct and indirect costs than the El Paso porposal.

Both systems are vulnerable to disruptions, it says, but the Arctic Gas arrangement would be the most reliable. There were also fewer environmental and safety risks from a pipeline route through Canada.

The study was financed by the California and federal governments, the Rockefeller Foundation and the Rand Corp. itself.

Hearings now are under way before the U.S. Federal Power Commission the national energy regulatory Agency, to determine which of the two systems should be accepted.

In one brief, prepared for the hearing by a large international union with members in Canada and the United States, the commission was urged to reject the proposed line through Canada, saying Ottawa may not always be an ally of Washington.

This view came from the United Associaiton of Jurneymen and Apprentices of the Plumbing and pipefitting Industry of the U.S. and Canada, AFL-CIO.

Profit slips

NANAIMO — Great National Land and Investment Corp. Ltd., a Nanaimo-based real estate company listed on the Vancouver Stock Exchange, reports a decline in net income in the fiscal year ended April 30.

Net income declined from $482,885 to $408,661 and on a per share basis from 19.6 cents to 16.5 cents.

Frank Ney, company president, said that the reduction was largely due to rapidly-accelerating costs or labor and financing. He added that although net incomes were off, an additional $964,545 was set aside as deferred income.

Gross revenue rose 20.9 per cent to $11.4 million and gross assets rose by $7.1 million to $23.9 million.

Housing parley set

The lineup of major speakers for the provincial Department of Housing's Victoria conference next week has been announced.

George Chatterton, associate deputy housing minister, will be chairman for the discussions that will take place at the Empress Hotel next Tuesday and Wednesday.

The theme of the conference is the problems of the private sector in meeting housing demands of the area.

The opening address will be made by deputy minister Gary Begg. Other dinner and luncheon speakers are Michael Dennis, Toronto's commissioner of housing, and Lloyd Axworthy, director of urban studies, University of Winnipeg.

Lead speakers for panel sessions will be Eric Charman, president, Greater Victoria Real Estate Board; Victoria mayor Peter Pollen; Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. branch manager Chris Dowling and Jim Sawyer, business agent and financial secretary, local 1598 United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America.

Some 110 delegates have been invited. Invitations have been sent to municipal councils, the capital regional district, CMHC, labor groups, professional and consumer associations and some individuals.

$5-million salvage nearly complete

Salvage of about $5.5 million worth of machinery, cargo and the barge Koko Head is expected to be completed by the Victoria-based tug Sudbury II early next week.

The barge overturned off Prince Rupert in mid-August as it was being towed to Alaska from its home port, Seattle.

Salvage operations began Aug. 19 by Seaspan International and most of the barge's cargo has been removed and sent to Seattle, according to a spokesman.

Some of the cargo was raised from a depth of 70 feet by a diving team, Seaspan vice-president Richard Tolhurst said. Heavy equipment was lifted by the log-carrier barge Seaspan Yarder, which is equipped with two 45-ton cranes.

In a telephone interview from Vancouver Thursday, Tolhurst said the barge capsized but did not sink. The barge is being "heaved over by the Sudbury II and ground tackle and is half-way there already."

He said the cargo included mobile homes and heavy machinery such as forklift trucks and front-end loaders, plus lumber and other cargo carried north every summer by the owner Northland Marine.

Food talks resume

VANCOUVER (CP) — Clive McKee, a labor relations consultant, said Thursday that exploratory meetings are in progress in the food industry dispute which has closed 125 Greater Vancouver supermarkets since Sept. 5.

McKee, who would not say when the talks began, said he was assisting the parties in mediation and was not acting as an industrial inquiry commissioner.

The B.C. Food Industry Labor Relations Council, representing the supermarkets, locked out the retail clerks after it received no assurance from the three unions involved in the dispute that they would give three days' advance notice of any picketing.

The Bakery Workers Union, the Meatcutters local of the Canadian Food and Allied Workers Union and the Retail Clerks International Association represent about 4,500 of 5,000 workers at the closed supermarkets.

The food council had asked the unions to give advance notice of any picketing to allow stores to unload perishables.

The unions rejected an increase of $1.30 an hour over terms ranging between 10 and 11½ months that would raise general clerks to $7.25 an hour, meatcutters to $7.95 and bakers to $8.14.

Clerks and meatcutters would work 36 hours a week and be paid for 40 hours, while the bakers would have a 35-hour week.

The meatcutters and bakers were both locked out by members of the food council and picketing by the unions had been anticipated.

Beryl Plumptre, Food Prices Review Board chairman, had asked the B.C. government to intervene in the dispute because she said the demands of the unions involved were far to high.

Labor Minister William King rejected the suggestion and said that both sides should reach a solution on their own.

The stores involved in the dispute are mainly Safeway and Super-Valu stores, with a smaller number of Stongs, company-owned IGA, Hi-Low, Shop-Easy and Overwaitea stores.

Union members earlier predicted a lengthy shutdown, much like the 1969 strike

Through Gladys' eye

By STANLEY M. BROWN

ABOARD NOAA 41C OVER THE ATLANTIC (UPI) — With a hop, dip and a bump, the C130 burst through the raging storm wall into the eye of Hurricane Gladys and 20,000 feet below, the sea was a boiling maelstrom.

As the four-engine turboprop winged around the 15-mile eye of Gladys, dozens of instruments dissected the storm and recorded the data on two banks of computers.

Dr. Robert C. Sheets and seven other national oceanic and atmospheric administration scientists monitored banks of temperature probes, ice particle counters, and radar screens, and instruments that can even "fingerprint" the nucleus of a raindrop.

Sheets' conversation ended abruptly when lightning flashed nearby. The converted air force cargo plane slipped out of Gladys' eye, slammed into a blanket of ice and was tossed violently by the storm's 140-mile-an-hour winds.

Pilot Bob Sandquist skilfully guided the plane, its wings flapping like a giant bird, into a calm spot in the Hurricane. The flight deck instruments returned to normal and the scientists refocused their attention on the instruments.

When the plane — stripped of its nose paint by the encounter with the ice — landed in Miami 11 hours later, the National Hurricane Centre was calling Gladys the western Atlantic's most intense hurricane in 15 years. None of the 19 crewmen aboard NOAA 41C doubted it.

Gladys ended her threat to the eastern seaboard Thursday, speeding out to sea over the cold north Atlantic where ships were warned against 140 mile-an-hour blasts.

A hurricane watch for North Carolina's outer banks was lifted Thursday morning after Gladys turned away from the coast and began moving out to sea.

Relieved forecasters said Gladys might have had catastrophic effects if it had hit the coast, especially in the wake of widespread flooding caused by tropical storm Eloise last week in the middle Atlantic states.

Mediator starts B.C. Rail talks

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mediator Jack Sherlock began meetings Thursday as a government-appointed industrial inquiry commission to settle the B.C. Railway labor dispute.

Labor Minister William King announced Wednesday that Sherlock had been appointed to bring down a non-binding report.

The main dispute involves demands of the United Transportation Union to get overtime on a daily basis after eight hours of work for some 400 trainmen.

BCR is strongly resisting payment of overtime on a daily basis because it would set a North American precedent in railway freight transportation. The UTU is demanding compensation for the time members must spend away from home to make a living.

B.C. Rail contracts with 11 unions expired July 31 but so far only the shopcrafts have settled.

Cut hand ends in death

Canadian Press

A Victoria construction worker has died in Vancouver from a hand cut for which he apparently didn't obtain medical attention soon enough.

Theodore Laumann, 53, of 1678 Alderwood, cut his hand about 17 days ago on a job at Port Hardy. He apparently didn't seek treatment until 10 days later when he was admitted to hospital in Port Hardy.

He was transferred to Vancouver General Hospital on Sept. 23 for specialized infection treatment but died there Tuesday.

An autopsy has been ordered.

2 Victorians drawn in Irish

Two Victorians are among the 11 from across the province who have drawn horses in the Irish Hospitals Sweepstakes based on the running Saturday of the Cambridgeshire Handictp at Newmarket, England.

UIC premiums

NDP vows battle

WINNIPEG (CP) — New Democratic Party Leader Ed Broadbent said Thursday he will stage a major parliamentary battle against higher unemployment insurance premiums planned by the government.

"These announced changes in the Unemployment Insurance Commission Act represent a dishonest, disguised and disreputable tax on average and lower income working Canadians," he said in a speech prepared for delivery here.

Broadbent said higher premiums undermine the principle that the government should pay the entire cost of benefits for claims made when unemployment exceeds 4 per cent.

Changes planned by the government would boost premiums and raise the break-even point for the unemployment insurance system to an the government of spreading unemployment rate "somewhere around 6 per cent" by 1977, Broadbent said.

Employer-employee contributions now cover the full cost of UIC benefits up to 4 per cent unemployment.

The NDP leader accused a false impression that there is a widespread abuse of unemployment insurance benefits.

"Of course some people cheat . . . but the level of abuse is not very high when you consider the number of people who go through the unemployment insurance system every year," Broadbent said.

A total of only 860 claimants were found guilty of abuse last year among 2.4 million who collected unemployment insurance, he added.

He also said the 250,000 persons that the government says are leaving work yearly without good cause to collect benefits constitute only 2.5 per cent of the labor force.

Winner stays incognito

MONTREAL (CP) — A lawyer representing a 69-year-old man from Stratford, Ont., was among three people who collected cheques for $1 million from the Olympic Lottery at a ceremony Thursday.

The cheque for the Stratford man was given to L. Ray Waller in trust for the man, who has asked not to be identified.

"He's still in a state of shock," Waller said, but added his client had taken the news of his win "a lot calmer than I did."

Waller described his client as an impoverished, sick man who has been living off an army disability pension and other pensions.

He said the man was investing part of the lottery money and giving the rest to his three children, all in their 40s.

Mrs. St. Cyr said she was giving $100,000 each to her husband and children, keeping the remaining $600,000 for herself.

All five members of the St. Cyr family plan to invest the money.

Robert Neilson, 55, of Lanark, Ont., says he has already invested his $1-million prize.

Neilson quit his job with the Ontario natural resources department after hearing of his good fortune. He said others needed the work more than he did.

The 10-person staff of the Credit Union in l'Ephiphanie, a Montreal suburb, showed up in their uniforms to collect a $500,000 cheque.

A total of 12 seven-digit numbers were selected at random by a Manitoba government computer Sunday night to determine the winners of the lottery from among the nearly 7.5 million tickets sold. Each number represents three winning tickets, one in each of three series of tickets.

Other winning numbers and the amounts won are:

$100,000 — 1953815; 2547758; and 294,9225.

$50,000 — 3250409; 3261122; 1199662; and 3310131.

A host of smaller prizes will be paid to holders of tickets with the final three, four or five digits identical to those of the 12 numbers selected.

The 864 tickets with five matching digits won $1,000 each and 81,000 with three matching digits return $100 each.

1976 Mercury Comet 2-Door Sedan

Don't let this little beauty with the Custom Exterior Option fool you. Beneath Comet's great looks is an economy-minded 200 CID engine, front disc brakes, and beautifully designed interiors. Five new exterior colours, fresh new front end appearance and options like fully-reclining bucket seats help make this proven, dependable compact car a real beauty.

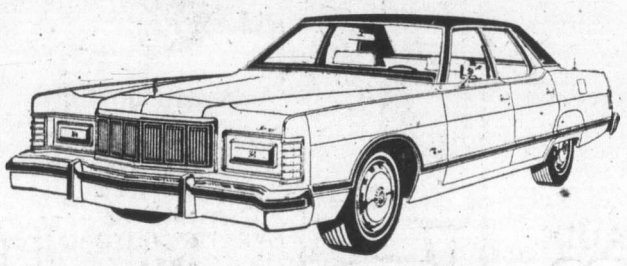

1976 Mercury Monarch Ghia 4-Door Sedan

Mercury Monarch represents a new concept in precision-sized automotive design. For 1976, we've improved its suspension for an even smoother ride and there's more sound insulation for an even quieter ride. There's spacious room for 5 adults and a new full-width front bench seat. There are exciting new exterior paint colours. Popular options include fully-reclining, deeply-padded front bucket seats, beautiful new interiors in leather and velour, styled-steel wheels and many more.

1976 Capri II from Mercury

The sporty, sexy European from Mercury is a truly extraordinary road car. Standard features like a 2.3 litre OHC 4-cylinder engine, 4-speed manual transmission, power front disc brakes, and steel-belted radial tires make for outstanding performance. The exciting Capri II Decor Group Option includes individually contoured rear seating with folding backs (that provide passenger seating and load carrying flexibility), a convenient mini console, hinged rear quarter windows and much more.

1976 Mercury Grand Marquis Brougham 4-Door Pillared Hardtop

Luxury is well within your reach with Marquis, the first of 3 luxurious series from Mercury. Mercury has a reputation for a superb ride, a high level of luxury and true value. There are 6 new exterior colours, standard. For '76, stylish options include a striking new tutone exterior with complementing interiors of tan/saddle or cream/gold on Marquis Brougham and Grand Marquis 2-Door Hardtops, new Landau vinyl roof and forged aluminum wheels.

Your Mercury dealer has an exciting line-up of 1976 cars—and we're talking about more than style, comfort and ride.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has just tested the 1976 cars and the U.S. results (sales-weighted) for the big 3 auto makers show that Ford Motor Company cars are #1 in fuel economy.

More specifically, 1976 Ford Motor Company cars achieved an average mileage of 20.7 miles per gallon and an improvement of 27% over the 1975's.

The engines in the 1976 Mercury carlines have been refined for improved fuel economy and better driveability in terms of easier starting, better stop-and-go response and smoother acceleration.

In addition, there are lower-cost optional engines designed to run on lower-priced regular gasoline that's readily available anywhere.

1976 Mercury Cougar XR-7 2-Door Hardtop

It's like nobody else's car. This year the mid-size Cougar puts the accent on personal luxury with beautifully exciting interiors including the new optional tutone gold/cream combination. Standard features include automatic transmission, radial tires, solid-state ignition, and an elegantly-styled Flight bench seat. An expanded list of options including high-back front bucket seats and centre console helps you make the Cougar XR-7 a truly personal mid-size luxury car.

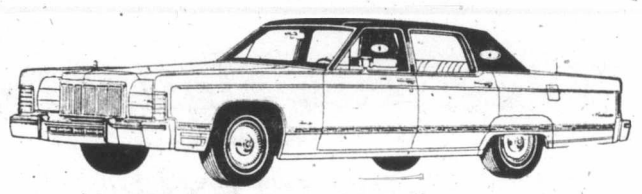

1976 Mercury Montego MX Brougham 2-Door Hardtop

Dollar for dollar, feature for feature, it's one of the best mid-size cars on the road today. In '76, even the lowest-priced Montego is well equipped and comes with standard features like power steering, power front disc brakes, Select-Shift automatic transmission, and a very responsive 351 V8 engine with improved fuel economy. Choose from new exterior colours and desirable options to make your Montego match your lifestyle.

U.S. EPA standardized test results (sales-weighted) have been and are being used by automotive manufacturers for fuel-economy statements. Such tests are performed on a dynamometer to simulate city and highway driving. Because the average figures cover many engine and transmission combinations and optional equipment, the car you choose may perform differently. Furthermore, the gas mileage you actually get depends on you. Your type of driving. Your driving habits. Road and weather conditions. And how your car is maintained.

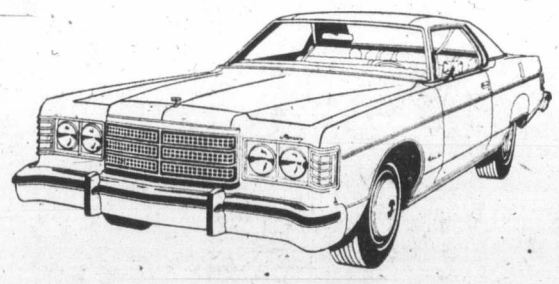

*The Bobcat Special MPG 2-Door Sedan, equipped with 2.3 litre engine and 4-speed manual transmission, achieved a rating of 29.8 MPG (city) and 45.2 MPG (highway) in EPA tests.

Certain items mentioned or illustrated are optional at additional cost.

1976 Lincoln Continental 4-Door Sedan

The year of individuality begins with the Lincoln Continental. Graceful by design, Lincoln Continental exemplifies elegance, prestige and performance. The wide range of standard features may be complemented with a host of luxury options that let you build your Continental to suit your personal preferences. Lincoln Continental, luxury that endures.

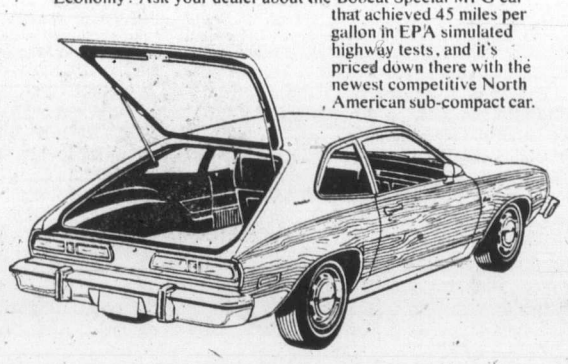

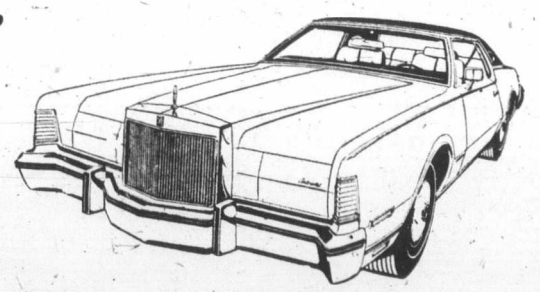

1976 Mercury Meteor Rideau 500 2-Door Hardtop

Quiet comfort, great ride, all at an affordable price make Mercury Meteor a solid and sensible value. Meteor comes with a family-size interior (accommodates six adults), and there is a big deep well trunk. Add to this the standard fuel-efficient 351 V8 engine and great interior appointments and you have the true meaning of value in an automobile. Optional features include two new vinyl roof colours, forged aluminum wheels and AM/FM Multiplex Search radio.

1976 Mercury Bobcat "SC" 3-Door Runabout with "Woodgrain Option"

This year there are 5 Bobcat models in all including two big haulin' little wagons and featuring our newest sassy "SC" 3-Door Runabout with Woodgrain Option. For '76, Bobcat has 5 new exterior colours and a variety of new options: 2 new vinyl roof colours, tape stripes and Alpine plaid fabric upholstery. Economy? Ask your dealer about the Bobcat Special MPG car* that achieved 45 miles per gallon in EPA simulated highway tests, and it's priced down there with the newest competitive North American sub-compact car.

1976 Continental Mark IV 2-Door Coupé

Mark IV continues as a classic in its own time. It takes care of your personal comfort with automatic temperature control air conditioning, power windows, Twin Comfort Lounge Seats with 6-way power for both driver and passenger and much, much more. Mark IV offers a new optional AM/FM stereo radio with Quad 8 tape player and a unique Designer's Collection of selected harmonious colour combinations by such noted designers as Givenchy, Pucci, Cartier and Bill Blass.

Cougars and rivals scrambling to fill holes

Graduation of top scorers and goaltenders dictates rebuilding

By STAN COOPER

If ever there was a rebuilding year for the Western Canada Hockey League this is it.

No fewer than 10 of the top 15 scorers and nine of the 15 regular netminders last season have graduated, many to professional ranks, and almost every team is still shuffling its roster.

Victoria Cougars are no exception and manager-coach Pat Ginnell, while confident his club will do well, admits it will be much tougher to succeed in the Western Division this season. Cougars breezed to their first-ever division championship last season, taking the lead in late October and never relinquishing it.

There are problems in Cougar country and they centre on Gord Roberts. The flashy defenceman who celebrated his 18th birthday Thursday left the club about two weeks ago and reportedly signed a contract with New England Whalers of the World Hockey Association.

WHA chairman Ben Hatskin said Thursday the league has made a decision on the playing status of the Detroit native but said "there are a few things still to be decided" and no statement will be made until they are. Hatskin said he should have a full statement before the WHA opens its season, Oct. 9.

That's hardly encouraging to the Cougars, who open their campaign Saturday night at Memorial Arena when Calgary Centennials visit for an 8:30 game.

Cougars have announced they'll go to court to block Roberts' move to the WHA.

Ginnell has taken steps to fill Roberts' spot by adding Don Johnson, a husky defenceman obtained from Lethbridge Broncos, but the coach feels he needs at least one more blueliner and a left winger.

He will probably team holdovers Tim Williams and Lorry Gloeckner on Saturday and play Johnson with holdover Rick Peter while keeping rookie Ken Bueckert in reserve.

And Gerry Simpson, backup in the latter part of last season, will likely start in goal with Dan Rogers backing him up.

The forward lines will have Al Hill centering Danny Lucas, a 115-pointgetter last season, and Curt Fraser; captain Jim Gustafson between recently-acquired Jeff McDill and rookie Rick Durston; and the rookie unit of Kim Hilkewich working with Alvin Moore and Greg Anderson.

Rick Martin and Dennis Fenske are ticketed for spot duty.

Martin, Hill, Gustafson and Johnson are all 20-year-olds playing under the new overage ruling which allows each club to keep a maximum of four players a year older than the league limit of 19.

"Overage" players could have a bearing on the fortunes of many teams this season and many rosters are incomplete as pro clubs haven't made their final cuts yet.

In the Western Division, New Westminster Bruins should be the Cougars' toughest opposition. Coach Ernie McLean has most of his Memorial Cup final squad back for another year but he has lost goalkeeper Gord Laxton and centre Barry Smith, perhaps the two key players in the drive to the playoff title and the national junior playoff.

Bruins have defencemen Barry Beck and Brad Maxwell returning along with top scorers Fred Berry, Kevin Shamehorn and Harold Phillipoff, Clay Pachal, Mark Lofthouse and Steve Clippingdale. And goalkeepers Kerry Nisbett and Carey Walker played well enough to backstop the Bruins to an 8-2 record in exhibition play, including four straight wins over the Cougars.

Kamloops Chiefs should have the best goalkeeping in the division with Mark Earp and Brian Henderson back but coach Harvey Roy lost a lot of muscle in Brad Gassoff and Neil Lyseng and the slick playmaking of defenceman Terry McDonald. Chiefs have Darryl Ferner back as an "overage" and have added 20-year-old centre Larry Lestander from Calgary.

Medicine Hat Tigers had three top players taken in the first round of the National Hockey League draft — Barry Dean, Bryan Maxwell and Greg Vaykik — so coach Jack Shupe has several position to fill. Shupe also lost goalkeepers Ken Holland and Jerry Farwell but he does have 82-goal scorer Don Murdoch, the 1975 rookie-of-the-year returning.

Edmonton Oil Kings lost goalkeeper Doug Soetaert, who played for the club during the last four seasons, and coach Doug Messier will be pressed to come up with a replacement. Messier has dipped into the ranks of Spruce Grove Mets, Canadian Tier Two champions, for many recruits.

Centennials have to be improved over their dismal 11-51-8 showing last season although coach Dave Amadio needs replacements for Don Ashby, Dennis McLean, and goalkeeper Lary Hendrick. Holdover defenceman Rick Hodgson would appear to be the best of the blueliners, and rookie Don Biault, a 190-pounder, should add muscle to the forward lines.

The Eastern Division race should also be a tussle this season with defending-champion Saskatoon Blades getting a stiff fight from Regina Pats, Lethbridge Broncos and Brandon Wheat Kings.

FOILED by Los Angeles' Rogatien Vachon on this bid is Dennis Ververgaert of Vancouver Canucks during first-period action Thursday night at Memorial Arena. Paulin Bordeleau (15) of the Canucks awaits in vain for rebound while Vic Venasky (10) and Larry Brown (3) of the Kings are on the scene to help Vachon. Kings outlasted the Canucks, 6-5.

By STAN COOPER

Maybe they were there to see Marcel Dionne, maybe it was the Vancouver Canucks or it might have been a poor night on television.

Whatever the reason, a record crowd for hockey in Victoria — 5718 fans — was on hand Thursday at Memorial Arena to see Los Angeles Kings and the Canucks play a National Hockey League exhibition game.

If the fans turned out to see Dionne, the flashy centre recruited by the Kings in the off-season, they were probably disappointed as the former Detroit Red Wing sensation merely went through the motions.

But if it was exciting, although loosely-played, hockey the fans were after, they got their money's worth.

For the record, Kings scored a 6-5 victory, thanks to a fine individual effort by winger Tom Williams late in the third period.

Kings had a man advantage at the time but Williams beat two defenders with a slick move and whipped the puck past Ken Lockett for the winning goal. It came at 14:33, 80 seconds after Canuck captian Andre Boudrias was penalized for hooking.

Referee Lloyd Gilmour drew a chorus of boos for assessing the penalty, which came after winger Gene Carr made a spectacular performance of falling to the ice. Boudrias loudly complained his stick had merely brushed Carr's sweater but his argument was ignored.

Carr, a Nanaimo resident in the off-season, had scored a power-play goal in the first period to give the Kings a 2-1 edge after 20 minutes.

Bob Berry, Don Kozak, Vic Venasky, and Butch Goring were the other marksmen for the Kings, who brought their exhibition record to 3-2, the same as the Canucks.

Rick Blight, Dennis Ververgaert and Bob Dailey, best of the Canuck defencemen, also scored for Vanvouver.

Rogatien Vachon blocked 35 shots in the Los Angeles net while Gary Smith and Lockett combined for 37 saves. Lockett replaced Smith midway through the second period and gave up the final three goals.

Gilmour had an easy night of it, assessing only eight penalties, five to the Canucks.

The crowd, swelled by a number of charters from other Island points, broke the previous record by 285. On Jan. 25, 1958, 5433 fans were at the arena to see Victoria Cougas and Edmonton Flyers in a Western Hockey League game. That marked the first appearance in Victoria of Colin Kilburn after he had been fired as Cougar coach and replaced by Pat Egan.

Victoria Cougars of the Western Canada Hockey League came close to matching the previous record earlier this year when 5327 watched a playoff game against Kamloops Chiefs.

Points split may help Bombers and Argos

TORONTO — Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Toronto Argonauts helped each other Thursday night in another Canadian Football League game featuring a successful late rally.

This one didn't produce a winner, but the 21-21 tie brought the clubs a point which could well be the deciding factor in deciding playoff spots in their divisions. Both the Bombers and Argos are struggling to win the third playoff spot, and now the margin for the Bombers is three points, and for the Argos two points.

Rookie-import Steve Beaird was the star for the Bombers as they came from 7-21 to a tie with a 10-point fourth quarter. The stumpy running back, who scored on a 59-yard pass play in the second quarter to bring his club a 7-7 tie, crossed the goal-line at 12:34 of the fourth quarter after a 51-yard run to give Bernie Ruoff the chance to kick the tying point. Ruoff, who had kicked Bombers within hoping distance, came through with his 11th convert in 11 chances this season.

The rookie Canadian kicker missed a field goal from 25 yards in the third quarter but made amends later in the quarter by getting a three-pointer from 49 yards. Then he closed the gap to seven points at 4:11 of the fourth quarter.

Beaird was easily the game's most-effective offence player, carrying 17 times for 125 yards and adding 63 yards on two passes.

The Argos, desperately trying to rebuild in mid-season, were best served on attack by three newcomers. Quarterback Steve Joachim, added last week when released by Baltimore Colts of the National Football League, threw two touchdown passes, fullback Allan Bloomingdale got 75 yards in 10 rushes and went 51 yards after accepting a screen pass, and halfback Dick Morton scored once on a short run and once on a 12-yard pass play with Joachim.

The Argos, however, could only score in the second quarter, and were held well in check after their three-touchdown splurge.

World softball

Victoria Bate Construction manager Jack Bell was a little concerned Thursday after receiving the lineup of countries entered in the 1976 world softball championship.

Bates won the Canadian championship and the right to represent Canada in the world tournament which starts Jan. 31 at Lower Hutt, New Zealand.

The other countries competing are New Zealand, the United States, Japan, Taiwan, Guam, the Phillipines, Mexico, Argentine and South Africa.

It's the inclusion of the latter team that has Bell concerned.

The Canadian government has strongly suggested that Canadian athletes refrain from entering into competition with South Africans because of that country's apartheid policies.

In September the Canadian Lawn Bowling Association announced it was pulling out of the 1976 World Bowls, scheduled to be played February in South Africa, because of the Canadian government's opposition.

The government pays the air fare for the softball team and Bell is hoping that South Africa's entry in the tournament won't cause the government to back down.

Bell said he is going to contact the Canadian Amateur Sports Association to find out what the government's position will be.

Swig gets clearance for Seals' takeover

MONTREAL (CP) — The National Hockey League confirmed Thursday that California Seals, under a group headed by San Francisco businessman Mel Swig, will open its season as scheduled next Wednesday.

The Seals and their new owners received the go ahead to open against Atlanta Flames in Atlanta following a day-long meeting of the NHL board of governors.

There had been speculation that the Seals, whose ownership had been transferred in late July to Swig from NHL trusteeship, would not operate because Swig had failed to put up a $1.5-million guarantee.

"In recent days, there have been published reports that Mr. Swig would not complete arrangements to purchase the team and, further, that the franchise might be moved to another city," NHL president Clarence Campbell said.

Campbell vehemently denied the NHL will operate the team if any further problems arise with Swig's financing.

"There is no way the league will operate the team again this season," Campbell said. "If this came about, we would grind down the operation entirely."

Swig plans to keep the Seals in Oakland for the next two seasons, playing at the 12,500-seat Oakland-Alameda Coliseum until construction is completed on a larger arena in San Francisco.

Flin Flon snatches victory

BRANDON (CP) — Centre Richmond Gosselin scored his second goal of the game with 20 seconds remaining in the third period to lift Flin Flon Bombers to a 5-4 victory over Brandon Wheat Kings in a Western Canada Hockey League game Thursday night.

A crowd of 2072 watched as the Bombers scored three unanswered goals in the final period to erase a 4-2 lead Brandon had held after 40 minutes of play.

The victory was the first of the season for the Bombers against one defeat. It was the first game of the season for the Wheat Kings.

Sabres acquire Flames' Richard

Going to the Flames was defenceman Larry Carriere, a three-year veteran of the Sabres' blueline corps, and Buffalo's first-round draft pick in 1976.

Richard, Atlanta's first-round pick in the 1972 amateur draft, never has reached the potential expected of him after his final junior year with Quebec Remparts when he scored 71 goals and 160 points.

His best season with the Flames was 1973-74 when he picked up 27 goals and 43 points, tailing off last year to 17 goals and 29 points in 63 games.

Carriere, meanwhile, joined the Sabres mid-way in the 1972-73 season. He was picked in the second round of the previous year's draft after playing in the college ranks with Loyola University in Montreal.

Two-ball golf final today

Marjorie Cameron and Jean Rimmington of Victoria golf Club will meet Eileen Anderson and Edith McCormick of Colwood at Victoria Golf Club.

The Cameron-Rimmington duo topped Thelma Bydal and Shirley DeBellefeuille of Royal Colwood, 2 and 1, while the Anderson-McCormick pairing scored a 2-up victory over clubmates Joan Perks and Kathleen Craig in semi-final play Thursday at Gorge Vale.

Finals in the nine-flight competition will start at 8:30 a.m. and the championship event is scheduled for a 10:14 start.

Robin Sadler
. . . passes up $250,000

He just had no desire to be pro

VANCOUVER (UPI) — One week as a professional hockey player was enough for 20-year-old Robin Sadler, and he walked away from a $250,000 contract with Montreal Canadiens and wants to become a fireman.

"The way society is now," Sadler said Thursday, "the whole thing seems to be to make as much money as you can as fast as you can. But, really, money has never meant that much to me. I've never had it, and I don't crave it. It just wasn't that important. I can be happier doing other things even if they don't pay as much. And that's the main thing."

The former junior star, Canadiens' first draft choice this year, reached the decision after a week in training camp.

"I found it wasn't a game any more," he said. "It's a serious business — a lot more serious than I like to play. Talent is one thing and desire is another. If you don't have both, you're in the wrong place."

Sadler, the son of a well-to-do Vancouver real estate agent, was drafted and signed by Canadiens after scoring 32 goals and 61 assists with Edmonton Oil Kings to become one of the highest-scoring defencemen in the Western Canada Hockey Leeague last season.

He confirmed that the three-year contract offered by Montreal was about $250,000.

"But I had never always wanted to be a professional player," he said. "It never really came into my mind. I know it's the dream of a lot of other fellows but I just found myself floating right into it.

"If you're not happy as a player you can't put out the way you should. I was only hurting the team and myself as well."

Robin's mother, Mrs. Myrtle Sadler, said: "I was a little shocked by the decision. But if money doesn't mean that much to him, well, more power to the boy. He has seen a few cases where people with a lot of money were not that happy."

Mrs. Sadler said Robin phoned her twice from Canadiens' training camp — "and I could tell from the tone of his voice he was unhappy."

"Later I got a call from the Canadiens' coach, Scotty Bowman," she said. "He wanted to know what was wrong. He said Robin was playing well but he couldn't figure him out.

Now Sadler has applied to join the North Vancouver fire department as a $962-a-month probationary fireman. He may have to wait until he turns 21 next March to be accepted. After six months his pay would go up to $992 a month.

"But I don't think I'm going to have any regrets," Sadler said. "I want a slower, more relaxed life than I could ever have had in pro hockey. I want something that leaves me time for a life outside the job."

Site ban won't stop Killanin

MONTREAL (CP) — Lord Killanin, president of the International Olympic Committee, arrived Thursday for executive board meetings and said he intends to examine the main stadium for the 1976 Olympic Games despite a ban on visitors imposed by the security chief.

Guy Toupin, deputy director of Montreal Urban Community police, said this week that "except for exceptional circumstances" visitors would be barred from the stadium site.

The Olympic Games organizing committee then said IOC members would get only a view of the site from surrounding streets, but Killanin appeared ready to have his way.

"I came to Montreal to see the site and I'm going to enter it," he said. "I intend to walk about the site exactly as I did the last time.

"I don't know what little rows are going on, but the whole object of the exercise is to see the sites."

A tour is scheduled Sunday of several Games sites, including the stadium, the Olympic Village that will house athletes and the Olympic Basin where rowing events will be held. Killanin said he will withhold comment until Monday.

SPLITTING the male opposition in Maria Avila of the Healdsburg California high school soccer team. Miss Avila is one of three girls playing on Healdsburg soccer teams that are touring Victoria this week. Checking Miss Avila are Brad Robertson (4) and Steve Greig of Esquimalt Dockers. Greig scored the first goal and Esquimalt triumphed, 6-1, in the exhibition game at Esquimalt.

Girls 'natural' part of California XIs

By REG REYNOLDS

Girls playing on boys' teams and boys playing on girls' teams has created considerable controversy in the Canadian and United States school systems.

But at Healdsburg High School in California mixed teams aren't considered a big deal.

Healdsburg has three girls in its soccer program and all three will be playing in exhibition games at Vic High today.

The Healdsburg junior and senior soccer teams arrived in Victoria Wednesday night and started a three-day exhibition series against Greater Victoria secondary schools Thursday with a senior match with the Dockers at Esquimalt.

Larry Hobday and Mike Bell scored twice each and Steve Greig and Murray Allen once each as Esquimalt notched a 6-1 triumph over the visitors.

Juan Mota scored the California goal.

Today at 2 p.m. the junior team plays Central and at 3:30 p.m. the senior team plays Vic High Tyees (both games are at Vic High) while on Saturday they play against the junior and senior Roadrunners at Reynolds.

A small community where lumbering is the main industry, Healdsburg is situated approximately 60 miles north of San Francisco. It's not the type of town where women's liberation would be expected to be a major cause.

And the Healdsburg players and fans don't appear to relate the girls on the team with women's lib but treat the situation more as a natural thing.

Bill Tearney, who coaches both the senior and junior teams, said there was no opposition from the schools or the community when the girls began playing last year.

Two of the girls, 18-year-old Shirley Rosas and 16-year-old Maria Avila play for the senior team and both were given considerable field time against the Dockers.

Shirley and Maria are shorter and lighter than their male counterparts and both are attractive, feminine girls but they didn't look out of place once the play started.

Maria, who played at halfback and wing, impressed the spectators when she checked a tall Docker forward and later when she made one of the best headers of the game.

Both girls are in their second year with the team and displayed strong positional play, but the Healdsburg team in general lacked the size and the general skills of the Dockers, who are tied for third place in Division II of the Victoria league with a 1-3-0 record.

Healdsburg, which starts league play next week, finished third in its league last year with an 8-3-3 record.

Tearney says that soccer is not considered a big game at Healdsburg. "The entire budget for the soccer program last year was $68 while the football program got $4,500," Tearney said. "All I could buy was one ball and two nets," he added.

The students financed their trip to Victoria, which was arranged by Vic High coach Ash Valdal, by working in the summer and saving their money.

It's the first time in Canada for most of them.

While Victoria doesn't have any girls playing on soccer teams at present, there is a spring league for girls, which includes teams from Esquimalt, Spectrum and Dunsmuir.

Maybe in the near future there will be girls playing in the boys league.

Esquimalt coach Russ Ball said he almost used a girls two years ago and he says if a girl is good enought to make the team he will play her.

World hockey dates still stumbling block

TORONTO (CP) — The International Ice Hockey Federation is prepared to accept Canada back into the family, but only on its conditions.

Guenther Sabetski, president of the IIHF, said at a news conference Thursday that after meetings with the amateur and professional hockey officials he was confident Canada would return to international hockey by 1977.

One stumbling block remains, however. What could be his most difficult meeting shapes up today when he meets with Toronto lawyer Alan Eagleson, executive director of the National Hockey League Players' Association.

He said the internaitonal body was prepared to alter its world championship format to mid-Arpil, at which time Canada could enter a team of its best hockey players available.

At that time, however, both the National Hockey League and World Hockey Associations are embroiled in the early part of their playoffs and few of the outstanding hockey players would be available for a national team.

Sabetski, elected president of the IIHF this year to succeed J. F. "Bunny" Ahearne, said holding the world championship any later would harm attendance at the matches because Europe's soccer season was in full swing at that time.

Both the NHL and WHA have been invited to join the IIHF as associate members, enjoying the right to attend the international body's annual meetings but lacking a voice in any policy matters.

The IIHF president said he was aware of the professional playoff format but the main concern, so far as European fans were concerned, was to get Canada back into the world championships.

"European fans can't understand why Canada, the birthplace of hockey, has not entered a team in the championships for so long a period," Sabetski said of recent changes in the IIHF constitution that will allow Canadian professionals to compete in the world tournament.

Canada pulled out of internaitonal competition in 1969 when the IIHF refused to allow professionals to compete for the world title.

Reminded that North American pro teams were only into their early playoff rounds at that time, the IIHF president said it was felt enough star hockey players from the teams eliminated from post-season play would make up a good representative team.

Ali, Frazier change tunes

MANILA (AP) — Muhammad Ali said Thursday he would like to take six months off before defending his heavyweight boxing championship again.

"I want time to get out of shape, to get fat," said Ali as he prepared to leave after his gruelling victory over challenger Joe Frazier. "I need six months rest."

Shortly after the fight, both Ali and Frazier hinted that they may retire but after a day's rest both hedged.

"I may say I will retire and then, after a couple of weeks, I will want to get my motor cranked up one more time," Frazier said.

Wests face Boxers

Victoria West should find out Saturday just what kind of a chance there is of taking over from London Boxing Club in the Premier Division of the Vancouver Island Soccer League.

Unbeaten and unscored-on in two league matches this season, Wests are in against London Boxing Club in the Saturday match at Royal Athletic Park. And that's the toughest test the league has to offer.

Recent winners of the Canadian championship, the defending league champions are also unbeaten this season. They won the McGavin Cup final with a 6–1 rout of Gorge Molsons, and were 5-0 winners over Nanaimo in their single league appearance to date.

However, the LBC team could be slowed a bit by the loss of Bob Bolitho, who will be away for a place on the team which will represent Canada in the Pan-American Games. And it appears likely that injuries will keep goalkeeper Kjeld Brodsgaard out of the starting lineup

If Brodsgaard is unable to start, Gord Reading will take over between the uprights. Bolitho will be replaced by Jim Irving who was signed last weekend to end a retirement which lasted only one season.

Wests, who took Duncan by 5-0 and UVic by 3-0, may again be without Ralph Anderson. If he is unable to play, Dave Graas will be dressed as a possible replacement. Wests have been a bit inconsistent in their two league starts, but they have also flashed some excellent play and could be the toughest opposition for the league champions.

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — Veteran Gene Littler, gunning for a fouth title of the year, and scrambler Chuck Courtney matched seven-under-par 65s and shared the first-round lead Thursday in the $175,000 Kaiser International Open golf tournament.

"I'm putting better than I have been in maybe 15 years," said the 45-year-old Littler, who is finishing off the best season of his long career.

"I shot 68 and putted just mediocre at the best," said Miller, who owns a home on the north course — one of two layouts being used for the first two rounds of this tournament — at the Silverado Country Club.

"If I'd putted good there's no telling what I could have shot," he said. "I hit 18 greens, including two par fives in two, and had 34 putts. I felt like I was throwing away shots on every hole."

George Knudson of Toronto shot nines of 36-35 for a 71 total and Ben Kern, also of Toronto, had 37-39—76.

Courtney, Nelson, Cadle, Gilbert, Miller and Hill all played the 6828-yard north course, usually considered the tougher of the two par-72 layouts and the site of the last two rounds Saturday and Sunday. The other leaders played the south course, 6619 yards.

Littler ran in putts of 25, 45 and 20 feet for consecutive birdies on the second through fourth holes, holed another one from some 25 feet on the back nine and used that fluid, graceful swing to loft the ball within five feet of the cup on three other holes. His only bogey came on the 12th hole where he missed the green.

Pair of wins for Glenlyon

John Pollen scored three goals, including two in the final five minutes, to give Glenlyon a 3-2 triumph over S. J. Willis in a midget league game at Windsor Park.

While at Mt. Newton School, Bob Young and Pat Costello scored once each as Glenlyon edged the host school, 2-1, in a junior game.

NFL owners' case presented

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Football League owners told Congress on Thursday that if the players association wins its suit on the controversial Rozelle rule, all players' salaries will have to be negotiated at the bargaining table by the union.

Theodore Kheel, labor counsel for the NFL management counsel, the owners' bargaining agent, noted before the House of Representatives labor-management relations subcommittee that the union has not wanted to bargain individual salaries.

"The union can't have it both ways," Kheel said. "If the union wins, then every player will become a Catfish Hunter."

Hunter was free-agent status from Oakland Athletics on a technicality and signed with New York Yankees for -3.75 million after receiving lucrative offers from nearly all 24 major league baseball teams.

Kheel depicted the 26 NFL clubs as grossing about 16 million, which he said was "about the size of a supermarket."

The council appeared before the committee, chaired by New Jersey Democrat Frank Thompson Jr., after the players union testified Monday that legislation was needed to expedite cases before the National Labor Relations Board.

Kheel told the subcommittee that professional football should not be treated any differently than any other industry.

He referred to Ed Garvey, executive director of the players association.

"An attack on the Rozelle rule is anti-labor," said Kheel. "If the union succeeds in its case, it will strengthen the position of Joe Namath and other superstars."

The Rozelle rule provides that the commissioner will set the compensation for a player, who completes his contract and joins another team, when the two clubs cannot agree on his worth.

The owners have alleged that the Rozelle rule is necessary for league balance; the players have complained that it restricts their freedom.

Defending champs on top

Defending-champion Vic High has first place all to itself in the girls division of the inter-high school volleyball league.

The Vic High girls broke a three-way tie for first place Wednesday by crushing previously unbeaten Oak Bay, 15-5, 15-7 at Vic High.

In other games: Belmont downed Dunsmuir, 6-15, 15-9, 15-8; Reynolds edged Parkland, 17-15, 15-3; and Mt. Douglas scored its first victory of the year beating Esquimalt 15-7, 6-15, 15-4.

In the boys league: Vic High thumped Oak Bay, 15-3, 15-5; Reynolds whipped Parkland, 15-3, 15-7; Mt. Douglas downed Esquimalt, 15-8, 7-15, 15-8; and Dunsmuir defeated Belmont, 10-15, 15-5, 15-13.

Comrades' funeral in Spain

Police jeer premier

MADRID (CP) — Enraged police officers attending the funeral of three colleagues slain by terrorists jeered liberal-leaning Premier Carlos Arias Navarro Thursday and told him to quit if he had "any honor left."

Shouts of "we want justice, not clemency" and "justice yes, pardon no" continually disrupted services for the three dead policemen, who were gunned down Wednesday.

Tears rolled down the premier's cheeks as officers shouted: "You wanted to open Spain up politically, and this is the price we are paying. If you have any honor left, resign."

More than 4,000 police officers jammed the central court of the military academy to hear a Roman Catholic friar demand tough anti-terrorism action.

"These things must not happen again," Friar Jose Lopez Ortiz said in his funeral oration. "Judicial sanctions to curb these crimes must be used. It is hard and punishing work, but it must be done."

Meanwhile, communications between Spain and other parts of Europe were partially disrupted as angry unions protested against the execution of terrorists. Spain's Iberia airline was forced to cancel flights to Italian and Scandinavian destinations, fearing that workers in these countries would refuse to service aircraft.

Millions of workers in Europe participated in token stoppages as a part of their protest. Parliamentarians at the 18-country Council of Europe described the executions as barbaric.

After the mass in Madrid, scores of armed police and civil guards struggled with official pallbearers, demanding to carry the three coffins on their own shoulders to a military cemetery 12 miles away.

Whipped up by nationally-televised coverage of weeping women and screaming relatives at the funeral, scores of Spaniards mobbed the coffins as they were carried through Madrid.

Bicentenary presents tall gardening order

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — The state of Washington has called for bids on flowers for a formal bicentennial garden to be planted in time for July 4 celebrations at the Peace Arch at Blaine.

Included in the order are 3,360 petunia plants, 1,920 snapdragons, 1,200 phlox, 5,450 marigolds, 404 begonias, 379 geraniums, 932 zinnias, 1,200 verbenas, 1,080 salvias, 864 dwarf dahlias and 150 individually potted lotus plants.

Washington Post returning today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Post, its printing presses rendered inoperable by striking pressmen, announced Thursday it would resume publication this morning using six plants outside the Washington area.

General manager Mark Meagher said the seventh largest newspaper in the United States "will be sold on the newsstands and will be home-delivered."

The American Newspaper Publishers Association said "criminal violence and sabotage such as occurred in the Washington Post plant Wednesday morning have no place in American journalism."

The strike by 210 members of the pressmen's union, scarred by violence on the picket line and sabotage within the plant, prevented the paper from publishing Thursday.

Energy reserves could be smaller

OTTAWA (CP) — A new report on the country's oil and natural gas potential, likely to reduce earlier estimates, will be released in the spring, a senior official of the energy department said Thursday.

William Hopper, assistant deputy minister for energy development, said the report would be disappointing "relative to what was thought to be there even 2½ years ago."

The report, an update on an energy policy statement released in 1973, is being prepared in anticipation of a spring federal-provincial meeting to discuss oil and gas prices, he told a conference on North American energy policy.

The 1973 policy statement estimated potential reserves of conventional oil in the country at 118 billion barrels and natural gas at 835 trillion cubic feet. Most of the additions to the reserves were expected to come from the North or off the east coast.

Hopper said later in an interview that the work of the petroleum geologists was really an inexact science and a lot of the figures really "are guesstimates."

More exploration and survey work had been done since the 1973 figures were released and on that basis new figures would be released.

"It's a very sophisticated operation involving probability functions," he said. "There is still a low probability of finding a hell of a lot of oil and gas; there is a medium probability of finding quite a bit less than we thought; and a small probability that we will be very unlucky. That's the kind of way you have to phrase the resource figures."

Grave concern

ROME (CP) — The average Italian is growing taller or at least the ministry of health thinks so. It ordered that all graves, now limited to seven feet, be two inches longer in the future.

Lowered position – O'Grady

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Insurance Corporation of British Columbia's former secretary and general counsel, Terence P. O'Grady, 54, told B.C. Supreme Court Wednesday he refused a new position in ICBC after his previous job was eliminated by a reorganization, because the new job, in his view, was a substantial demotion.

O'Grady is suing ICBC for alleged breach of contract of employment and for wrongful dismissal which he says resulted from a reorganization which took place in August, 1974.

O'Grady testified in the first day of the trial Tuesday that the position he was hired for was seen as the No. 2 job in ICBC.

He said that a year later when Norman Bortnick, ICBC vice-president and general manager, told him that he was to be given the job of chief counsel in the Autoplan division, he declined.

"It was a different position and junior in the hierarchy and junior to the one I had held," he testified under cross-examination by Walley Lightbody, lawyer for ICBC.

"In that (new) position I would have been one of 35 or 40 department heads, where previously I had been, I thought, No. 2 man," he testified before Mr. Justice Richard Anderson.

He said he would have been in charge of only the litigation arising out of Autoplan claims.

O'Grady said in his statement of claim that the changes in duties for his $35,000 a year job were substantial, and that because of that, the original contract of employment could be treated as being repudiated by ICBC.

He is claiming damages for lost income following the departure from ICBC and for his difficulty in re-establishing himself in Victoria, where he had been in private practice and was solicitor for the city of Victoria before joining ICBC in 1973.

CIL stops work on new material

BELOEIL, Que. (CP) — Canadian Industries Ltd. says it will halt the manufacture of a new explosive material until the completion of an investigation into the causes of an explosion which killed eight workers at a company plant here.

But CIL officials maintained at a news conference in Montreal Thursday that the material — known as ethylene glycol mononitrate — is still considered "perfectly safe" despite Wednesday night's blast which levelled a three-storey building containing the explosive material.

The company expressed "shock and sorrow" at the deaths and said the workers' families would receive compensations amounting to twice their annual salaries.

Spokesmen declined to advance any specific theories on the causes of the blast, saying the company first wants to question seven other workers who were injured in the blast. They were all released from hospital Thursday.

However, Edward Mallett, manager of manufacturing and technology for CIL, said: "Our belief is that the product manufactured is perfectly safe and that it (the explosion) was a processing accident."

Mail dispute report due today

OTTAWA (CP) — A conciliation report dealing with the 10-month-long contract dispute between the Canadian Union of Postal Workers and the Post Office Department is due to be presented today to the federal public service staff relations board.

If the report is unsatisfactory to one or both of the parties, the 22,000-member union could legally strike as early as Oct. 11, halting mail service.

Judge Jean Moisan of the Quebec Superior Court, chairman of a three-member conciliation board, has been working on the report since mid-September when negotiations broke off.

Man guilty in woundings

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vincent Michael Fitzgerald, 21, was found guilty Wednesday of wounding a constable and a deputy sheriff in an escape Nov. 29 from a city police elevator with three other prisoners from the B.C. Penitentiary.

Fitzgerald had pleaded not guilty to both charges and said he panicked and fled from the elevator with the three others because he feared a possible beating by officers if he remained.

A marriage off the beaten track

David and Theresa Lefield have decided "someone doesn't want us to have a honeymoon" following derailment of Amtrak train which knocked their plans off the rails. It was third setback for couple since they married a few weeks ago: David was first sidelined with emergency appendectomy, then Hurricane Eloise made them cancel plans for trip to New Orleans. Derailment happened at Pulaski, Tenn. and couple has decided to fly home to Coldwater, Ohio.

Facilities being prepared

Park-and-ride buses just two months off?

A new bus service to the Victoria downtown area will be operating as soon as special parking facilities are completed on the Island Highway, says Municipal Affairs Minister James Lorimer.

The park-and-ride service for civil servants and the general public coming from outlying areas may be operating in two months, he said.

Construction of the parking lot will begin soon on property near Cuthbert Holmes Park. Parking will be free, and the one-way fare will be 25 cents.

The service will run all day during the week, but probably not late at night or on weekends.

According to Lorimer, the program is designed to cut down congestion of parking space near the legislative buildings, but the bus will make stops in town for the general public.

The first parking lot is to be followed by others which the government plans to establish, but Lorimer said there have been problems acquiring suitable property.

Buses now in use in Vancouver will be brought to Victoria for the service as soon as replacement vehicles, on order from Flyer Industries Ltd., arrive.

Lorimer said he expects three or four buses will be put on at the start, with more to be added.

Park-and-ride service is part of a comprehensive transit system being worked out by the government for presentation to the city.

Priory hospital offered to B.C.

A 94-bed hospital at St. Mary's Priory in Langford, along with eight acres on the south side of Goldstream, has been offered for sale to the provincial government.

Sullivan, lawyer for the Roman Catholic Society of the Love of Jesus, said a letter offering the hospital and grounds went to Health Minister Dennis Cocke Tuesday. Cocke said Thursday the government wants to purchase the property.

Sullivan declined to quote the price but another source said it was rumoured to be about $200,000. The sale could be the first step in renovating and expanding hospital facilities on the property which provides long-term care for elderly women.

A spokesman for regional hospital planning said that if the priory hospital became a regional one, it might be converted to a 150-bed extended care hospital.

FRANKLIN, N.C. — Bennett Abbott was to have been buried Sept. 23, but the 45-year-old construction worker's family says that when the body arrived from New Orleans, it was not Abbott. And Abbott called the family durng the weekend, unaware of his death.

His sister, Mary Sizemore, said she was told by a New Orleans funeral home that her brother had died earlier this month.

The parents of the "deceased," Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Abbott, planned the funeral, but where shocked to see the body sent here from New Orleans was not that of their son.

The coroner's office in New Orleans said identification of the body sent to the Abbott's was based on papers found on the dead man. Mrs. Abbott said her son's wallet had been stolen last year. The body was returned to New Orleans.

Easygoing rule binds Papua New Guinea

By DANIEL SOUTHERLAND
Colonist - Monitor Service

Papua New Guinea, divided by a staggering array of tribes and languages, has achieved full independence with much less strife than have many nations that are considered far more advanced.

If this South Pacific nation has held together so far, it is thanks i npart to the easygoing, Melanesian-style rule that has been adopted by its first prime minister, Michael Somare.

Over the past two years, the bearded Somare and his coalition government have survived difficult debates over citizenship rights, demands for provincial governments, demonstrations by a noisy but ineffectual Papuan separatist movement, and widespread misunderstandings of what independence is all about.

Now that Australia has turned over full power to this new Commonwealth nation of some 2.5 million people, Somare is left to face what may be his most difficult test to date. Just a month ago, leaders of the provincial government on the island of Bougainville declared independence from Papua New Guinea.

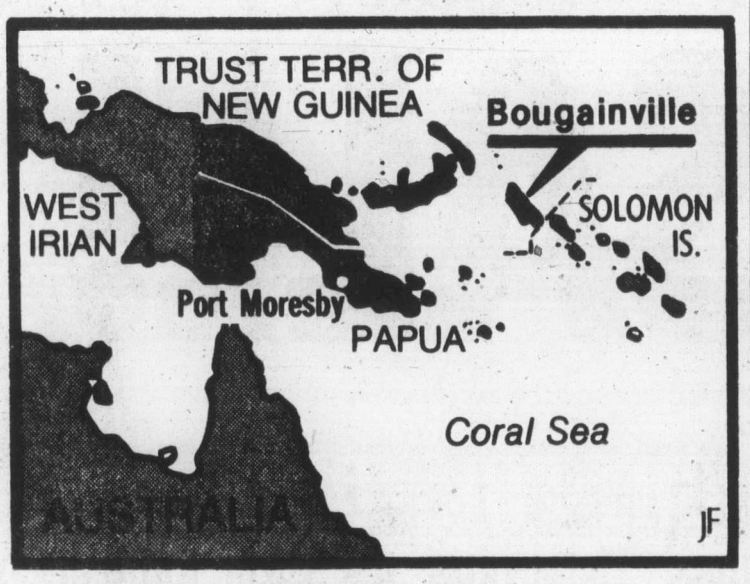

The secessionists, who have renamed Bougainville the "Republic of the North Solomons," contend that the central government has not granted them enough autonomy and takes too much of the revenue from a copper mine located in the centre of the island.

The mine, whose largest shareholder is the Rio Tinto-Zinc Corporation of Britain, is Papua New Guinea's principal source of export income, and Prime Minister Somare can ill afford to lose the royalties it provides. The mining venture has become in recent years one of the most productive and profitable enterprises of its kind.

So far, Somare, a one-time schoolteacher and the son of a clan chieftain, has chosen to act with typical Melanesian tolerance toward the secessionists, apparently hoping to reach a compromise with them.

Central government security forces did not interfere with Bougainville's "independence" ceremonies Sept. 1, and Somare himself displayed a relaxed attitude by playing golf on that day in the New Guinea highlands.

Aside from the copper on Bougainville, there is another reason for trying to reach an agreement with the secessionists. Should they succeed in their breakaway move, it might encourage tribal unrest and separatist movements in other parts of Papua New Guinea.

Somare
. . . tolerance

If the confrontation between the central government and the secessionists led to violence it would jeopardize future financial investments in the new nation.

Papua New Guinea is rich in hydroelectric potential and unexploited coal, oil, and other resources. But, as the central government sees it, the potential is unlikely to be developed without sizable foreign investments and considerable technical assistance.

With Papua New Guinea close to its northern shores, Australia is anxious to encourage stability in the new nation. Prime Minister Gough Whitlam has made it clear that Australia will not accord any recognition to the secessionist movement on Bougainville.

Outlook changes among young mothers

By LORRAINE ATHERTON
Colonist Reporter

Childbirth in Victoria is becoming less of a surgical procedure and more of a family affair.

In the last few years, nursing staff at both major hospitals have been relaxing routines, stretching visiting hours, opening nurseries and working to make maternity wards pleasant places in which to have babies. Now they have taken those changes about as far as they can with the money and space available.

But other changes are continuing.

These changes are in the way parents, like those who belong to Parentcraft, think about birth.

Parentcraft, in its own offical description, is "a volunteer group devoted to family centered health care and education for parenthood." At an informal meeting, half a dozen mothers and one father (with 12 children among them) talked about having children in and out of hospital.

Some of the women compared their experiences with those of their mothers, who were having babies at the height of the assembly line era of obstetrics. "My mother was considered a weirdo because she nursed us," said one.

They are enthusiastic about undrugged childbirth, with both mother and child wide awake, breathing and exercises that teach women to control pain and help their delivery, breast-feeding on demand, husbands in delivery rooms, rooming-in arrangements that keep mother and child together as much as desired, and doctors and hospitals that give parents a choice.

Some would even like to give birth at home, but B.C. has no midwife services (although its obstetrics wards are well staffed with English nurses who have midwife training) and doctors won't take responsibility for home births.

A major concern for these parents is finding doctors who will talk, or in some cases, argue with them.

Most of the women say they get along quite well with their doctors, but that doesn't mean they don't have disagreements. For example — episiotomies.

An episiotomy is an incision in the perineum which doctors perform to avoid messy accidental tears. But mothers who detest the painful aftereffects of episiotomy maintain that accidental tears are uncommon, especially during smoothly run natural deliveries.

"Episiotomies are standard procedure, but everyone hates them," said one woman.

Another woman, Kathy, had three children and every time argued with her doctor about the incision. But every time he insisted on doing it, just to be safe. On her fourth child, the doctor didn't get there in time.

"I didn't need one," she told him triumphantly when he arrived a few minutes late. "I didn't even need you." She is convinced it was the only way to make her point with that particular doctor.

In effect, these women want to take responsibility for their children — from the very beginning.

They want to know all they can about birth, what is normal, what can go wrong, what drugs and equipment might be used for what reasons, and what the hazards are.

Fran thinks "it's as darn good thing" she knew as much as she did, because "all the things that could happen, did happen," to her. "A heart monitor is an intimidating apparatus," she said, adding that she would have been much more frightened if she hadn't known what was going on.

Fran's husband Bill attended her Lamaze exercise classes and was with her in the delivery room. He told of a friend who sat at home and got drunk waiting for his wife to finish 26 hours of labor. "That convinced us," Bill said, to prepare for the birth together.

Doctors are encouraging these attitudes, directing parents to prenatal and Lamaze classes, admitting fathers to delivery rooms, and a few are specializing in the Leboyer method — a natural delivery in a softly lit, quiet room with gentle handling, no spanking, and a warm bath for the baby.

Parentcraft organizer Lucy Nelson said she wouldn't have had her last child at home if hospitals had been as flexible then as they are now. But she would have gone to hospital only for the actual labor and delivery, so she would be away from her other children as little as possible.

She did, however, have that child at home with her husband's help. When the placenta didn't appear on schedule, they decided to go to hospital. There they found that the only problem was that her body was operating on its own schedule, not the book's.

Many Victorians would like to see a midwife program here with a special ambulance service similar to the "flying squads" which provide back-up for midwives in England. But the problems of starting such a program from scratch are immense.

A frequently mentioned compromise is a birth centre separate from hospitals, a place where women could have their children in a homey atmosphere but with plenty of medical protection in the background.

Parentcraft, nurses and doctors agree though that the most probable route is to continue working together to fit hospitals to patients' needs.

By SUSAN DELIGHT
Colonist-Copley Service

A good dressing can lift a salad to unexpected heights. A poor dressing, in turn, can depress an otherwise good salad into a tasteless mass.

A well-seasoned dressing should compliment the ingredients selected for the salad — should enhance, but never overpower them.

SALMON PEPPER BOAT SALADS

1 (7¾ oz.) can salmon
2 hard-cooked eggs, diced
⅓ cup chopped cucumber
2 green onions, chopped
1 large tomato, seeded and chopped
⅓ cup finely chopped celery
½ teaspoon salt
Peppy Celery Seed Dressing
2 green peppers
Cherry tomatoes, for garnish

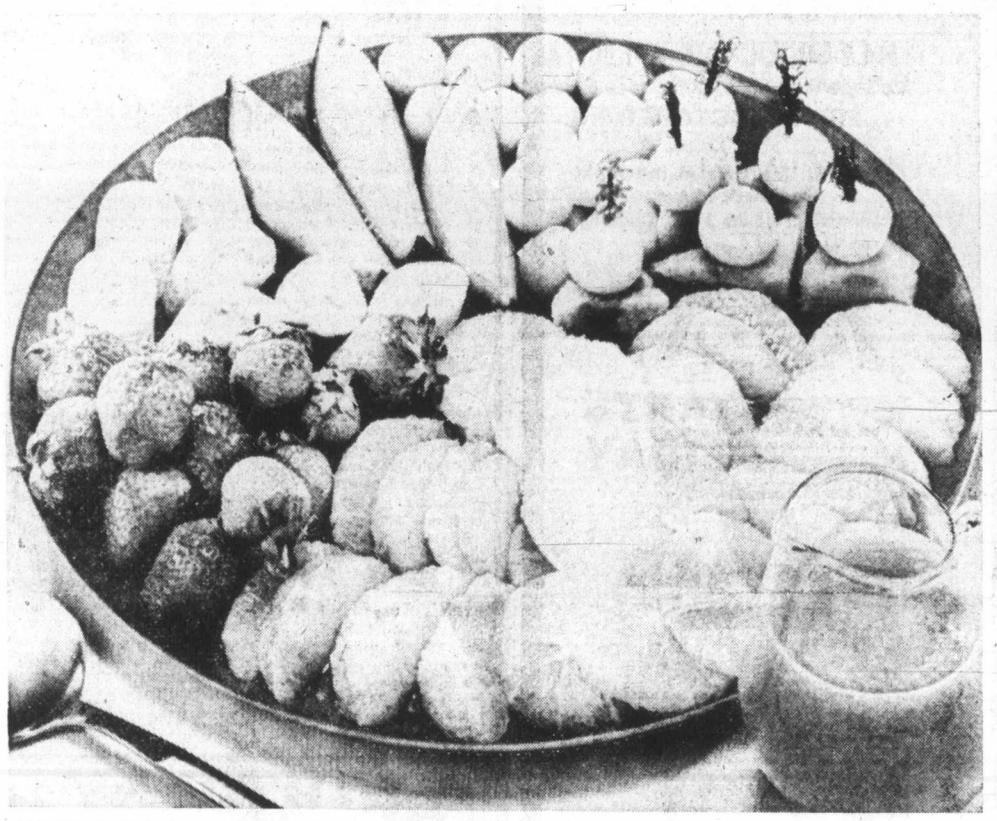

Drain salmon and separate into flakes with a fork. Combine with next six ingredients and toss lightly with enough Celery Seed Dressing to moisten. Chill.

To assemble salads, cut green peppers in half lenthwise. Remove membrane and seeds. Fill lightly with salmon salad mixture. Garnish with sliced cherry tomatoes. Serve, fork and knife style, with additional celery seed dressing on the side. Makes 4 salads.

PEPPY CELERY SEED DRESSING

½ cup vegetable oil
½ cup evaporated milk
¼ cup vinegar
¼ cup chili sauce or catsup
2 tablespoons minced onion
2 small cloves garlic, minced
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon celery seed
Dash pepper.

Combine ingredients and chill one hour or longer to allow flavors to blend. Makes about 1½ cups dressing.

SALAD MADE of fresh fruit such as grapefruit sections, orange slices, strawberries, avocado and pineapple wedges and a variety of melon is enhanced by honeyed grapefruit salad dressing.

HONEYED GRAPEFRUIT SALAD DRESSING

6 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon fresh grated grapefruit peel
2 tablespoons fresh squeezed lemon juice
¼ cup fresh squeezed grapefruit juice
6 tablespoons honey
1 cup salad oil.

Combine all ingredients, except oil, in a bowl. Add oil in a thin steady stream while beating constantly. Chill thoroughly. Shake well before serving. If using an electric blender, add oil while whirling mixture on low speed. For salad plate, choose fresh fruits in season, such as fresh grapefruit sections, fresh orange slices, strawberries, avocado and pineapple wedges and a variety of melon. Pass the Honeyed Grapefruit Dressing on the side. Makes 2 cups.

CUCUMBER YOGURT SALAD

2 medium cucumbers, pared and thinly sliced
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons tarragon vinegar
1 tablespoon chopped fresh dill
1 cup plain yogurt
1 clove crushed garlic

Sprinkle cucumbers with salt and let stand for 20 minutes. Meanwhile, in a small bowl mix remaining ingredients. Add to cucumbers and chill 1 hour before serving. Makes: 4 to 6 servings.

"Hello," the message said, "I was here last night and I could easily have taken everything. Be more careful in future."

Police said the burglar apparently climbed a scaffolding to the top floor apartment which he entered through the open bathroom window, but stole nothing.

Fire destroys Field's store

MERRITT (CP) — A fire destroyed Field's department store after four employees made an unsuccessful bid to put it out, Fire Marshal Don Moyes said Wednesday.

The four employees were in the receiving department when the blaze broke out Tuesday.

Shortage of canning lids altered preserving habits

By PHYLLIS HANES
Colonist - Monitor News Service

The canning jar lid shortage may have eased in some regions, but many people are still stuck with jars and no lids.

Those who have carefully tended their vegetable gardens through the summer are not about to be deprived of the opportunity to make their harvest last all year round, however, and have found alternatives to the usual processing methods.

Many are making their own smokers for meat, poultry, fish, and some vegetables. Others are building special boxes for drying fruits, vegetables and herbs. Some are even trying the steam-process method for extracting and storing juices.

But more than anything else, people are freezing instead of canning. It now is the No. 1 method of home preserving not only fruits and vegetables but also meats and fish.

Freezing is basically easier and faster than canning, but whether it is a dollar-and-cents saving is questionable. In computing the cost of using a freezer to preserve food, latest studies indicate the expense to operate a 15-cubic-foot freezer — purchased new at $300 and anticipating a single turnover a year — amounts to about 20 cents per pound of food stored.

Add to this cost the price of the freezer containers and cartons, ingredients such as sugar and seasonings, the cost of cooking fuel, and the price of raw fruits and vegetables if you do not grow your own.

You will find that, in most cases, the saving are negligible. Cooked tomatoes are probably the only exception. Tomatoes will be cheaper to put up than those you buy at the supermarket.

Freezing instead of canning is not a compromise for those who already have freezers, since the cost of the freezer is the largest part of the investment. If you already have a freezer and it has been underutilized, now is the time to make up for your neglect.

A filled freezer is more economical to operate than one partly filled. Too, in case of a power interruption, a full freezer will usually keep food frozen for two days, even in summer. In a freezer with less than half a load, food may not stay frozen more than one day when power fails.

Many nonporous containers such as plastic bags, coffee cans with plastic lids, plastic cartons, and sturdy glass jars can be used for freezing.

Wrappings such as polyethylene bags are the cheapest packaging materials for fruits and vegetables even though they may be somewhat difficult to fill. Heavy aluminum foil or plastic freezer paper wrap is fine for dry vegetables such as corn on the cob or broccoli. Be sure to use only plastic materials approved for wrapping food.

The automatic sealing action provides air-tight, waterproof meals-in-a-bag, and you can use this method for storing food as well as to provide a container to cook it in.

Almost anything you can cook can be sealed in these boilable freezer bags. They can be used days, weeks, or even months later.

The bags cannot be used, however without the heat-sealing appliance and they are usuable only once. Mark the name and processing date on packages with indelible marking pen or wax-china marking pencil.

Freezing is as versatile as canning since you can freeze jams and jellies, dill pickles, all the usual fruits, and many cooked meats and fish.

Most vegetables except lettuce, radishes, green onions, potatoes, and (fresh) uncooked tomatoes freeze well, although these exceptions are fine in combination with other foods, or juices, and when cooked.

If you have space and jars and lids, glass jars may be used for freezing most fruits and vegetables except those packed in water. Be sure to follow directions for this kind of freezing in a good cookbook.

Before freezing, all fruits and vegetables must be blanched to inactive enzymes in the foods and to prevent flavor and color changes. They must also be cooled to stop further cooking after blanching.

Blanch with a cooker-steamer that has a flat-bottomed wire basket or a kettle with any flat-bottomed strainer — even a basket from a deep-fryer cooker. A wire salad basket works well.

Lower no more than one pound of vegetables in the basket into one gallon of boiling water. Start timing when the water returns to boiling. At end of the time required, dip the vegetables in cold or iced water. Drain and packaged fruits and vegetables can be stored up to one year at zero degrees F.

- Fresh tender vegetables right from the garden are best for freezing; the fresher the vegetables when frozen the better the results.
- The quality of the frozen product will vary with the kind of fruit, stage of maturity, and type of pack. Generally, firm, ripe, full-flavored fruits will result in a tastier product.
- Pack food and syrup in cold containers. Having materials cold speeds freezing and helps retain natural color, flavor and texture.
- Freeze fruits and vegetables soon after packing. Put them into the freezer a few packages at a time as you prepare them or keep packages in the refrigerator until all packages have been completed. Then transfer them into the freezer.
- Select a size of container for your fruits and vegetables that will hold only enough for one meal for your family.

Your shoes are trying to tell you something.

The heels have worn thin.
The soles have become comfortably curved.
Your shoes are actually trying to become Roots®.
Roots' slim heel and rocker sole are made for the way you were born to walk, which helps make them wildly comfortable.
Listen to your shoes. Have a chat with your feet.
Then come see us and try a pair of Roots.

Roots.

Dear Ann Landers: I am not a person given to foul language but I just used one of the dirtiest four-letter words I ever heard in my life.

I was on the front porch and the phone rang. I ran to get it and twisted my ankle. Even though the phone rang only four times, there was no one on the other end when I picked up the receiver. That's when I used the dirty word.

Why don't people realize the phone rings every six seconds? When they hang up after four rings they are allowing the party only 24 seconds to drop whatever he is doing and get to the phone.

If a person happens to be in the basement or the attic, he can't make it in time. Please inform your readers to let the phone ring at least 10 times before they hang up. That's only one minute. A person would certainly wait that long for someone to answer the door if they called in person, wouldn't they? — Limping In Iowa.

Dear Iowa: It's hard to believe that if a person waits for a phone to ring 10 times he is investing only one minute. But it's true. So how about counting to 10 from now on, folks? You can save some twisted ankles, stubbed toes and eliminate a lot of profanity. You'll also complete more calls, which, after all, is the idea.

Dear Ann Landers: I realize you can't print every letter but this one is very important to me.

Is it possible for a person who takes an anti-depressant drug to change from an individual of integrity and high principles to just the opposite? Someone very dear to me has undergone a terrific personality change and I wonder if this could be the reason. — Bewildered In Asheville.

Dear B.: Drugs can indeed create radical personality alterations. Generally, however, anti-depressants relieve anxiety, make the individual more cheerful and gregarious, and less introspective. Since you seem seriously concerned, I suggest you discuss this question with your doctor and cite specific examples of the individual's behavioral changes.

Dear Ann Landers: Our 11-year-old son has asthma. His mother is afraid to let him take part in athletics because she says it tires him out and makes him wheeze. Ron has been asthmatic since he was three. The allergist says he shouldn't pay so much attention to his physical complaints because he uses them to get out of doing unpleasant chores.

My brother's son who is 10 also has asthma, but he seems to be handling it better than our boy. His parents let him do just about anything he enjoys and he seems none the worse for it. Can you give us a little guidance, please? — Kersey Mom and Pop.

Dear Mom and Pop: Approximately one out of every seven children attending school has respiratory problems and some sort of allergy. Asthma is the most common cause for school absenteeism among children.

Asthmatic youngsters should not participate in strenuous physical activity. The best sport for the asthmatic child is swimming. Golf, baseball, table tennis and bowling are also good. Football, basketball and track are too taxing and should be "off limits."

The psychosomatic aspects of this illness are often a potent factor. In my opinion, most asthmatic children could profit from counselling. Ask your physician what he thinks about this.

Bypass surgery dangers noted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A surgeon has reported that surgery on obese patients had achieved dramatic weight losses exceeding 100 pounds in a year, but warned of serious complications.

The operation, called bypass surgery, shuts off a large portion of the small intestine. That limits the body's ability to absorb fats and carbohydrates even if the patient continued to eat large amounts of food.

Dr. William L. Joseph, of the surgery department at George Washington University in Washington, D.C., told the annual clinical assembly of osteopathic specialists that in 60 patients there was an average weight loss of 100 pounds in tthe first year after surgery, 63 pounds in the second year and 12 pounds more in the third year.

But Joseph said two of his 60 patients died. Another panel member, Dr. Anthony M. Digiovanni, head of gastroenterology at the Detroit Osteopathic Hospital, said the death rates in the cases he studied reached 5 to 10 per cent.

Joseph said there were other complications: 25 per cent of his 60 patients suffered from wound infections and smaller numbers experienced pneumonia, kidney stones, intestinal bleeding and liver failure.

Joseph said all his patients were at least 100 pounds overweight before surgery and had not responded to other treatment.

Chewable vitamin bottle should be out of reach

OTTAWA (CP) — Although most parents lock away potentially poisonous medicines, they think nothing of leaving a bottle of candy-like chewable vitamins containing iron on the kitchen table, a local poison expert said in an interview.

Dr. Celia Viets warned that some bottles contain enough elemental iron to kill seven children.

Dr. Viets said about 400 to 500 milligrams of elemental iron can be fatal for a child and some bottles contain up to 3,000 milligrams.

The hazard of these vitamins is not new—Dr. Viets originally wrote an article about the danger in 1974. In it she asked the government to look into making child-proof containers mandatory for the vitamins and to make manufacturers clearly state the amount of iron present in each container.

Dr. Viets said labels on the bottles give no warning of the amount of elemental iron in each tablet—essential in treating iron poisoning.

A spokesman for the federal health protection branch said Tuesday the problem has been studied and proposals will be put forward in November.

By JOHN HEARN

I wonder why it is that music boxes have such a plaintive sound. No matter how jolly the melody, the rendition is always sad and nostalgic. Nothing else evokes the spirit of the past so effectively and yet the great age of the music box was relatively brief.

We first hear of musical watches made in Switzerland in 1789 and in less than 90 years, Edison had invented his 'speaking machine' dealing the important music box industry a blow from which it never recovered.

It must be remembered that those early models were far more than novelties for the amusement of children, they were, in fact, the ONLY devices which existed at that time for bringing recorded music into the home.

Inevitably the industry was originally an offshot of watch making, hence the strong Swiss influence. The apparatus had to be compact, precision crafted and spring operated. The first models therefore were built into actual watches as optional additional equipment, so to speak.

By 1815, music boxes had come into their own and were incorporated in all manner of items such as cane tops, jewellery and snuff boxes. After that the history was one of steady technological improvement. 1850 saw the first changeable cylinder. In 1869 we were nearly pitched-forked into the modern age by a patented device developed by one, Frank Kullrich, whichh would show a series of pictures through a built-in aperture, synchronised in time with the music. There is no evidence that this primitive boob-tube ever actually came on the market.

In 1879, Paillard of Geneva, one of the truly great names in music boxes, arranged a series of different cylinders on a single rotating shaft so that a number of melodies could be played on the same machine. This would have been a major breakthrough had it not been for Master Edison's invention which appeared around the same time. In 1886 came the disc actuated music box. 1890 saw the first electrically driven model and in 1892, coin operated sets anticipated the juke box in the ice cream parlours of the day. 1897 brought the automatic changer but by that time, Edison's versatile player was sweeping all before it.

Elton John sued

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Rock star Elton John has been sued for $70,000 by his landlady for alleged damages to the home he rented for $42,000 for one year.

The suit, filed in superior court this week by Mrs. Iris Schirmer, said the home was "uninhabitable" after John moved last May 31. She asked $20,000 for damages to the home and an additional $50,000 for lost rent.

Her suit charged John with burning cigarette holes in a custom-made Aztec sun rug, chipping furniture, bending silver candlesticks, cutting holes in walls and marring floors. The suit said he also took crystal glassware when he moved.

New ways sought to employ artists

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canada will not be able to provide a decent living for all its artists unless new ways are found to employ them and sell their works, according to Andre Fortier, director of the Canada Council.

He said Thursday that the country had about 3,000 professionals working in the visual arts and to support them properly there should be an arts market for about $75 million a year. The market now is between $4 and $5 million.

Fortier said that within a few years, with the numbers now graduating from university fine arts faculties, the number seeking to make a living from art would grow to 5,000 painters, sculptors and print makers.

Low-cost minicomputers boon to students

By JOHN D. MOORHEAD
Colonist News Services

When Curtis Junior High School in Sudbury, Mass., installed a minicomputer, seventh grader Tom Karzis became an enthusiastic math student, so much so that his grades went from average to A in the two years since then.

Not only students but industrial engineers, laboratory technicians, and a wide-range of other problem-solvers are finding the low-cost versatile computers putting a new spark into their work.

Their response has fueled fast growth for the industry, some 25 per cent last year and no end in sight. Shipments by U.S. companies will reach $1.47 million this year, according to an estimate by International Data Corporation (IDC), which keeps tabs on computermakers.

Sales are keeping pace with other fact-growing segments of the computer industry, such as time sharing. By contrast, sales of large-system hardware are basically flat.

Minicomputer systems are typicallly desk-sized, versatile, and sell for under $25,000. (That definition is not an exact one, though, and its boundaries are continually being debated and revised in the industry.)

The minicomputer is opening up whole new markets. Thus, the growth pattern will continue through the rest of the decade, predicts George W. Potts, minicomputer analyst for Dean Witter and Company, a New York brokerage house.

"The prices are coming down and opening doors to customers who could not formerly afford a system," adds Peter Connell of Digital Equipment Corporation (DEC).

"Total prices of systems are depreciating at 15 per cent and 30 per cent per year," estimates Bob Brannon, product marketing manager for Hewlett-Packard's data systems division. The reason: better technology.

"As prices of 'minis' come down, they will be treated no different from typewriters or desks" as essential office equipment, he predicts.

While large "main-frame" computers generally are employed in business accounting, the minicomputer by definition is flexible.

In Fond du Lac, Wisconsin, a computer is running a warehouse for Mercury Marine, Inc. This Hewlett-Packard minicomputer is programmed to drive a stock truck to a particular aisle, raise the operator's platform to the level of a specific shelf and then tell the computer, by way of a little TV screen, what and how many parts to take down.

The computer keeps track of inventory, too, and orders new stock when the supply gets low.

Businesses are finding small computers more and more useful, and some large corporations have installed them in branch offices. The mini machines sidestep the high cost of asking a huge central computer to do small, simple tasks and help people do their jobs more efficiently.

Small computers which do accounting functions hover on the boundaries of the purists' definition of a minicomputer. James Peacock of IDC refers to them as "small business accounting machines."

Nevertheless, they have a definite place in the move toward lower cost and small size in the computer industry. Companies such as Burroughs Corporation, Wang Laboratories, Inc., DEC, and NCR compete in this market.

Other near neighbors of the minicomputer are the microprocessor and the electronic calculator.

The big three in the minicomputer industry, each doing over $100 million in yearly business, are Digital Equipment Corporation, Data General Corportion and Hewlett-Packard Company.

Implanted lens aids eyesight

DALLAS (UPI) — Doctors say a rigid, surgically implanted plastic lens can provide greater sight for persons with cataracts, especially the elderly.

Dr. Edward W. D. Norton of the University of Miami said ehe tiny lens, usually smaller than the cornea, is better than conventional contact lenses or thick glasses. Loops anchor the lens to the iris.

Norton told the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology that 600 patients, all over 70 years old, received the lenses and less than 5 per cent had any bad side effects.

Pilgrims drown when ship sinks

MANACAPURU, Brazil (UPI) — A steamer jammed with religious pilgrims struck a sandbar in the Amazon River Wednesday, capsized and quickly sank. Police said about 50 of the 140 persons aboard drowned.

Police said 90 persons were rescued alive from the churning waters of the world's mightiest river, just beginning to reach high water stage with the rainy season along the equator.

B.C. crash kills seven

PRINCE GEORGE (UPI) — Police and air crash investigators arrived Wednesday to begin recovery of the bodies of seven persons killed when a Twin Otter plane crashed into a mountainside.

Dead are Ed Dyck, pilot, Dick Iverson, co-pilot, Ken McRae and Donald Long, provincial highways department employees, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McColl, and an as-yet-unnamed man.

PROVINCIAL COURT

Judge F. S. Green decided on practicality and realism Thursday in Victoria provincial court in the case of a 29-year-old Calgary woman.

Christine Marion Prentice received fines totalling $400 plus concurrent two-year probation terms when she pleaded guilty to two charges of obtaining goods with a worthless cheque.

The offences took place June 4 and 5 at Mexican Imports Ltd., 1702 Douglas, and involved two cheques worth a total of $95.24. Restitution was also ordered by Green, who noted the presentence report indicated five previous jail terms for the same offence between 1966 and 1974.

"Th record of the accused is a bad one," Green said. "It seems in this case, the public interest can be served as well by some means other than incarceration. Up until now, incarceration ... has been no deterrent to behavior. I'm going to deal with this matter practically and realistically."

She was fined $200 on each count and one of the probation conditions was that she seek psychiatric or psychological help as directed by her probation officer.

In his appeal against jail, defence lawyer Jasper Bomhof told Green that the woman has a steady job.

Louise Carson, 17, of 614 Esquimalt, changed her plea to guilty in a Sept. 21 robbery near the legislative buildings.

A 62-year-old woman, Kathleen Hannah Carlson, was stopped and told: "Sorry ma'am, I'm going to have to ask you for your purse or stab you."

Victoria police apprehended Miss Carson on the grounds of The Empress with a small knife in her possession. She was charged with robbery with violence.

Green ordered a presentence report for Oct. 28.

Roderick August Tom, 23, was given sentences totalling eight days after pleading guilty to two counts of assaulting a police officer.

Tom, whose address was given as 947 Scotia in Victoria or Tofino, struck Constable Derek Egan and Corp. Bob Pringle on Sept. 18 when the Saanich policemen arrived at 408 Gorge about 3:40 a.m. Egan was struck below his left eye and Pringle was hit in his left thigh.

Green, who stated he took into account an employer's letter of recommendation praising Tom's work at the Provincial Museum, said the fact remained that he assaulted two police officers. Tom was given three days on the first count and five on the second. The terms are consecutive.

"In an attempt to break your once-a-month appearance here," Green said to Frank Peter Ellis, "I'm going to give you 60 days."

Ellis, 57, of no fixed address appeared Thursday — for the 10th time this year — on a charge of causing a disturbance in a public place. Besides his 10 convictions for that offence, Ellis was also convicted earlier this year of possessing an offensive weapon.

Ellis was apprehended Wednesday at the bus depot on Douglas Street, where he used obscene language to people in the depot.

Mike O'Connor, federal drug prosecutor in a case against Joseph Francois Fortin, 32, of 4209 Douglas, requested an adjournment because an analysis had not been returned from Vancouver.

Fortin had pleaded not guilty on July 24 and O'Connor admitted that the substance seized in the case was not sent to the Mainland until Sept. 4.

When Green noted that it took more than a month to gather the evidence and denied the motion for adjournment, O'Connor said he had no other evidence ot produce.

Defence lawyer Bob Johnson then asked for and received dismissal of the charge.

Green mulled over three options in the case of Joseph Phillip Beddington, 23, of 830 Craigflower.

Beddington pleaded guilty to a charge of having a blood-alcohol reading over .08 after a two-car accident Sunday at Trans-Canada Highway and Douglas in which Beddington's vehicle was struck. A breath-analysis test showed he had a reading of .09.

Beddinton told Green that on Monday, Judge William Ostler sentenced him to three months for welfare fraud involving $2,168.29.

"Any chance of a fine, your honor?" Beddington asked.

"I'll be frank with you," Green began. "I was going to give you a concurrent jail sentence."

The judge said he was taking into account the accused man's having a wife and two children to support and felt a fine would be inappropriate.

Prosecutor Nicholas Lang then stated the Crown's position that a consecutive sentence might be more appropriate in this case, giving Green a third choice.

After lengthy thought, Green decided to give Beddington a two-day, consecutive sentence, six-months' probation and a two-month driving ban.

William Kevin Fletcher, 24, of Lurline, was fined $350 after changing his plea to guilty on a charge of having care and control of a motor vehicle while impaired.

Saanich police found him asleep in a parked car at the rear of 3220 Quadra with his foot pushing the accelerator to the floor. A breath analysis at the Saanich police station showed a reading of .19, court was told.

Battalion to assume UN duties in Cyprus

Farewell today for Pats

Victoria will bid an official farewell to the 3rd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry at 2 p.m. today on the lawn of the legislative buildings.

The unit is due to leave next month for UN. peacekeeping duties on Cyprus.

The battalion will exercise its freedom of the city, granted in June last year, which allows it to march through the city with drums beating, bayonets fixed and colors flying.

Mayor Peter Pollen will give a farewell address on behalf of the city and Lt.-Col. H. G. Leitch, battalion commander, will reply.

The 430 men of the battalion at Work Point Barracks will be flown to Cyprus from CFB Comox between Nov. 7 and 11 by 3 Air Transport Groups.

The Esquimalt-based battalion will replace the 2nd Battalion, Royal 22nd Regiment of Quebec City.

The regimental band from Calgary will be in Victoria for the ceremony Friday and will accompany the Esquimalt battalion as it marches through downtown streets following the farewell.

The route will be along Government, right along Humboldt to Douglas, thence to Chatham, ending at Memorial Arena.

Subscriptions jump 20% for Bastion

Bastion Theatre appears to be heading for another record year in the sale of subscriptions for its season starting Oct. 10 with the rock musical Godspell.

Bastion officials report that sales are 20 per cent ahead of last year when a record 4,000 subscriptions was sold.

An official said it appears likely that the theatre will reach its goal of 4,500 subscribers.

AIRLINE LOSES CLAIM

A fine-print clause saved the city of Victoria Thursday from having to pay Air Canada $195 which the airline had claimed to cover added heating costs for its Centennial Square offices during the civic strike-lockout earlier this year.

According to the agreement between Air Canada and the city, which owns the premises, the city is responsible for the delivery of heat.

But the same lease contains a clause which absolves the city from any responsibility for failing to deliver the heat.

Aldermen rejected Air Canada's claim.

B.C. vessel may move totem poles

Canadian Press

The B.C. government's recently-purchased vessel Prince George may be used to transport 10 Haida totem poles back to their native location in the Queen Charlotte Islands.

Highways Minister Graham Lea, MLA for Prince Rupert whose riding includes Queen Charlottes, said he has asked that the ship move the poles when it is put into service next year.

The totem poles, which have been stored in the Provincial Museum since 1963, are very significant to the Haida Indian people, Lea said.

The city of Prince Rupert had removed nine of the poles from deserted Haida villages and one pole was taken from the Queen Charlottes in 1901.

The poles were transferred to the Provincial Museum, Lea said, because there were no facilities for their restoration at Prince Rupert.

There now are two museum facilities, one in Old Masset and another is under construction in Skidegate Landing, he said.

8 CARD OF THANKS

The family of the late Morris Grossman wish to thank their many friends and neighbors for the acts of kindness, cards and memorial donations given in his name.
—His wife, daughter and dad.

9 IN MEMORIAM

DE MACEDO — In loving memory of Flying Officer John Bernard Joseph de Macedo, R.C.A.F., who died of injuries sustained on active service overseas, October 3, 1943.
"Eternal rest grant unto him O lord, and let perpetual light shine upon him. May he rest in peace."

JANCOWSKI — In loving memory of a dear son Rick who passed away October 3, 1974.
His smiling way and pleasant face,
Are a pleasure to recall;
He had a kindly word for each,
And died beloved by all.
Some day we hope to meet him,
Some day we know not when,
To clasp his hand in the better land.
Never to part again.
Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by his mother-in-law and father-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Perry and Dennis.

JANCOWSKI — In loving memory of a wonderful husband and father. Rick who was taken from us so suddenly on October 3, 1974.
The face we loved is now laid low,
His loving voice is still,
The hand so often clasped in ours,
Lies now in death's cold chill.
We often sit and think of him
When we are all alone;
For memory is the only thing
That grief can call its own.
Sadly missed by his loving wife Gwen and son Kevin.

JANCOWSKI — In loving memory of our son and brother Richard, who passed away October 3, 1974.
One year has passed since that sad day,
When one we loved was called away;
God took him home — it was His Will;
Within our hearts he liveth still,
Always remembered by his Mother and step-father, Mary and Reg Gifes. Brother Earland, sisters Monica and Wendy.

9 IN MEMORIAM

THEY SHALL GROW NOT OLD, AS WE WHO ARE LEFT GROW OLD, AGE SHALL NOT WEARY THEM, NOR THE YEARS CONDEMN. AT THE GOING DOWN OF THE SUN, AND IN THE MORNING, WE WILL REMEMBER THEM.
—WITH GRATITUDE, SANDS.

CHANNEL ONE: Andrew Svenson died at 65 the other day in Livingston, New Jersey, a victim of cancer. Which means nothing unless you knew he was the Franklin Dixon who wrote the Hardy Boys books and the Laura Lee Hope who wrote the Bobbsey Twins tales. His stepfather, Edward Stratemeyer, was the Carolyn Keene who wrote the Nancy Drew books.

Hogan's Heroes comic Richard Dawson may take over ABC's troubled A.M. America show or, if not Dawson, Geraldo Rivera and Rona Barrett are in the running . . . Tatum O'Neal will be paid $350,000 to make the movie Bad News Bears, plus 8 per cent of the net profit and one per cent of the gross up to $13 million. Tatum O'Neal, an Oscar winner for Paper Moon, is 11 years old and will have control of her money at 18. I hate her.

BUREAU OF USELESS INFORMATION: Thursday's answer—Back in the 1950s, when big radio was dying, the theme song Teddy Bears' Picnic meant Big Jon and Sparky and that is Jon, not John. "May the good Lord bless and keep you" meant The Big Show and, of course, Tallulah Bankhead, dahling.

Today's question—Any radio trivia freak will know what show included Doc Gamble, Mayor La Trivia and Mrs. Wearybottom in its cast; so name it. But you must also name the radio knowitall whose announcer always said, "I have a lady in the balcony." Answers Saturday.

Friday highlights

7:30 p.m.—Laszlo Gati talks on Arts Calendar about the pending Victoria symphony season. I mean music—10.

8:00—First of the Tony Curtis mystery movies as con man McCoy—8.

8:00—MLA Scott Wallace on the Cable phones—10.

9:00—Touch the Earth is a CBC folk-pop music special with Sylvia Tyson, Valdy, Leon Bibb and a bunch more—2,6.

● 11:30—ABC examines the Monty Python program and its popularity, which is neither contradiction nor argument—4.

Friday movies

1:00 p.m.—Hot Spell (tepid 1958 antique), Shirley Booth, Anthony Quinn. Notice how nobody is singing We're Having a Heat Wave since we went Celsius?—11.

3:30—Anastasia (good 1956 who-is-she?). Good when Helen Hayes and Ingrid Bergman are on screen; sometimes, Yul Brynner also is present—5.

● 9:00—Sleeper (1973 Woody Allen). Recommended because you'd be mad at me if you didn't notice it was on—4.

● 9:00—Crack in the World (1965 sci-fi), Dana Andrews. Recommended because it's cracking good—11.

9:00—The Victors (long, loud and mostly lousy 1963 war epic), George Peppard, George Hamilton and what seems the original cast of the Second World War. Not recommended—12.

12:00—Assignment Terror (1970 Italian chiller), Michael Rennie. The kindest thing is to call it dull—6.

12:00—Spirits of the Dead (only fair 1969 Poe stories, by Fellini and Vadim), Bardot, Jane Fonda and others in the Vadim harem—8.

12:20 a.m.—A Hole in the Head (silly 1959 Sinatra). You need one to watch and, if by chance you watch without one, you'll get one—12.

12:30—Crimson Cult (1968 Karloff and Chris Lee). A crimson cult is where you belong if you understand the Hole in the Head comment—7.

1:00—Beau James (1957 Bob Hope failure). The one about New York's mayor Jimmy Walker, who would not have been a movie subject if he had not lived in New York; wonder who will star in the Joe Namath movie—2.

2:00—Night of the Blood Beast (1958 garbage)—7.

2:25—Destination Moon (all right 1950 sci-fi). The special effects are amusing, but he who stays up this late for a movie has a hole in my head—8.

Friday radio

7:00 p.m.—A CBC report on Benedict Arnold in Canada—CBU-FM (105.7).

7:30—New season for Inside from the Outside—CBU (690).

8:00—Between Ourselves is about Les Ursulines of Quebec City, which the CBC calls the most snobbish and best educational convent—CBU.

8:00—Ideas hears Winston Churchill biographers—CBU-FM.

9:00—A concert by Maureen Forrester—CBU.

● Recommended.

Next games: Tuesday — Dunsmuir at Reynolds; Claremont at Mt. Douglas; Oak Bay at Parkland; Esquimalt at Norfolk House; St. Margarets at Spectrum.

Mt. Douglas moved into third place in the inter-high school girls' field hockey league Thursday without lifting a stick.

Mt. Douglas moved one point ahead of Spectrum by winning by default over Belmont, which has pulled out of the league.

Belmont was outscored, 36-0, in losing its first four games and it defaulted to Claremont on Tuesday. It will forfeit its remaining games and the points will be awarded on the days the games would have been played.

Spectrum dropped a 2-0 decision to second-place Norfolk House and slipped into a tie for fourth with Vic High which downed St. Margarets, 3-1.

Spectrum held the edge in play but Susan Horner played brilliantly in goal, handing the community school its first shutout, and league-leading scorer Nina Bland and high-scoring Briony Penn scored on breakaways.

In other games; first-place Oak Bay whipped Esquimalt, 5-0; Parkland and Dunsmuir played to a scoreless draw, and Reynolds drew 1-1 with Claremont.

Squash tourney draws big field

Victoria's invitational squash tournament has drawn more than 150 entries from Vancouver Island, the Lower Mainland and Washington.

The annual competition starts today at 6 p.m. with matches at the Victoria Racquet Club (the host club), Sussex squash club and the University of Victoria.

Play continues from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and all finals are scheduled for the Racquet Club on Sunday beginning at 11:30 a.m.

Boxing Club pulls upset

London Boxing Club, the new entry, has begun the South Island Big Six Hockey League season by posting a major upset.

Ron Poole scored two goals and the Boxers held period leads of 3-0 and 6-0 on the way to a 6-3 victory over defending champion Cowichan Lakers Thursday at G. R. Pearkes Arena.

Brian Hamilton, Mark Thomas, Bob Martin and Steve Andregken scored the other goals for the Boxing Club, which last year played in the Vancouver Island League.

Yankees plan memorial to Stengel

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Yankees announced Wednesday they will perpetuate the memory of Casey Stengel by adding his name to a section of plaques and monuments beyond the centrefield fence in the new Yankee Stadium, which will open next April.

The monuments are for Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and Miller Huggins and the plaques are for Ed Barrow, Jacob Ruppert, Joe DiMaggio, Mickey Mantle and Pope Paul VI.

Stengel, who was manager of the American League Yankees from 1949-1960 and guided them to 10 pennants and seven World Series titles, died of cancer Monday night at the age of 85.

Imbibers . . . be warned

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police said Thursday they will step up security at British Columbia Lions home games starting with Saturday's Western Football Conference clash with Calgary Stampeders.

In addition to doubling police manpower at Empire Stadium, police said admission will be refused to fans who are in possession of alcoholic beverages or who are obviously intoxicated.

Race invitation for L'Enjoleur

TORONTO (CP) — L'Enjoleur, winner of two-thirds of Canadian thoroughbred horse-racing's Triple Crown before finishing a disappointing third in the third leg last Saturday—the Breeders' Stakes—has been invited to represent Canada in the $350,000 race of champions at California's Santa Anita track on Nov. 1.

Scouts buy Rocky Farr

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Goaltender Rocky Farr of Buffalo Sabres was purchased Wednesday by Kansas City Scouts in a National Hockey League cash transaction.

Farr was acquired by Buffalo in the 1970 National Hockey League expansion draft from Montreal Canadiens.

During the last five years, Farr has played the bulk of his time with the now defunct Cincinnati Swords of the American Hockey League and 16 games with the Sabres. He was assigned to Springfield Indians of the AHL, subject to immediate recall.

M. V. Chesnut's Garden notes

In yesterday's notes on dahlias I mentioned the fact that many coastal gardeners leave the roots in the ground all winter, taking them up, dividing them and replanting them in the spring just as growth is commencing.

On sandy or gravelly soil, well drained and free from hungry slugs, this works surprisingly well — most years — but the casualties were very high in that beast of a winter of 1968-69.

In my own case, I dug up about half my dahlias — the ones growing in the wetter and more slug-infested parts of the garden — and allowed about a dozen to remain in the ground. Of this dozen, only one survived to grow again the following spring.

Actually, I didn't have much better luck with the ones I dug and stored.

Our basement is much too warm for the storage of dahlia roots, and the only suitable place I have is our unheated garage where, in a normal year, they keep very well indeed.

In the 1968-69 winter, though, with long periods of below-freezing temperatures, all but three of my stored tubers had turned to masses of smelly mush by spring.

Strangely enough, my lily bulbs came through that hard winter without a single loss, despite hard-frozen ground and slugs.

I think probably the reason was because the lilies had completed their growth and had died down and become properly dormant when the cold weather hit us, while the dahlias were still green, full of sap and going strong when frost cut them down overnight.

I believe now there is a definite advantage in postponing the lifting of dahlias until late in October, for with more maturity, the sap in the tubers becomes a bit richer and thicker, making for more frost resistance and a longer storage life.

Inland gardeners, where frost comes earlier, should take them up any time after the leaves hang limp and lifeless.

For lifting, try to pick a dry, sunny day with a bit of wind — what a woman would call a good drying day — and if possible, get the job done in the forenoon.

Ease the roots gently out of the ground — I use a long-handled, flat-tined digging fork — levering them up from several different angles until the roots come free without too much breakage.

Cut the tops down to within an inch or two from the roots, then arrange the clumps upside down on the lawn or driveway so you can wash away any soil clinging to them with a forceful jet from the garden hose.

When clean, shift them to a dry spot, again on the lawn or driveway, and leave them out in the sun and wind for the rest of the day to lose their surface moisture.

In the late afternoon, bring your dahlia clumps indoors and sit them upside down on newspapers spread on the basement floor. This upside down business is simply to drain away any moisture which may be in the hollow stems.

At this point, it is a good idea to give your roots a light dusting with any all-purpose garden dust you may happen to have handy.

This could be bulb dust, rose dust, fruit tree dust, everygreen dust, potato and vegetable dust or the like. If you have none of these, use ordinary yellow sulphur. After about a week on their newspapers, the roots may be packed and placed in cool storage for the winter.

One good way is to use a big carton scrounged from your grocer and plunge them in peat moss or vermiculite, storing the carton in a cold but frost-free place.

Lacking a cool basement, I continue to use my unheated garage; fortunately, the peat moss or vermicultite acts as an insulator afainst light or short-lived frosts.

★ ★ ★

This is a more or less condensed version of one method for bringing dahlias safely through the winter. There are one or two points I would like to explain a bit more fully, though, and we'll talk about these in my next column.

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — I have a problem and perhaps many others are having it as well. I can't tell the TV news shows any more from the crime dramas that follow shortly afterwards.

I'm not sure whether or not I saw Patty Hearst on Walter Cronkite or on The Streets of San Francisco. Was Sara Jane Moore a character in Cannon or did she really try to shoot the president of the United States?

Reality and unreality blend into one. There doesn't seem to be much difference between the Lynette Fromme we see on Eyewitness News and the sick hippy we watch on Hawaii Five-O.

What do the crazy people do when they're not out in the streets aiming guns at people? Do they sit home and watch television?

Do thsey fantasize that S.W.A.T. has their house surrounded or that the FBI's Efrem Zimbalist is hunting them in a helicopter?

Do they identify with the people who are trying to kill McCloud or the ones who are trying to rape Angie Dickinson in Police Woman?

When did John Chancellor go off the air and Mod Squad go on? There must have been a commercial break somewhere. Did I see a bank robbery on the 6 o'clock news or was it on Barbary Coast? Was it the lady in The Rookies who had a .45 in her hand or did I watch her on Harry Reasoner?

★ ★ ★

Who writes the news shows; who writes the crime dramas? Are they the same people?

I know I heard that a woman had her .44 taken away from her and in 12 hours she was able to purchase a .38. But what show did I see it on? Was it the Today program or could it have been on Baretta?

Where are all the future Oswalds and the Arthur Bremmers now? Do they have color TV or are they watching in black and white?

Was it Petrocelli, Ironside, Perry Mason or Patty Hearst's lawyer I saw last night saying his client had been brainwashed?

They showed a gun on television that could shoot poison darts and kill someone in 15 seconds. I think Dan Schorr talked about it — but then again it could have been on Mission: Impossible.

Did someone really try to kill Jack Anderson or was it a man on Conrack? I wish I could recall.

There was a kidnapping on TV. I think it was a boy named Bronfman. They caught the kidnappers. Who did? The real FBI or was it Harry O? What shows do kidnappers watch after they're caught? The news programs or the crime dramas?

★ ★ ★

Are would-be killers jealous of Charles Manson? Do they envy Miss Fromme's TV exposure¼ Do they dream they will be the next ones grinning in the kleigh lights that press against their police escorts?

Or do they pretend they're shooting it out with Charles Bronson on the ABC Friday Night Movie.

If I can't tell the real events from the fictional ones, how can they? Maybe there is no such thing as a real event any more. Maybe there's no fiction. Then what is it we're watching and what is it doing to us?

And if it's doing it to us, what is it doing to them — those lonely frustrated people sitting in their dingy rooms fondling the .22s, .38s and .45s and whatever else they bought in the store last week?

The National Rifle Association spokesman said on Mike Wallace's show that guns don't kill people — people kill people. Or did I see that on Kojak?

Sydney Harris

Discussing a common school problem, a parent recently asked me: "How is it that some teachers are able to control their classes with a very light rein, and have no disciplinary troubles, while others must shout and plead and threaten and still get nowhere with the troublemakers?"

I don't think the answer has much to do with teaching techniques or even experience, beyond a certain degree. I think it has almost everything to do with the "authenticity" of the teacher.

Notice I do not say "authority," but "authenticity." For genuine authority, which is more than a matter of official position and the ability to reward or punish, comes out of the depths of the personality. It has a realness, a presence, an aura, that can impress and influence even a six-year-old.

A person is either himself or not himself; is either rooted in his existence, or is a fabrication; has either found his humanhood or is still playing with masks and roles and status symbols.

And nobody is more aware of this difference (although unconsciously) than a child. Only an authentic person can evoke a good response in the core of the other person; only person is resonant to person.

Knowledge is not enough. Technique is not enough. Mere experience is not enough. This is the mystery at the heart of the teaching process; and the same mystery is at the heart of the healing process. Both are an art, more than a science or a skill — and the art is at bottom the ability to "tune in to the other's wavelength."

And this ability is not possessed by those who have failed to come to terms with their own individual person, no matter what other talents they possess. Until they have liberated themselves (not completely, but mostly) from what is artificial and unauthentic within themselves, they cannot communicate, counsel or control others.

The fef teachers who meant the most to me in my school life were not necessarily those who kntw the most, but those who gave out of the fullness of themselves; who confronted me face to face, as it were, with a humanhood that awoke and lured my own small and trembling soul and called me to take hold of my own existence with my two hands.

Such persons, of course, are extremely rare, and they are worth more than we can ever pay them. It should be the prime task of a good society to recruit and develop these personalities for safeguarding our children's futures; and our failure to do so is our most monstrous sin of omission.

James Bacon's Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD — The Hollywood chamber of commerce must love it when Red Skelton comes to town from his mountain home above Palm Springs.

Merv Griffin taped Red for 90 minutes the other night for airing October 30. Merv asked Red what was the biggest change in Hollywood since he first came here before the big war?

Red said he went over to find his star on the boulevard but instead found a cat trying to bury it.

But Red had a back-handed compliment for Hollywood. New York City is worse.

"Crime is so bad there that a guy came up to me on the street and asked me how far it was to Central Park.

"When I told him it was about five blocks, the guy said, 'That's too far. I'll have to mug you here.' "

On the subject of Howard Hughes, he can't understand how a guy whom nobody has seen has suddenly turned up missing.

Years ago, Red called Santa Monica the place "where the surf meets the beer cans." There was a loud hue and cry but the beach was cleaned up fast.

Maybe Red's barb will clean up Hollywood boulevard and drive the weirdos back to Beverly Hills where they won't be noticed.

★ ★ ★

Got a phone call from Chris Mitchum who is in town for a few days visiting his famous father and mother and lining up a few deals for himself. He's been talking with Andy McLaglen and Tom Gries he still retires after each pictures, notably Helter Skelter.

Chris and his wife have been living in Spain for some years. He's been busy making movies on the Continent.

They were living in the ski country about 30 minutes up in the mountains from Madrid.

"Then all of a sudden I got an offer to do four pictures in Asia, so I figured in this business, you can live where you want to."

So he bought a 125-acre farm up near Greenfield, Mass., near the Vermont-New Hampshire borders.

He's going to raise alfalfa, run about 40 head of hereford cattle and maybe have seven or eight quarter-horses, like Papa Robert.

"He's still talking about buying property in New Mexico and spending the rest of his life breeding quarter-horses full time."

That will be the day.

These steers are giant man-eaters

By GRAHAME PEARCE
Colonist-Copley Service

While North America reels in shock over the bloody antics of Bruce, the mechanical shark in the film Jaws, the people of Australia carry on with business as usual where real life would make Gums seem a more appropriate title for the film.

If someone wrote it as fiction, no one would believe a solution for taking care of Bruce like the one offered by Australian Colin Ostle, a 33-year-old Fisheries and Wildlife officer whose sideline interest has earned him the title Cowboy of the Sea.

His hobby is lassoing giant white pointer sharks over the side of a friend's fishing boat around King George Sound, near Albany in the south of western Australia. White pointers are the indiscriminately savage man-eaters who have gained new-found celebrity because of Jaws.

Ostle has a favorite area of the sound where he never fails to find a shark. This area delivered his largest catch to date. The monster, with jaws big enough to fit around the shoulders of two grown men, towered above him when it was strung up on a wharf for weighing. Tipping the scales at more than 3,200 pounds, it was about 600 pounds heavier than the record for a line fish.

"It was certainly one of the biggest I have caught," Ostle said, "but I have not weighed them all. He considers anything under six feet not worth the effort and throws them back.

He was aboard his friend's 56-foot fishing boat around sunset when he took this one.

"Actually I thought he was much smaller," Ostle said. "It was getting dark and I couldn't see his full length. I knew he was something, though, when he began to fight."

The struggle to the death with this record giant took about two and a half hours.

"When they feel the noose tighten, sharks spurt into a terrific rush that sometimes lifts them right out of the water," Ostle said. "It is a fantastic sight to see them try to break the impediment of a noose. They roll up and become entangled in whatever gear you use, twisting and turning and sometimes succeeding in ripping themselves free."

"One shark broke a two-ton wire.

"With that one, I had an old rubber tire free-swinging at the back of the boat at the end of the wire. The noosed shark pulled the tire out as far as it would go and snapped the line at the end of it before the boat could take up the slack."

For Ostle, it is not entirely a cold-blooded operation. When he pulled in this last shark and realized how big it was, his thrill was tempered by a feeling of distress.

"I was not happy that it was bigger than any fish ever caught by line," he said. "There is something sad about the death of such a large and powerful animal."

Ostle developed his technique of noosing around the gills rather than the tail because it offers the shark more of a chance to challenge his captor.

"Noosing the tail would be easier for me," he said, "but it would not be as sporting. And the shark, which cannot breathe through restricted gills, has a quicker death than it would have if it died as a result of tail noosing.

"I respect the animal deeply. It is cunning and intelligent. My battles with sharks are battles of wits as well as strength."

Many Australians share this feeling. They are not overly afraid of paranoid but they are ever wary of the problem around the country's 12,000 miles of coastline. Fatal attacks up to now have been rare. But by odd coincidence with the current publicity surrounding sharks, there have been three attacks in Australian waters within the last six months, two of them fatal.

Sergeants face bribes charges

FT. LEONARD WOOD, Mo. (UPI) — Nine drill sergeants will be court martialed for allegedly accepting bribes, some disguised as birthday presents, from trainees in return for favored treatment. The army said the court martials will begin this week. Regulations prohibit all gifts from trainees to their drill sergeants.

More killings in Argentina

ROSARIO, Argentina (UPI) —The bodies of two lawyers who had defended leftist clients were found in the center strip of a highway Tuesday, the latest victims of Argentina's political violence.

Fire damage $250,000

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — A blaze which destroyed the Starburst Homes Ltd. prefabricating plant has caused an estimated $250,000 damage and left 85 workers without jobs.

Hemophilia treatment free

GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — A new treatment for a certain type of hemophilia, known as bleeders disease, will be available free of charge to Canadians within a month, says Ronald George, president of the Canadian Hemophilia Society.

Treatment will be effective for about 20 per cent of known hemophiliacs who are classified as Factor Nines.

"This treatment is revolutionary," said George, a University of Guelph professor.

"It is a concentrate in a vial about the size of a large fountain pen and is enought o retain normality for 24 to 48 hours. The only treatment available at present is a similar concentrate which is too expensive for most hemophiliacs."

Dionne wedding fete was a family affair

CORBEIL, Ont. (CP) — On May 28, 1934, an incredulous world received the news that Mrs. Oliva Dionne had given birth to five baby girls, the first time in known medical history that quintuplets has survived birth.

Mr. and Mrs. Dionne, who have been living almost in obscurity in a comfortable brick bungalow just a few hundred yards from the place where the quints were born recently celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

The birth of the quints still ranks as one of the greatest news stories of all time. For many years, Mr. and Mrs. Dionne and their five daughters — Annette, Cecile, Emilie, Marie and Yvonne — occupied centre stage in world interest.

Dionne, now 72 and Mrs. Dionne, 66, asked that the anniversary celebration be strictly a family affair. The three surviving quints — Annette, Cecile and Yvonne who live in Montreal, were unable to be present.

Emilie died in 1954 and Marie in 1970.

However, the couple celebrated the occasion with their eight other children and their 40 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

The Dionne's home was festooned with gifts, flowers, telegrams and letters from relatives and close friends. Governor-General Jules Leger and Mrs. Leger sent a telegram of congratulations, as did Premier William Davis and other prominent Canadians.

It was on a Saturday morning in 1925 that Elzire, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Moise Legros, became the bride of Oliva, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Dionne, in a ceremony at the Corbeil Sacred Heart Church.

After a wedding trip to Mechims, Que,, the couple took up residence in the frame farmhouse which, nine years later, was to become known throughout the world.

Born to them before the quints were Ernest, Rose Marie, Theresa, Daniel and Pauline. After the family moved to a big new home across the road now a nursing home for the aged, Olvia Jr., Victor and Claude were born.

Patient killed in ambulance

VANCOUVER (CP) — A privately-owned ambulance making an emergency run collided with a car, killing the patient being taken to hospital. Two of the three ambulance attendants were taken to hospital with injuries. The patient, a woman in her 80s suffering from a cardiac condition, was killed almost instantly.

Suicide follows killings of four

TOKYO (AP) — A once wealthy landowner who went bankrupt became enraged when evicted from his home. Police said he set fire to the house and killed his mother, three neighbors and himself.

THE CORPORATION OF THE DISTRICT OF OAK BAY

NOTICE OF ELECTION

Public Notice is hereby given to the electors of the Municipality of Oak Bay that I require the presence of the said electors at the Municipal Hall, 2167 Oak Bay Avenue, Oak Bay, B.C., on MONDAY, the twenty-seventh day of October, 1975, at the hour of ten o'clock in the forenoon, for the purpose of electing persons to represent them as:

MAYOR — One (1) to be elected for the years 1976 and 1977

ALDERMEN — Three (3) to be elected for the years 1976 and 1977

The mode of nomination of candidates shall be as follows: Candidates shall be nominated in writing by two duly qualified electors of the Municipality. The nomination-paper shall be delivered to the Returning Officer at any time between the date of this notice and noon of the day of nomination. The nomination-paper may be in the form prescribed in the Municipal Act, and shall state the name, residence, and occupation of the person nominated in such manner as to sufficiently identify such candidate. The nomination-paper shall be subscribed to by the candidate.

At the time of filing the nomination-paper, the candidate shall also file, with the Returning Officer, a written disclosure as required under the Public Officials and Employees Disclosure Act.

In the event of a Poll being necessary, such Poll will be opened on the FIFTEENTH (15th) day of NOVEMBER, 1975, between the hours of EIGHT A.M. and EIGHT P.M., at the following places:

Uplands Elementary School, Henderson Road
Oak Bay Senior Secondary School, Cranmore Road
Senior Citizens' Activity Centre, Monterey Avenue
Monterey Elementary School, Monterey Avenue

An ADVANCED POLL will be open at the MUNICIPAL HALL, ONLY, between the hours of EIGHT-THIRTY A.M. and FIVE P.M. on each of the two days immediately preceding the day of election (November 13th and 14th), of which every person is hereby required to take notice and govern himself accordingly.

The only persons permitted to vote at the Advanced Poll are those who, being duly qualified electors, sign a statement that they expect to be absent from the Municipality on Polling Day, or they are, for reasons of conscience, prevented from voting on Polling Day, or through circumstances beyond their control they will not be able to attend the poll on Polling Day.

Given under my hand at Oak Bay, B.C., this 3rd day of October, 1975.

Britain's shrinking pound

As it drops close to $2, Mideast sellout and Labor militants take share of blame

£ £ £ £

By JOHN HAY

LONDON (CP) — Mystery money deals by a Middle East oil state and fears of a leftward lurch by Britain's Labor government may have been responsible for the drop of the British pound to an all-time low this week.

That is the view on the London money market, where the pound reached a record depreciation of 19.7 per cent from its 1971 value, measured against a basket of 10 other major currencies.

The pound traded Thursday at $2.03 in U.S. funds and $2.08 Canadian, its lowest ever. Dealers said only intervention by the Bank of England — the government's money manager — kept sterling from sliding further.

The pound has suffered a bumpy downhill ride throughout the year. But two new factors appear to have accelerated the trend, which makes British goods cheaper abroad and foreign imports costlier at home.

A rich Middle East oil state — some say Iran — is reported to be selling sterling in favor of French francs, possibly to finance an impending arms purchase from France.

Usual money market secrecy so far has concealed the facts, but heavy selling of sterling by at least one major holder is clearly continuing, and the franc has been rising — indicating somebody is bidding heavily in Paris.

France's own central bank has stepped in to buy U.S. dollars and sell francs to keep the value of the franc from rising too quickly.

Observers also attribute sterling's decline to the Labor party conference in Blackpool

Bandit suicide shot killed boy, police say

Victim Rui Sa

MONTREAL (CP) — A senior police officer says police are 95 per cent sure that a bank robber who died after hijacking a school bus carrying 13 children Wednesday had shot himself and that the same bullet killed six-year-old Rui Sa.

Lieut. Emile Boire, head of the Montreal Urban Community police homicide squad, told a news conference Thursday this was one of the principal results of a preliminary investigation into the death of Denis Martel, 33.

'Best thing to do' in situation

"Our results indicate he shot himself, and the same bullet that killed him, killed the boy also," said Boire.

Earlier reports had indicated Martel was shot by a policeman following a 30-minute high-speed chase through the city's east end after an attempted bank robbery.

Boire said the police officer "apparently" did not hit Martel in the ensuing shootout after the commandeered school bus was halted when a police car rammed into it.

Boire said a 9-millimetre spent bullet, believed to have come from Martel's Luger automatic pistol, was found in the centre of the bus and is thought to have passed through Martel's head and hit the schoolboy.

When police arrived during a robbery at a branch of the Bank Canadian National, police said a gunman dropped a satchel containing $3,600 and ran to a bus which had stopped to take on elementary school children two blocks away. He then forced driver Claude Chaput to take him on a 10-mile route through busy streets at speeds of up to 80 miles an hour.

In a tape recording of the chase played to reporters, a police helicopter directing the operation gave repeated warnings not to follow the bus too closely, nor to fire at it because of the children inside.

Shaved jail terms out, Allmand says

OTTAWA (CP)— Solicitor-General Warren Allmand said Thursday Parliament probably will be asked to repeal a law that has the potential to reduce prison sentences by about 25 per cent.

Allmand also indicated that the law on habitual criminals, now seldom used, will be toughened. He was being peppered with questions about Denis Martel, 33, who abducted a school bus full of children in fleeing a bank robbery in Montreal Wednesday. (See story on left.) Martel and one of the children were shot to death during a gun battle with police.

Martel, who had a record going back to 1963, had been released from a federal prison Sept. 9 and would have faced trial this month for an armed robbery last February.

He had been released on $5000 bail in February after being charged and was returned to prison for about four months to serve another portion of earlier sentences.

Even Montreal police were under the impression Wednesday that Martel was another homicidal parolee but Allmand and the national parole board said Martel wasn't on parole.

"He had reached the end of his sentence as calculated under terms of law," Allmand said. "He had to be let go. There was no choice."

"We're reforming this whole area right now. We hope to correct the abuses or weaknesses."

Martel was released because what is called earned and statutory remission had reduced the time he had to spend in prison from five years and 662 days to about four years.

He had been released under "mandatory supervision" — which means he had to see a parole officer regularly — in August, 1974.

A warrant ordering him back to prison was issued after he was granted bail in February, but he wasn't picked up until May. He was imprisoned but once again remission meant he had to be released Sept. 9.

Statutory remission covers about 25 per cent of a sentence. Earned remission, for good behavior in prison, can bring the total reduction to about one-third.

"We're going to retain earned remission," Allmand said. "It encourages prisoners to work, to learn something."

But statutory remission, a

Beer's back on tap

An informational picket line which has blocked the delivery entrance to Labatt's brewery for two days, was lifted Thursday afternoon and the beer trucks were on the road again.

The picket line, set up by frustrated and angry Nanaimo hotel owners and some of their employees, had threatened continued operations at 20 Greater Victoria pubs which rely on Labatt's deliveries for their beer supplies. About another eight taverns are closed because of a strike by drivers employed by Pacific Brewers Distributing.

Labatt's spokesman Bruce Thom said Thursday night the line was removed after an investigating officer with the Labor Relations Board talked to the pickets, but Thom said the men left of their own volition.

Labatt's applied to the board Wednesday, asking for an order to have its driveway cleared.

If the line had remained up, the brewery would have been forced to start laying off employees tolay.

The Nanaimo pickets were protesting the closure of many up-Island taverns as a result of the beer distribution strike.

Labatt's and other breweries make some deliveries directly to taverns in the immediate area of the breweries, but most beer deliveries are handled by Pacific Brewers.

Hostages freed from restaurant

LONDON (UPI) — Six hostages held by three men in the basement of a restaurant since early Sunday were released early today, climaxing a drama that began as bungled robbery attempt. The gunmen were brought out individually 20 minutes later.

Earlier Thursday, police arrested an Italian and a German and charged them with conspiring with one of the holdup men who had held the hostages for five days in a basement storeroom.

TRUDEAU HAT TRICK

6 pounds, 9 inches

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau beamed and passed out cigars after his wife Margaret gave birth to their third son early Thursday at Ottawa Civic Hospital.

"Don't take them all, I need some for cabinet," he told reporters when he arrived on Parliament Hill after waiting up most of the night for his new son's arrival. He was carrying a two-foot-long wooden box filltd with Royal Jamaican cigars.

The baby, born at 2:30 a.m., weighed seven pounds, 14 ounces but Trudeau got things mixed up when he first called friends to spread the news.

"Six pounds and nine inches," he recalled saying at one point to those who were among the first to hear.

He acknowledged being "a little shaked" by the birth which kept him up until 4 a.m. and made him 10 minutes late for the regular Thursday meeting of cabinet. Normally, his grammar is impeccable.

Mrs. Trudeau, who appeared publicly with her husband Wednesday afternoon at the National Arts Centre, entered hospital about 10 p.m. The 26-year-old mother and the baby were doing "very well indeed," Trudeau said.

The Trudeaus, married March 5, 1971, in a secret certmony at North Vancouver, have two other sons, both born on Christmas Day — Justin in 1971 and Alexandre Emmanuel, better known as Sacha, two years later.

No name has been picked for the latest son.

'Most unfortunate war'

MONTREAL (CP) — The government may impose tighter controls over the powerful influence of United States television in Canada, says Communications Minister Pierre Juneau.

In future, Canadians likely will see fewer programs from U.S. border television stations as the reorganized Canadian Radio-Television Commission takes action to shield domestic broadcasters from growing foreign competition, Juneau said Thursday. The commission is to have responsibilty for telecommunications in proposed reorganization to be proclaimed by Parliament during its next session.

Juneau, 52, was interviewed Thursday in a campaign office in the working-class east Montreal riding of Hochelaga, where he is seeking the seat of former communications minister Gerard Pelletier in a byelection Oct. 14.

The new minister quit a 26-year public service career Aug. 29, joined the Liberal party and moved into the cabinet from his post as CRTC chairman.

He said solutions to the conflict between broadcasters and cable television operators probably will result in "reducing some American influence but not keeping Americans off" domestic television screens. Broadcasters, who say they are losing advertising money because cable has increased competition from distant television stations, want the government to black out cable-carried programming that is simultaneously available on local channels.

Juneau
. . . violence pays

The CRTC has already ordered some cable companies to delete advertising from U.S. stations and substitute Canadian material, and the government has introduced legislation prohibiting domestic advertisers from claiming tax deductions for money spent on American border stations.

Juneau said the CRTC could work toward more extensive deletions of competing foreign programming and could even institute a rule banning all

Cabinet shuffle is near

By JIM HUME
Colonist Reporter

Speculation that a provincial cabinet shuffle is in the offing increased Thursday as the cabinet met for close to an hour beyond its normal time.

Premier Barrett refused comment on the reason for the extra-long meeting but other sources indicated that cabinet changes were on the agenda.

"I don't comment on topics discussed at cabinet meetings," the premier said.

For several weeks now there have been indications that Transport and Communications Minister Robert Strachan and Mines Minister Leo Nimsick would soon be stepping down from their cabinet posts. Last week in Trail Premier Barrett passed the comment that possibly his holding of two portfolios, that of premier and minister of finance, had outlived its usefulness.

Agricultural Minister David Stupich, a chartered accountant, has been suggested as the possible successor if Barrett relinquishes the finance post.

Since making his original statement during a radio hotline show in Trail the premier has refused to elaborate. Earlier this week he repeated that the dual cabinet post has possibly outlived its usefulness" but again declined to say when he would be step-

B.C. seeks free ideas for own TV programs

A television talent hunt geared to provide public TV programs over the CBC provincial network was announced Thursday by Communications Minister Robert Strachan.

Strachan said 13 half-hour programs would begin in prime viewing time some time during the 1977 TV season.

In an extensive newspaper advertising campaign, Strachan is inviting the public to submit ideas for programs to Communications Mandate, the official title of the project.

Strachan said the invitation to participate was open to all citizens and that all proposals would be treated confidentially. The proposals must not exceed 500 words and should concentrate on themes uniquely relevant to B.C.

A footnote on the newspaper advertisements notes "there will be no payment for any of the program proposals" nor is the crown obliged "to develop or product any of the proposals received."

In a background paper released with the Strachan announcement the minister says: "The Mandate is to enhance the provincial communications environment through expanded and new use of the important media technologies of film, video tape and VHF television broadcast. The operational priority of Communications Mandate is to provide increased opportunities for local talent to participate in the production of program material."

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Gladys was moving Thursday on a course that would bring it close to Newfoundland, forecasters said.

Museum future doubtful

Maritime Museum officials may have cheered too soon because they may still have to vacate their home in the old Law Courts in Bastion Square, it was learned Wednesday.

Two offers to purchase the building were received Wednesday and were under review, according to Victoria city manager James Bramley.

The offers came a day after the deadline for bids but to accommodate the prospective buyers, the city has "extended the deadline," he said.

"A couple of deals are under review, one local and one from an up-Island group," he said.

Bramley wouldn't say whether the offers were promising. Although the city had put no official price tag on the building, it was believed that bids over $500,000 would receive favorable consideration.

Maritime officials weren't available for comment Wednesday, but the possibility that the building may be sold after all, was expected to cause concern among them.

Tuesday, when no offers for the purchase of the building had been received by the city, museum board chairman R. W. Sandilands said the absence of bids was "good news."

He added that the museum now had "breathing space" to arrive at some solution that might enable it to stay in the building.

The city had offered the museum a chance to relocate in the Malahat Building on Wharf, but museum officials said the premises were too small.

Comox airmen win contest

COMOX — Mock cries for help filled the air in a heavily wooded area of the Canadian Forces Base here this week when a light aircraft was supposed to have crashed.

The scene was part of a week-long search and rescue competition organized by CFB Comox.

The joint Canadian-American competition included para and supply drops as well as the medical evacuation exercise.

The host 442 Search and Rescue Squadron emerged overall winner and placed second in the medical evacuation exercise.

The medical exercise was won by 303 Aerospace Rescue and Recovery squadron from March Airforce Field, California.

Beer

Protest irks firm

Labatt's Brewery, whose Victoria beer deliveries were halted for the second consecutive day Wednesday, will ask the Labor Relations Board to remove a picket line set up by Nanaimo hotel owners at its Victoria plant.

The picket line, set up Tuesday by Nanaimo hotel owners and some of their employees to protest the forced closure of many up-Island taverns because of the beer distributors' strike, has halted Labatt's deliveries to about 20 Greater Victoria hotels.

Labatt's drivers have apparently been unable to drive their trucks through the line around the Government Street brewery.

The picketers claim the line is for information purposes only and spokesman George Barnes, owner of Nanaimo's Cassidy Hotel, said the picketing is endorsed by the Hotel and Restaurant Employees Union.

But union spokesman Tony Gerussi said from Vancouver Wednesday the line has not been endorsed by the union and officials will be in Victoria today to persuade union members to stop picketing.

The strike by 165 members of the Brewery Workers Union employed by Pacific Brewers Distributing has stopped almost all beer deliveries throughout the province. Only those taverns supplied directly by the breweries have been unaffected by the strike, which began Aug. 28.

Eight Greater Victoria taverns have closed because of the strike, but about 20 pubs supplied directly by Labatt's there have been able to continue operating.

Labatt's does not make deliveries up-Island and this has drawn the anger of the Nanaimo businessmen.

But if Labatt's attempted to step in and make deliveries to taverns normally supplied by Pacific Brewers, it would become a legal target of picketing by the striking workers.

Labatt's Victoria general manager Ken McNamara, who announced Wednesday the company would ask the board to have the picketing stopped, said the brewery delivers about 300 barrels and 10,000 dozen bottles a day. The bottled beer is supplied to Liquor Administration Branch outlets.

If the picketing continues all Victoria-area hotels still operating will be forced (according to Patrick Hungenberg, president of the Victoria Hotel Association) to close by Saturday. The strike has forced the closure of about 40 to 50 hotels across the province.

Ed Glasser, business agent for the striking brewery delivery workers, said Wednesday from Vancouver that he is hopeful negotiations could resume.

He said he will meet today with mediator Charles Stewart.

Wages aren't an issue in the dispute, Glasser said, and the strike was called over "the company's contracting-out practices."

Hungenberg said the strike is particularily hard on taverns supplied by Molson's, which was shut down by a strike earlier this summer.

About 50 to 75 tavern workers in this area have been laid off because of the dispute, he said.

thermoshell

Something new in home comfort for concerned homeowners all across Canada

Our aim is to offer you a complete line of home comfort products and services; and to do so with the emphasis on low cost and energy conservation.

For example, we have compiled the Thermoshell Conservation Guide Booklet, which is filled with many fuel-saving suggestions. Or there is the Thermoshell Chronotherm, a new type of thermostat to help you stay comfortable while you cut your fuel bills. And the Thermoshell Comprehensive Protection Plan which is designed to protect you against unexpected furnace repair bills and to help keep your furnace running at optimum efficiency.

Of course your Thermoshell Centre also offers Automatic Fuel Delivery and an Equal Monthly Payment Plan as well as a complete line of furnaces, water heaters, power humidifiers and other home comfort equipment — all designed to help keep your fuel costs in line.

A new guide to fuel economy

This informative, easy-to-read booklet from Thermoshell is filled with useful hints to help you cut fuel bills and keep your home comfortable at the same time.

For your copy, check the square on the coupon.

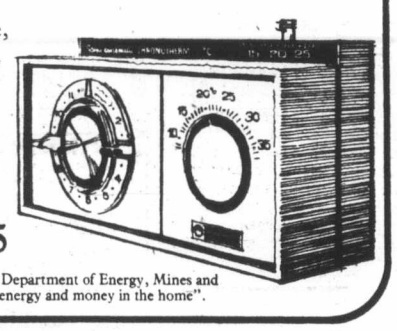

A new way to conserve home heat

The Thermoshell Chronotherm Thermostat by Honeywell can help you cut your annual fuel bill by up to 10%*.

Just lower the temperature setting before you go to bed. In the morning, the Chronotherm Thermostat automatically returns your home to daytime comfort. So you save fuel and still wake up in comfort.

It's so easy to install you can do it yourself. (Also available is a deluxe, fully-automatic model which should be installed by a qualified electrician.)

$39.95 (deluxe model — plus installation) $49.95

The Thermoshell Comprehensive Protection Plan – a wise investment

The Protection Plan can save you money because it provides you with:

- Parts replacement. When necessary, many parts essential to the operation of your heating unit will be replaced.
- Annual furnace inspection. An inefficient furnace can cost you a great deal in extra fuel bills. The annual inspection and cleanout will ensure optimum operating efficiency.
- Free labour. Our annual fee includes labour.
- Emergency service. Trained technicians are ready to service your unit, day or night.

With features like these, the Thermoshell Comprehensive Protection Plan could soon pay for itself in lower operating costs and peace of mind.

Drawing of proposed community centre in Duncan

$5.5 million community centre

Groups approve design

By CRAIG MEREDITH

DUNCAN — The architect designing the proposed $5.5 million community centre here has been given the green light, and a referendum is expected to be held in late December.

The proposed project received unanimous approval this week from the participating areas after Vancouver architect Vladimir Plavsic presented the preliminary sketches and cost estimates on the multi-faced facility building.

The approvl means the architect can now go ahead and complete his drawings. These, he said, should be ready in two or three weeks.

Participating in the proposed 154,000-square-foot community centre are the city of Duncan, the municipality of North Cowichan, the Cowichan Exhibition Society, School District 65 and two electoral areas — Cowichan Bay and Glenora-Eagle Heights-Koksilah.

On the first floor of the mainly concrete and steel structure will be an 850-seat theatre-style auditorium, a multi-purpose hall, ice rink, daycare centre, lobby - coffee shop, and an area for a small museum.

The second floor will have activity rooms for group seminars. Art and crafts facilities and an area for senior citizens.

The combination of facilities in the centre, which would be adjacent to Pioneer Park, will allow for greater participation by various levels of government in the financing of the community centre, and the centre could be used as a convention complex.

The lack of convention facilities near the centre of Duncan has held the area back in developing a year-round tourist industry.

It is estimated by the architect and committee chairman John Cannon that the recreation and conservation department would contribute up to $1,200,000 toward the project under the community recreation grants.

School District 65, which is interested in sharing the auditorium facilities and some of the activity areas, was received approval on a draft agreement from the education department.

Secretary-treasurer for the school district, William Brown, told the community centre committee this was a relatively new area of cost sharing for the education department, but, he said, he would be meeting with officials in Victoria on Friday to determine more accurately the department's contribution.

Cowichan Valley region administrator, William Symington, who has been acting as the administrative co-ordinator on the proposed project, said that federal financing is also being investigated.

The enthusiastic response to the conceptual designs, layout and cost estimates led to immediate discussion by the community centre committee on the date for the referendum.

A tentative date in March was suggested, but it was rejected after architect Plavsic estimated every month the project was delayed would increase the costs by at least $85,000 due to the inflationary trends in the construction industry.

Plavsic's most recent contracts include North Vancouver's Capilano College and a number of buildings on the University of British Columbia campus.

Part-wolf dog packs killing dogs, sheep

QUALICUM BEACH — Packs of part-wolf dogs have made it almost impossible for farmers to keep sheep and dogs in the Qualicum area recently, but a conservation officer hopes that the matter has been cleared up somewhat by a selective hunting policy.

Bram Van Herwaarden, a farmer near Qualicum, says he started out with 13 sheep this spring. Only two are left. The rest have been killed by the roving wolves, whose latest attack occurred just a few weeks ago. They also killed a farm dog about 100 yards from Van Herwaarden's home. Herwaarden estimates that he has lost about 30 sheep to the animals over the past few years.

Dan Lay, a hunter with the Fish and Wildlife Branch, says the wolves have a propensity for sheep and dogs. About eigh or ten dogs have been killed in the last year.

The problem, Lay says, is that the animals are not pure wolves, but have varying degrees of dog blood in them. "The true wolf only kills for food, but these animals appear to be killing just for the fun of it. We know that they play with dogs, worry them, and eventually just torture them to death and tear them apart. Sheep they kill and then leave in the pasture."

Lay has also been concerned about what the animals would do when confronted with humans. He has sent several dead animals down to the provincial museum for examination to determine just what breed they are.

The Fish and Wildlife Branch's response to the threat posed by the animals has been to poison, hunt and trap them, but Lay stresses that the Branch is not out to get wolves.

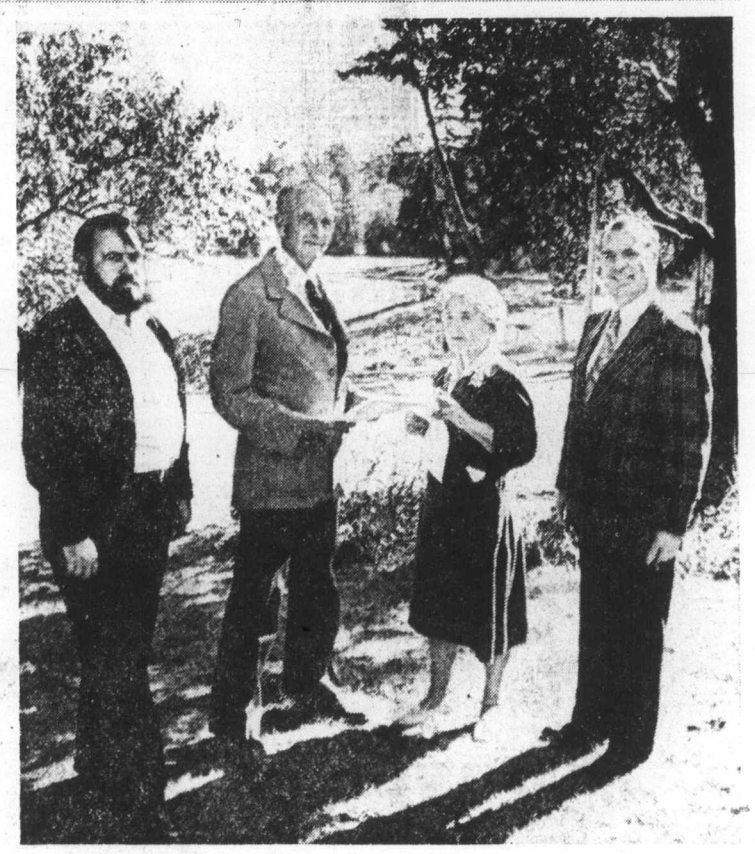

"We don't condone killing the pure wolves, and we don't like to do it ourselves. So far, none of the animals we have killed have been pure wolves, and I hope it stays that way."

"We have tried to eliminate as the part dog, part-wolf animals, however, because of the many problems they cause." Lay says the animals have been seen less frequently of late, and no killings of sheep or dogs have been reported. He attributes this partly to the fact that most of all of the dogs in the packs have been weeded out, and only the true wolves remain.

"People shouldn't think that these are pets that we've killed. They are wild animals, and nothing but a threat to domestic animals in the area."

The only way to really prevent the problem from occurring is for householders to keep their dogs at home, Lay says. "When the wolves start breeding with female dogs in heat, the problems start, and it's important for people to keep their dogs at home."

Lay says the problem that now exists in the area probably began on a nearby farm, where a farmer noticed a wolf on his property for several months. The animal never attacked any of his farm animals, but it did mate with a Samoyed - German shepherd farm dog, and the pups from that litter began to kill sheep and other dogs in the area, including one of the farmer's own dogs.

Resident donates scenic land

NANOOSE — A scenic eight-acre parcel of land along Craig Creek near Nanoose has been donated to the province by Mrs. Frank Wall, owner of the property.

The property adjoins the estuary of the creek, which is an important wildlife area, serving as a nesting and rest area for wildfowl and a habitat for numerous shoreline and marsh animals.

Mrs. Wall donated the property to the province in memory of her late husband. A house sits near the edge of the sea and overlooks the mouth of the creek, but most of the property, which consists of 8.2 acres, is underdeveloped

Mrs. Wall said, in transferring the deed to the property, that she hoped it would remain in as near a natural state as possible. The terms of the transfer call for the land to be used for park purposes in perpetuity.

Mrs. Wall reserves the right to live on the property for the rest of her life. She has lived on the land for 32 years, and is a lifelong resident of the Nanoose area.

Englishman River estuary controversy

By PAUL DE GROOT
Colonist Correspondent

PARKSVILLE — The owners of property along the Englishman River estuary near Parksville have notified the sponsors of a nature walk in the estuary that they will be trespassing if they go ahead with a field trip on Saturday morning.

Aldergrove Enterprises Ltd., owners of over 200 acres of low-lying land near the mouth of the Englishman River, have told George Transfield, president of the Arrowsmith Natural History Society, to stay off the property. Transfield and others, including Paul Smith, chairman of the Nanaimo Regional District, have scheduled the nature walk to raise public sentiment against Aldergrove's development proposal for the Flats, as they are called.

The immediate reason for asking the group to stay off the Flats is one of legal liability, says Arthur Knight, a spokesman for Aldergrove. "We have seen the notice in the paper of the walk, and we know it is going to be on our property. We could be liable if anything happened to anyone."

But the firm is irked about the proposal for a number of other reasons, says Knight, "not the least of which is that it has gone to great lengths to conserve the estuary in its own development plans, and that Aldergrove's proposals for conserving the Flat in their natural state or donating them for public use have been rebuffed by local governments."

Knight says Aldergrove's own efforts to date to save the Flats for their conservation value, or to encourage organized public use of the property include:

● A proposal to give the Village of Parksville all of District Lot 50, which comprises all of the Parksville waterfront between the public park and Englishman River, or over a half-mile of beach property totalling 60 acres in all. The village refused to accept the land, Knight says.

● An offer of 20 acres of land next to the community ice arena and hall for use by the school board in constructing a new secondary school, and adjacent playing fields. Knight says the board never acknowledged his offer. It has instead spent nearly $100,000 to acquire 13 acres of land in no better a location than the one he offered the board for the sum of $1.

● Environmental and planning studies on the site which have so far cost the company upwards of $30,000. The studies have been aimed at minimizing the effect of apartment and cluster housing on the estuary by defining the most critical areas. Research is continuing on the site, Knight says.

A preliminary plan has been drawn up which would leave about two-thirds of the Flats in their natural state, and would confine development to the southern part, which is higher and more densely wooded.

The plan calls for the creation of a public nature trail along the perimeter of the Flats, and preserves an island in the Englishman River as a wildfowl sanctuary. It would also create a large "conservation zone" on the Flats.

Of particular concern to Aldergrove Enterprises is the role which Paul Smith is playing, says Knight.

Most perplexing, Knight says, is the fact that Smith has access to the development proposals, which preserve all the critical environment zones, and yet he is insisting that the land must be "saved."

The newspaper articles which announced the field trip on the Flats was submitted to the papers by the organization sponsoring the nature walk, and published without checking some of the information it contained, Knight says.

Not only does the article contain a very slanted viewpoint, says Knight, but it contains some serious errors of fact. It would appear from the article that the local advisory planning commission recommended the Flats be set aside as a game sanctuary before Aldergrove came out with its development proposal, but in fact it was the other way around, Knight says.

The article also says the development appears to be in a flood hazard area. While the Flats contain a slough that does flood at times, this area has been preserved as a conservation zone, and would not be subject to development.

The "Save the Flats" group proposes that a dyke on the property be taken out to create an enlarged waterfowl sanctuary, a move that would soon prove to be very unpopular, says Knight. "They used to call them Mosquito Flats. A former resident of the area told me a black cloud of mosquitos used to hang over the swamp and make life in Parksville miserable at times. And you couldn't control mosquitoes in a wildlife refuge with DDT."

The public has taken the Flats for granted, Knight says, and Aldergrove Enterprises has not discouraged their sensible use by the public.

No hunting and no shooting signs on the property have been destroyed, however, and buildings on the property vandalized. An expedition on the Flats so designed to obstruct the property's owner's plans for it cannot be viewed very favorably, says Knight.

Knight says the land is zoned rural and is not in the agricultural land reserve. "We could legally divide the whole thing up into five-acre blocks and sell it. That would be the end of the estuary. But that's not what we want. We want to provide sensibly priced housing in the area at the same time that we preserve its value as a wildlife sanctuary, and continue its enjoyment by the general public."

"We've spent over $30,000 on research to see that the estuary is preserved, and we're prepared to donate two-thirds of the property for public use."

Chamber bids for grant

NORTH COWICHAN — A $25,000 study, examining the existing economic structure and employment in the Cowichan Valley, has received municipal council's endorsement.

The Duncan - Cowichan Chamber of Commerce, which is proposing the project, was seeking North Cowichan council's approval to bet the $25,000 under the Local Initiative Program.

The project, if approved by the department of manpower and immigration and the local member of parliament, will employ eight people for a period of eight months.

A chamber of commerce spokesman said the information gathered in the study would be analyzed and recommendations on a realistic policy of industrial business development would be made to the various local levels of government.

He also said it is hoped that recommendations would help reduce the adverse effects on the whole economy of the area brought about by the almost total reliance on the forest industry.

Parksville council's books in disarray, firm claims

PARKSVILLE — Parksville village council has approached an accounting firm in Port Alberni to handle its books, after a local firm said the village's books were in a state of disarray and could not be audited.

At a meeting early in September, council voted to terminate its contract with Anton Kruyt and Company of Parksville. Kruyt had said in the village's annual financial report that imcomplete records and incorrect accounting procedures made it impossible for him to audit the village's finances.

Two days after council voted to terminate its contract with Kruyt, it voted to appoint Ray Newman, of Newman, Hill, Duncan and Lacoursiere in Port Alberni, as its auditors for 1975.

Newman declined to comment Monday on whether or not he would accept the appointment. he noted that Kruyt can still appeal his dismissal, under the terms of the Municipal Act, and said it owuld be inappropriate for him to comment until Kruyt has indicated whether he will appeal.

Word on gas today—King

Labor Minister William King said Thursday he will make an announcement today on the provincial propane distribution strike.

Neither side in the 11-week dispute, which has left 1,400 Nanaimo consumers without gas, would comment at the close of the day's discussions, which also involved provincial mediator Peter Dowding.

Early this week, the Teamsters and Transport Labor Relations, representing the five gas companies, each rejected new proposals aimed at ending the strike.

King would give no indication what announcement he will make, but it is possible he could appoint an industrial inquiry commission.

North Island College appoints principal

CAMPBELL RIVER — The North Island College Council has appointed Dr. Dennis Wing, 44, as principal of North Island College.

Wing has extensive experience in continuing education in British Columbia and the United States. He is now assistant to the president at Lower Columbia College in Washington State.

While attending the University of Colorado in post-graduate studies, Wing was the recipient of a Kellogg Community College Fellowship and a Canada Council Doctoral Fellowship.

After completing the PhD program Wing held a position with the UCLA Community College leadership program as a researcher, consultant and lecturer. He then moved to his present position at Lower Columbia College.

Wing is the author of a number of publications in the field of community college administration. He was also involved in several research projects at the University of Colorado.

Camping available in winter

LONG BEACH — Winter camping will continue to be available at Greenpoint camping-ground at Pacific Rim National Park this winter.

But Park Superintendent Frank Camp said that only limited services will be provided. Water will be available in the vicinity of the campground, some firewood will be delivered, and dry privies will be on the site. No camping fees will be charged.

After Oct. 15, 91 sites will be available at Greenpoint.

Cougars and rivals scrambling to fill holes

Graduation of top scorers and goaltenders dictates rebuilding

By STAN COOPER

If ever there was a rebuilding year for the Western Canada Hockey League this is it.

No fewer than 10 of the top 15 scorers and nine of the 15 regular netminders last season have grraduated, many to professional ranks, and almost every team is still shuffling its roster.

Victoria Cougars are no exception and manager-coach Pat Ginnell, while confident his club will do well, admits it will be much tougher to succeed in the Western Division this season. Cougars breezed to their first-ever division championship last season, taking the lead in late October and never relinquishing it.

There are problems in Cougar country and they centre on Gord Roberts. The flashy defenceman who celebrated his 18th Birthday Thursday left the club about two weeks ago and reportedly signed a contract with New England Whalers of the World Hockey Association.

WHA chairman Ben Hatskin said Thursday the league has made a decision on the playing status of the Detroit native but said "there are a few things still to be decided" and no statement will be made until they are. Hatskin said he should have a full statement before the WHA opens its season, Oct. 9.

That's hardly encouraging to the Cougars, who open their campaign Saturday night at Memorial Arena when Calgary Centennials visit for an 8:30 game.

Cougars have announced they'll go to court to block Roberts' move to the WHA.

He will probably team holdovers Tim Williams and Lorry Gloeckner on Saturday and play Johnson with holdover Rick Peter while keeping rookie Ken Baeckert in reserve.

And Gerry Simpson, backup in the latter part of last season, will likely start in goal with Dan Rogers backing him up.

The forward lines will have Al Hill centering Danny Lucas, a 115-pointgetter last season, and Curt Fraser; captain Jim Gustafson between recently-acquired Jeff McDill and rookie Rick Durston; and the rookie unit of Kim Hilkewich working with Alvin Moore and Greg Anderson.

Rick Martin and Dennis Fenske are ticketed for spot duty.

Martin, Hill, Gustafson and Johnson are all 20-year-olds playing under the new overage ruling which allows each club to keep a maximum of four players a year older than the league limit of 19.

"Overage" players could have a bearing on the fortunes of many teams this season nad many rosters are incomplete as pro clubs haven't made their final cuts yet.

In the Western Division, New Westminster Bruins should be the Cougars' toughest opposition. Coach Ernie McLean has most of his Memorial Cup final squad back for another year but he has lost goalkeeper Gord Laxton and centre Barry Smith, perhaps the two key players in the drive to the playoff title and the national junior playoff.

Bruins have defencemen Barry Beck and Brad Maxwell returning along with top scorers Fred Berry, Kevin Schamehorn and Harld Phillipoff, Clay Pachal, Mark Lofthouse and Steve Clippingdale. And goalkeepers Kerry Nisbett and Carey Walker played well enough to backstop the Bruins to an 8-2 record in exhibition play, including four straight wins over the Cougars.

Kamloops Chiefs should have the best goalkeeping in the division with Mark Earp and Brian Henderson back but coach Harvey Roy lost a lot of muscle in Brad Gassoff and Neil Lyseng and the slick playmaking of defenceman Terry McDonald. Chiefs have Darryl Ferner back as an "overage" and have added 20-year-old centre Larry Lestander from Calgary.

Medicine Hat Tigers had three top players taken in the first round of the National Hockey League draft — Barry Dean, Bryan Maxwell and Greg Vaykik — so coach Jack Shupe has several position to fill. Shupe also lost goalkeepers Ken Holland and Jerry Farwell but he does have 82-goal scorer Don Murdoch, the 1975 rookie-of-the-year returning.

Edmonton Oil Kings lost goalkeeper Doug Soetaert, who played for the club during the last four seasons, and coach Doug Messier will be pressed to come up with a replacement. Messier has dipped into the ranks of Spruce Grove Mets, Canadian Tier Two champions, for many recruits.

Centennials have to be improved over their dismal 11-51-8 showing last season although coach Dave Amadio needs replacements for Don Ashby, Dennis McLean, and goalkeeper Lary Hendrick. Holdover defenceman Rick Hodgson would appear to be the best of the blueliners, and rookie Don Biault, a 190-pounder, should add muscle to the forward lines.

The Eastern Division race should also be a tussle this season with defending-champion Saskatoon Blades getting a stiff fight from Regina Pats, Lethbridge Broncos and Brandon Wheat Kings.

By STAN COOPER

Maybe they were there to see Marcel Dionne, maybe it was the Vancouver Canucks or it might have been a poor night on television.

Whatever the reason, a record crowd for hockey in Victoria — 5718 fans — was on hand Thursday at Memorial Arena to see Los Angeles Kings and the Canucks play a National Hockey League exhibition game.

If the fans turned out to see Dionne, the flashy centre recruited by the Kings in the off-season, they were probably disappointed as the former Detroit Red Wing sensation merely went through the motions.

But if it was exciting, although loosely-played, hockey the fans were after, they got their money's worth.

For the record, Kings scored a 6-5 victory, thanks to a fine individual effort by winger Tom Williams late in the third period.

Kings had a man advantage at the time but Williams beat two defenders with a slick move and whipped the puck past Ken Lockett for the winning goal. It came at 14:33, 80 seconds after Canuck captian Andre Boudrias was penalized for hooking.

Referee Lloyd Gilmour drew a chorus of boos for assessing the penalty, which came after winger Gene Carr made a spectacular performance of falling to the ice. Boudrias loudly complained his stick had merely brushed Carr's sweater but his argument was ignored.

Carr, a Nanaimo resident in the off-season, had scored a power-play goal in the first period to give the Kings a 2-1 edge after 20 minutes.

Bob Berry, Don Kozak, Vic Venasky, and Butch Goring were the other marksmen for the Kings, who brought their exhibition record to 3-2, the same as the Canucks.

Rick Blight, Dennis Ververgaert and Bob Dailey, best of the Canuck defencemen, also scored for Vanvouver.

Rogatien Vachon blocked 35 shots in the Los Angeles net while Gary Smith and Lockett combined for 37 saves. Lockett replaced Smith midway through the second period and gave up the final three goals.

Gilmour had an easy night of it, assessing only eight penalties, five to the Canucks.

The crowd, swelled by a number of charters from other Island points, broke the previous record by 285. On Jan. 25, 1958, 5433 fans were at the arena to see Victoria Cougas and Edmonton Flyers in a Western Hockey League game. That marked the first appearance in Victoria of Colin Kilburn after he had been fired as Cougar coach and replaced by Pat Egan.

Victoria Cougars of the Western Canada Hockey League came close to matching the previous record earlier this year when 5327 watched a playoff game against Kamloops Chiefs.

Points split may help Bombers and Argos

TORONTO — Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Toronto Argonauts helped each other Thursday night in another Canadian Football League game featuring a successful late rally.

This one didn't produce a winner, but the 21-21 tie brought the clubs a point which could well be the deciding factor in deciding playoff spots in their divisions. Both the Bombers and Argos are struggling to win the third playoff spot, and now the margin for the Bombers is three points, and for the Argos two points.

Rookie-import Steve Beaird was the star for the Bombers as they came from 7-21 to a tie with a 10-point fourth quarter. The stumpy running back, who scored on a 59-yard pass play in the second quarter to bring his club a 7-7 tie, crossed the goal-line at 12:34 of the fourth quarter after a 51-yard run to give Bernie Ruoff the chance to kick the tying point. Ruoff, who had kicked Bombers within hoping distance, came through with his 11th convert in 11 chances this season.

The rookie Canadian kicker missed a field goal from 25 yards in the third quarter but made amends later in the quarter by getting a three-pointer from 49 yards. Then he closed the gap to seven points at 4:11 of the fourth quarter.

Beaird was easily the game's most-effective offence player, carrying 17 times for 125 yards and adding 63 yards on two passes.

The Argos, desperately trying to rebuild in mid-season, were best served on attack by three newcomers. Quarterback Steve Joachim, added last week when released by Baltimore Colts of the National Football League, threw two touchdown passes, fullback Allan Bloomingdale got 75 yards in 10 rushes and went 51 yards after accepting a screen pass, and halfback Dick Morton scored once on a short run and once on a 12-yard pass play with Joachim.

The Argos, however, could only score in the second quarter, and were held well in check after their three-touchdown splurge.

World softball

Victoria Bate Construction manager Jack Bell was a little concerned Thursday after receiving the lineup of countries entered in the 1976 world softball championship.

Bates won the Canadian championship and the right to represent Canada in the world tournament which starts Jan 31 at Lower Hutt, New Zealand.

The other countries competing are New Zealand, the United States, Japan, Taiwan, Guam, the Phillipines, Mexico, Argentine and South Africa.

It's the inclusion of the latter team that has Bell concerned.

The Canadian government has strongly suggested that Canadian athletes refrain from entering into competition with South Africans because of that country's apartheid policies.

In September the Canadian Lawn Bowling Association announced it was pulling out of the 1976 World Bowls, scheduled to be played February in South Africa, because of the Canadian government's opposition.

The government pays the air fare for the softball team and Bell is hoping that South Africa's entry in the tournament won't cause the government to back down.

Bell said he is going to contact the Canadian Amateur Sports Association to find out what the government's position will be.

Swig gets clearance for Seals' takeover

MONTREAL (CP) — The National Hockey League confirmed Thursday that California Seals, under a group headed by San Francisco businessman Mel Swig, will open its season as scheduled next Wednesday.

The Seals and their new owners received the go ahead to open against Atlanta Flames in Atlanta following a day-long meeting of the NHL board of governors.

There had been speculation that the Seals, whose ownership had been transferred in late July to Swig from NHL trusteeship, would not operate because Swig had failed to put up a $1.5-million guarantee.

"In recent days, there have been published reports that Mr. Swig would not complete arrangements to purchase the team and, further, that the franchise might be moved to another city," NHL president Clarence Campbell said.

Campbell vehemently denied the NHL will operate the team if any further problems arise with Swig's financing.

"There is no way the league will operate the team again this season," Campbell said. "If this came about, we would grind down the operation entirely."

Swig plans to keep the Seals in Oakland for the next two seasons, playing at the 12,500-seat Oakland-Alameda Coliseum until construction is completed on a larger arena in San Francisco.

Flin Flon snatches victory

BRANDON (CP) — Centre Richmond Gosselin scored his second goal of the game with 20 seconds remaining in the third period to lift Flin Flon Bombers to a 5-4 victory over Brandon Wheat Kings in a Western Canada Hockey League game Thursday night.

A crowd of 2072 watched as the Bombers scored three unanswered goals in the final period to erase a 4-2 lead Brandon had held after 40 minutes of play.

The victory was the first of the season for the Bombers against one defeat. It was the first game of the season for the Wheat Kings.

Sabres acquire Flames' Richard

Going to the Flames was defenceman Larry Carriere, a three-year veteran of the Sabres' blueline corp, anl Buffalo's first-round draft pick in 1976.

Richard, Atlanta's first-round pick in the 1972 amateur draft, never has reached the potential expected of him after his final junior year with Quebec Remparts when he scored 71 goals and 160 points.

His best season with the Flames was 1973-74 when he picked up 27 goals and 43 points, tailing off last year to 17 goals and 29 points in 63 games.

Carriere, meanwhile, joined the Sabres mid-way in the 1972-73 season. He was picked in the second round of the previous year's draft after playing in the college ranks with Loyola University in Montreal.

Two-ball golf final today

Marjorie Cameron and Jean Rimmington of Victoria golf Club will meet Eileen Anderson and Edith McCormick of Colwood at Victoria Golf Club.

The Cameron-Rimmington duo topped Thelma Bydal and Shirley DeBellefeuille of Royal Colwood, 2 and 1, while the Anderson-McCormick pairing scored a 2-up victory over clubmates Joan Perks and Kathleen Craig in semi-final play Thursday at Gorge Vale.

Finals in the nine-flight competition will start at 8:30 a.m. and the championship event is scheduled for a 10:14 start.

Robin Sadler
. . . passes up $250,000

He just had no desire to be pro

VANCOUVER (UPI) — One week as a professional hockey player was enough for 20-year-old Robin Sadler, and he walked away from a $250,000 contract with Montreal Canadiens and wants to become a fireman.

"The way society is now," Sadler said Thursday, "the whole thing seems to be to make as much money as you can as fast as you can. But, really, money has never meant that much to me. I've never had it, and I don't crave it. It just wasn't that important. I can be happier doing other things even if they don't pay as much. And that's the main thing."

The former junior star, Canadiens' first draft choice this year, reached the decision after a week in training camp.

"I found it wasn't a game any more," he said. "It's a serious business — a lot more serious than I like to play. Talent is one thing and desire is another. If you don't have both, you're in the wrong place."

Sadler, the son of a well-to-do Vancouver real estate agent, was drafted and signed by Canadiens after scoring 32 goals and 61 assists with Edmonton Oil Kings to become one of the highest-scoring defencemen in the Western Canada Hockey Leeague last season.

He confirmed that the three-year contract offered by Montreal was about $250,000.

"But I had never always player you can't put out the wanted to be a professional player," he said. "It never really came into my mind. I know it's the dream of a lot of other fellows but I just found myself floating right into it.

"If you're not happy as a way you should. I was only hurting the team and myself as well."

Robin's mother, Mrs. Myrtle Sadler, said: "I was a little shocked by the decision. But if money doesn't mean that much to him, well, more power to the boy. He has seen a few cases where people with a lot of money were not that happy."

Mrs. Sadler said Robin phoned her twice from Canadiens' training camp — "and I could tell from the tone of his voice he was unhappy."

"Later I got a call from the Canadiens' coach, Scotty Bowman," she said. "He wanted to know what was wrong. He said Robin was playing well but he couldn't figure him out.

Now Sadler has applied to join the North Vancouver fire department as a $962-a-month probationary fireman. He may have to wait until he turns 21 next March to be accepted. After six months his pay would go up to $992 a month.

"But I don't think I'm going to have any regrets," Sadler said. "I want a slower, more relaxed life than I could ever have had in pro hockey. I want something that leaves me time for a life outside the job."

Britain's shrinking pound

As it drops close to $2, Mideast sellout and Labor militants take share of blame

£ £ £ £

By JOHN HAY

LONDON (CP) — Mystery money deals by a Middle East oil state and fears of a leftward lurch by Britain's Labor government may have been responsible for the drop of the British pound to an all-time low this week.

That is the view on the London money market, where the pound reached a record depreciation of 19.7 per cent from its 1971 value, measured against a basket of 10 other major currencies.

The pound traded Thursday at $2.03 in U.S. funds and $2.08 Canadian, its lowest ever. Dealers said only intervention by the Bank of England — the government's money manager — kept sterling from sliding further.

The pound has suffered a bumpy downhill ride throughout the year. But two new factors appear to have accelerated the trend, which makes British goods cheaper abroad and foreign imports costlier at home.

A rich Middle East oil state — some say Iran — is reported to be selling sterling in favor of French francs, possibly to finance an impending arms purchase from France.

Usual money market secrecy so far has concealed the facts, but heavy selling of sterling by at least one major holder is clearly continuing, and the franc has been rising — indicating somebody is bidding heavily in Paris.

France's own central bank has stepped in to buy U.S. dollars and sell francs to keep the value of the franc from rising too quickly.

Observers also attribute sterling's decline to the Labor party conference in Blackpool

Victim Rui Sa

MONTREAL (CP) — A senior police officer says police are 95 per cent sure that a bank robber who died after hijacking a school bus carrying 13 children Wednesday had shot himself and that the same bullet killed six-year-old Rui Sa.

Lieut. Emile Boire, head of the Montreal Urban Community police homicide squad, told a news conference Thursday this was one of the principal results of a preliminary investigation into the death of Denis Martel, 33.

'Best thing to do' in situation

"Our results indicate he shot himself, and the same bullet that killed him, killed the boy also," said Boire.

Earlier reports had indicated Martel was shot by a policeman following a 30-minute high-speed chase through the city's east end after an attempted bank robbery.

Boire said the police officer "apparently" did not hit Martel in the ensuing shootout after he commandeered school bus was halted when a police car rammed into it.

Boire said a 9-millimetre spent bullet, believed to have come from Martel's Luger automatic pistol, was found in the centre of the bus and is thought to have passed through Martel's head and hit the schoolboy.

When police arrived during a robbery at a branch of the Bank Canadian National, police said a gunman dropped a satchel containing $3,600 and ran to a bus which had stopped to take on elementary school children two blocks away. He then forced driver Claude Chaput to take him on a 10-mile route through busy streets at speeds of up to 80 miles an hour.

In a tape recording of the chase played to reporters, a police helicopter directing the operation gave repeated warnings not to follow the bus too closely, nor to fire at it because of the children inside.

Shaved jail terms out, Allmand says

OTTAWA (CP) — Solicitor-General Warren Allmand said Thursday Parliament probably will be asked to repeal a law that has the potential to reduce prison sentences by about 25 per cent.

Allmand also indicated that the law on habitual criminals, now seldom used, will be toughened. He was being peppered with questions about Denis Martel, 33, who abducted a school bus full of children in fleeing a bank robbery in Montreal Wednesday. (See story on left.) Martel and one of the children were shot to death during a gun battle with police.

Martel, who had a record going back to 1963, had been released from a federal prison Sept. 9 and would have faced trial this month for an armed robbery last February.

He had been released on $5,000 bail in February after being charged and was returned to prison for about four months to serve another portion of earlier sentences.

Even Montreal police were under the impression Wednesday that Martel was another homicidal parolee but Allmand and the national parole board said Martel wasn't on parole.

"He had reached the end of his sentence as calculated under terms of law," Allmand said. "He had to be let go. There was no choice."

"We're reforming this whole area right now. We hope to correct the abuses or weaknesses."

Martel was released because what is called earned and statutory remission had reduced the time he had to spend in prison from five years and 662 days to about four years.

He had been released under "mandatory supervision" — which means he had to see a parole officer regularly — in August, 1974.

A warrant ordering him back to prison was issued after he was granted bail in February, but he wasn't picked up until May. He was imprisoned but once again remission meant he had to be released Sept. 9.

Statutory remission covers about 25 per cent of a sentence. Earned remission, for good behavior in prison, can bring the total reduction to about one-third.

"We're going to retain earned remission," Allmand said. "It encourages prisoners to work, to learn something."

But statutory remission, a

Beer's back on tap

An informational picket line which has blocked the delivery entrance to Labatt's brewery for two days, was lifted Thursday afternoon and the beer trucks were on the road again.

The picket line, set up by frustrated and angry Nanaimo hotel owners and some of their employees, had threatened continued operations at 20 Greater Victoria pubs which rely on Labatt's deliveries for their beer supplies. About another eight taverns are closed because of a strike by drivers employed by Pacific Brewers Distributing.

Labatt's spokesman Bruce Thom said Thursday night the line was removed after an investigating officer with the Labor Relations Board talked to the pickets, but Thom said the men left of their own volition.

Labatt's applied to the board Wednesday, asking for an order to have its driveway cleared.

If the line had remained up, the brewery would have been forced to start laying off employees tolay.

The Nanaimo pickets were protesting the closure of many up-Island taverns as a result of the beer distribution strike.

Labatt's and other breweries make some deliveries directly to taverns in the immediate area of the breweries, but most beer deliveries are handled by Pacific Brewers.

Hostages freed from restaurant

LONDON (UPI) — Six hostages held by three men in the basement of a restaurant since early Sunday were released early today, climaxing a drama that began as bungled robbery attempt. The gunmen were brought out individually 20 minutes later.

Earlier Thursday, police arrested an Italian and a German and charged them with conspiring with one of the holdup men who had held the hostages for five days in a basement storeroom.

TRUDEAU HAT TRICK

6 pounds, 9 inches

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau beamed and passed out cigars after his wife Margaret gave birth to their third son early Thursday at Ottawa Civic Hospital.

"Don't take them all, I need some for cabinet," he told reporters when he arrived on Parliament Hill after waiting up most of the night for his new son's arrival. He was carrying a two-foot-long wooden box filled with Royal Jamaican cigars.

The baby, born at 2:30 a.m., weighed seven pounds, 14 ounces but Trudeau got things mixed up when he first called friends to spread the news.

"Six pounds and nine inches," he recalled saying at one point to those who were among the first to hear.

He acknowledged being "a little shaked" by the birth which kept him up until 4 a.m. and made him 10 minutes late for the regular Thursday meeting of cabinet. Normally, his grammar is impeccable.

Mrs. Trudeau, who appeared publicly with her husband Wednesday afternoon at the National Arts Centre, entered hospital about 10 p.m. The 26-year-old mother and the baby were doing "very well indeed," Trudeau said.

The Trudeaus, married March 5, 1971, in a secret ceremony at North Vancouver, have two other sons, both born on Christmas Day — Justin in 1971 and Alexandre Emmanuel, better known as Sacha, two years later.

No name has been picked for the latest son.

'Most unfortunate war'

President Ford and Japanese Emperor Hirohito exchange greetings during their White House meeting Thursday. Hirohito said he deeply deplored "that most unfortunate war" in which 1.5 million Japanese servicemen were killed. It's Hirohito's first U.S. visit.

Tighter control likely over U.S. TV inflow

MONTREAL (CP) — The government may impose tighter controls over the powerful influence of United States television in Canada, says Communications Minister Pierre Juneau.

In future, Canadians likely will see fewer programs from U.S. border television stations as the reorganized Canadian Radio-Television Commission takes action to shield domestic broadcasters from growing foreign competition, Juneau said Thursday. The commission is to have responsibilty for telecommunications in proposed reorganization to be proclaimed by Parliament during its next session.

Juneau, 52, was interviewed Thursday in a campaign office in the working-class east Montreal riding of Hochelaga, where he is seeking the seat of former communications minister Gerard Pelletier in a byelection Oct. 14.

The new minister quit a 26-year public service career Aug. 29, joined the Liberal party and moved into the cabinet from his post as CRTC chairman.

He said solutions to the conflict between broadcasters and cable television operators probably will result in "reducing some American influence but not keeping Americans off" domestic television screens. Broadcasters, who say they are losing advertising money because cable has increased competition from distant television stations, want the government to black out cable-carried programming that is simultaneously available on local channels.

Juneau
. . . violence pays

The CRTC has already ordered some cable companies to delete advertising from U.S. stations and substitute Canadian material, and the government has introduced legislation prohibiting domestic advertisers from claiming tax deductions for money spent on American border stations.

Juneau said the CRTC could work toward more extensive deletions of competing foreign programming and could even institute a rule banning all

Cabinet shuffle is near

By JIM HUME
Colonist Reporter

Speculation that a provincial cabinet shuffle is in the offing increased Thursday as the cabinet met for close to an hour beyond its normal time.

Premier Barrett refused comment on the reason for the extra-long meeting but other sources indicated that cabinet changes were on the agenda.

"I don't comment on topics discussed at cabinet meetings," the premier said.

For several weeks now there have been indications that Transport and Communications Minister Robert Strachan and Mines Minister Leo Nimsick would soon be stepping down from their cabinet posts. Last week in Trail Premier Barrett passed the comment that possibly his holding of two portfolios, that of premier and minister of finance, had outlived its usefulness.

Agricultural Minister David Stupich, a chartered accountant, has been suggested as the possible successor if Barrett relinquishes the finance post.

Since making his original statement during a radio hotline show in Trail the premier has refused to elaborate. Earlier this week he repeated that the dual cabinet post has possibly outlived its usefulness" but again declined to say when he would be step-

B.C. seeks free ideas for own TV programs

A television talent hunt geared to provide public TV programs over the CBC provincial network was announced Thursday by Communications Minister Robert Strachan.

Strachan said 13 half-hour programs would begin in prime viewing time some time during the 1977 TV season.

In an extensive newspaper advertising campaign, Strachan is inviting the public to submit ideas for programs to Communications Mandate, the official title of the project.

Strachan said the invitation to participate was open to all citizens and that all proposals would be treated confidentially. The proposals must not exceed 500 words and should concentrate on themes uniquely relevant to B.C.

A footnote on the newspaper advertisements notes "there will be no payment for any of the program proposals" nor is the crown obliged "to develop or produce any of the proposals received."

In a background paper released with the Strachan announcement the minister says: "The Mandate is to enhance the provincial communications environment through expanded and new use of the important media technologies of film, video tape and VHF television broadcast. The operational priority of Communications Mandate is to provide increased opportunities for local talent to participate in the production of program material."

Space hero recalls era's flight of fright

After the 1970 brush with death

By HUBERT BEYER
Colonist Reporter

Wearing a blue blazer and grey slacks, looking definitely unheroic, he strode into the old UVic gym Thursday to speak to about 500 students.

An official biography describes the 47-year-old astronaut as a "witty, relaxed person with a keen sense of humor and an endless fund of wisecracks."

With those attributes Lovell led his audience on a rerun of the most hair-raising journey of the space age — the ill-fated trip of Apollo 13 which lifted off April 11, 1970.

A master of understatement, Lovell recalled the moment when the already-battered space craft was about to orbit the moon.

An explosion had shattered two fuel tanks and one oxygen tank 100,000 miles from earth on the way to the moon.

When the craft approached the moon, Lovell recalled, he was furiously trying to figure out the chances for survival when his two fellow astronauts, Fred Haise and John Swigert, were busy with their cameras.

"What, gentlemen, are your plans?" Lovell recalled asking them.

"We're going to take pictures of the moon. You were here before, you know," they replied, referring to an earlier flight around the moon in which Lovell took part.

Crouched in the lunar module, the service module having been crippled by the explosion, the astronauts limped back to Earth while millions prayed for their safe arrival.

Coming in too steeply would transform the craft into ashes within seconds; coming in too shallow would make the ship bounce off the atmosphere into space on a journey of no return.

Jokingly, he said that ground controllers would have preferred the burning up of the craft to the bouncing off, but one got the impression that he wasn't joking at all.

"I guess I would have, too, rather than drift through space forever," he said.

At one point, he said they were informed by ground control that they would miss the atmosphere by 56 miles if they remained on that particular course.

The astronauts had to correct their course by visual means, a crude method at the best of times, but it worked.

The rest is history. They returned safely.

The future of space exploration, Lovell said, would be less glamorous than the past.

The new program will be called "earth resources." Unmanned space craft will scan Earth, determining crop expectations, predicting agricultural trends.

The recent joint U.S.-Soviet space venture marked the last of the manned space flights for the U.S. for quite some time, he said.

Today, witty, relaxed, reflective

Generosity may cost too much

Tougher guides eyed for tax exemptions

The city of Victoria may establish tougher standards for exemptions from property taxes because aldermen feel the city can no longer afford to be as generous as in the past.

The practice of granting certain organizations and clubs exemption from taxation of their property was criticized at a meeting of Victoria's finance committee Thursday.

Ald. Sam Bawlf said it might be appropriate to have a review made of how much tax revenue the city is losing through exemptions.

City manager James Bramley was unable to provide any detailed figures but said he would prepare a report.

The question arose after aldermen recommended property tax exemption for the Victoria Conservatory of Music and two other groups.

Ald. Bawlf observed that "these applications come before council in dribs and drabs and we have no idea of the total impact."

King
. . . day of talks

King move today on gas stoppage

Labor Minister William King said Thursday he will make an announcement today on the provincial propane distribution strike.

Neither side in the 11-week dispute, which has left 1,400 Nanaimo consumers without gas, would comment at the close of the day's discussions, which also involved provincial mediator Peter Dowding.

Early this week, the Teamsters and Transport Labor Relations, representing the five gas companies, each rejected new proposals aimed at ending the strike.

King would give no indication what announcement he will make, but it is possible he could appoint an industrial inquiry commission.

By NANCY BROWN
Colonist Reporter

The 21 club members have written the Colonist protesting extension of fishing periods for the seining fleet.

"We feel that entire runs of some rivers are being seriously endangered by this overfishing," they said in a letter.

The club is only a month old, but sponsor Paul Paquin said discussions at meetings were centring more on the theme of the extended fishing granted to seiners which is supposed to allow them to make up some of the income lost during their strike earlier this year.

Paquin hopes the club will be able to move more into the conservation field, although efforts for the moment are concentrated on the club's first fishing derby this weekend and next.

"A lot of the kids in the club are the sons and daughters of commercial troll fishermen in Sooke," said Paquin.

"They have heard their parents talk about their problems — apparently there are few fish for the taking the day that the seine fleet moves through."

But a spokesmen for the seine (net) fishermen believes the youngsters are acting without suffieient information.

"It's a good idea for these young people to be involved in what is going on around them," commented Scotty Neish, secretary-treasurer of the Victoria local of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union.

"But the thing is all they seem to get is the sports fisherman's story, without all the facts and figures to back things up."

Neish, who said he would be glad to speak to the club, said gillnetters and seiners take only about 25 per cent of spring salmon caught off the coast, and 40 per cent of the coho. Most of the fish are caught by trollers, he said.

He pointed out that sports fishermen are allowed to catch fish all year, while the seiners have a 90-day season during which they are allowed to fish only 21 to 30 days.

Fish conservation seems to come down to net fishermen, said Neish.

Truth, honesty for longevity

Mrs. Mary Chadwick, who turned 100 Thursday, claims the secret to her life has been a "truthful, honest, upright and God-fearing" nature.

It may also be due to a little "whiskey in my tea in the morning," she said with a smile.

Mrs. Chadwick, who came to Canada from Yorkshire after her husband died in 1921, lived in Vancouver before coming to Victoria where she has stayed since 1960.

Birthday cards lining mantel and tables came from all over the world and included congratulations and good wishes from the Queen. Flowers and a birthhday note from Victoria Mayor Peter Pollen were among the messages.

Mrs. Chadwick, who says she stood beside Queen Victoria at a public ceremony in about 1889, also remembers seeing her drive through the streets in a shimmering horse-drawn carriage.

During the First World War, Mrs. Chadwick took care of dozens of Canadian soldiers in England and helped find them housing while overseas. Her elder daughter married one of them.

She has out-lived this daughter, however, and most of her 11 brothers and sisters as well. A younger sister of 99 still lives in England.

Mrs. Chadwick's younger daughter is employed at W. and J. Wilson Ltd.

Chamber appeals on barges

In an 11th-hour bid to keep Canadian Pacific's international barge service operating between Victoria and Seattle, all levels of government were asked Thursday by the Greater Victoria Chamber of Commerce to oppose the company's plan to discontinue the service on Monday.

The service, which started in 1956, operates twice weekly and carries about 15 railway cars between the two centres.

Chamber manager Brian Small said the end of the service will deal a terrific blow to Victoria industries that use the barge run. Lumber, plywood, shingles, shakes and veneers are among the products shipped to the U.S. by the rail-equipped barges.

A letter from the chamber to CP's regional vice-president in Vancouver said the impending closure of the barge operation "points out to us the CPR's callous indifference to Vancouver Island's well being."

The letter also observed that many of CPR's present assets were "culled" from Vancouver Island.

A CP spokesman said from Vancouver the barges are leased by the company and costs have increased to the point where the run is "totally uneconomic to operate."

He said the company had the alternative of closing operation or increasing freight rates by such an extent the industries using the service would no longer use it.

Teachers open talks

The first round of southern Vancouver Island teacher negotiations under the new zonal bargaining system took place in Victoria Thursday, but a teachers' spokesman said the talks were purely "exploratory."

Under the new legislation brought in this spring, teachers in the Victoria, Saanich, Sooke, Cowichan and Gulf Islands school districts are bargaining together for new contracts.

Teacher spokesman Frank Mather said another session will be held next Friday, when the teachers will present their proposals to the trustees' negotiating committee.

Wage demands for the south Island zone haven't been set yet, Mather said.

Mike Berg, president of the B.C. School Trustees Association, said in a press release that teachers have fragmented the 13 bargaining zones established by Education Minister Eileen Dailly by deciding to bargain directly with their boards. He called this their "divide and conquer strategy."

Give us a Place – residents

City cutting it Close on Finlayson block

Next Monday residents of the 1400-block Finlayson will be living on Sara Close but they really want to live on Finlayson Place.

In all, eight city streets received new names with the final reading of a bylaw by council last Thursday.

Jack Calve of 1478 Finlayson expects to deliver a petition to city hall this week with signatures from the 15 affected householders.

Every one, he claims, wants the name change, if necessary, to be Finlayson Place.

The thing that annoys Calve is that residents were informed only Wednesday that the change would take place Monday.

"I've just ordered a new letterhead," Calve said.

But city engineer John Sansom, who regrets the short notice, said it was unavoidable if the new addresses were to be included in next year's phone book.

Apparently the name change bylaw would have been enacted earlier in the year but got lost with disruption in administration through the CUPE strike-lockout.

Sansom said it would take another three or four months for council to pass another bylaw renaming the street a second time, "by which time everybody will be used to the new name."

Cash-in attacked

The policy of giving cash awards to city employees who don't use their sick leave came under attack Thursday from Victoria aldermen.

But as in previous instances, after some grumbling, the aldermen approved payment of $26,000 in accumulated sick leave to six former city employees.

Normally paid only at the employee's retirement, the $26,000 in this case went to people who were transferred from the city's employment to provincial jurisdiction.

Leading the list of recipients was former city assessor Jack Ozard who will get $7,126 for not having been sick as often as benefits entitled him to. His assistant Cranston Browning will get $5,852.

Four other former assessment department employees will receive $3,473, $3,816, $2,803 and $2,803.

Ald. Robert Ellis said the system of accumulated sick leave seems to be based on the odd assumption that "if a guy is lucky enough to remain healthy, he should be paid extra for it."

Ald. Sam Bawlf said the accumulated amount was startling.

City Manager James Bramley said the system was adopted some years ago to deter people from staying away when they might possibly come to work.

Sick leave is paid on a graduated scale—12 days a year for the first five years, 18 days after that and 24 days after 15 years of service.

Employees can bank 50 per cent of the unused portion of their sick leave. After 10 years of service, they may claim 75 per cent of the accumulated sick leave in cash up to a maximum of 26 weeks or 130 working days.

Man convicted in seizure-and-sex case

A jury of 10 men and two women deliberated less than 90 minutes Thursday before finding a former Victoria man guilty of committing a sex crime with one high school girl and attempting to seize another girl in a similar incident.

The jury found Martin John Kellington, now of Kamloops, guilty of the attempted seizure of the second girl and of abducting the first girl for the purpose of forcing her to have illicit sexual intercourse, then indecently assaulting her while holding her at gunpoint.

The verdict against Kellington, who was remanded in custody for sentencing next week, was handed down after a four-day trial before Mr. Justice Craig Munroe in B.C. Supreme Court in Victoria.

Evidence suggested the two incidents which led to the charges had been committed by the same man, who had approached the girls in a red Toyota, brandished a gun, and ordered them into the vehicle.

The first girl was approached while she waited for a bus on a street in the Gorge area of Saanich.

She said the man in the car — whom she identified in court as Kellington — pointed a gun at her and told her to get in.

She refused to, she testified, and the man put the gun on the seat beside him, then motioned her forward with his hand.

She approached the car, she said, at which point he asked her if she would have sex with him.

She turned from the car, she said, and joined an even younger girl who had come up to the bus stop.

The man in the car then drove off, she testified.

A short while later, a red Toyota slowed to a stop beside two high school girls who were jogging along Tillicum Road.

One of the girls crouched down behind a parked vehicle, evidence indicated, while the other got into the car.

The driver then drove the girl for nearly an hour around the area, stopping twice in different school grounds, where he at first attempted to rape the girl, after asking her if she preferred to be raped or killed. ("I don't want to die," she answered.)

He then committed an indecent assault, finally releasing her near the home of the girl with whom she had been jogging when she was abducted.

Both incidents occurred last March 20.
